CRUSH POLITICS IN RELIEF WORK, PRESIDENT SAYS

Be 'Hard Boiled' on Spoils, He Orders.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Politicians of every stripe who try to muscle in on the easy money of the New Deal were roundly condemned today by President Roosevelt.

The President's remarks, addressed to the assembled state directors of his National Emergency council, provided the most frank arraignment of spoils politics he has yet uttered.

Promising "1,000 per cent backing" by the administration if they stepped hard on any politician who tried to obtain a personal or political advantage out of any relief activity, the President adjured the state directors to be "hard boiled" in their attitudes.

The directors will have direct supervision over enforcement of the NRA and the AAA in the various states, as well as the dissemination of information to the public on all phases of the New Deal activities.

Sees Prosperity on Way.

In his indictment of politicians—and the President, conceding that in some instances his relief program had "fallen down," blamed 90 per cent of these failures on political causes—Mr. Roosevelt went still another step along his road of revolutionizing the prevalent political systems in the United States.

In his remarks to the state directors of the NEC, President Roosevelt also expressed a most optimistic attitude on the progress of the New Deal toward prosperity. He cited the evidence given by a railroad president with whom he conversed to the effect that the increased freight traffic on railway lines showed gains in all industries and in all sections of the country.

The President's statement to the directors said:

"One of the most difficult tasks that I know anything about is to get around and avoid the results of certain perfectly normal and natural human impulses—impulses based on selfishness and which take certain forms well known to most of us, either the purely personal form of trying to get special authority or special credit for individual applause or aggrandizement.

Puts Finger on Type.

"Another thing we run into is the idea, the thought on the part of some people, of trying to make political capital out of relief work, out of the building up of what is in many ways a new theory of the relationship not only of government to citizen but also the relationship between employer and employé—the problem of taking care of human needs.

"Where we have fallen down in these last months I would say in about 90 per cent of the cases the falling down has been caused, quite frankly, by individuals who try to get either personal or political credit out of something that ought not to have either of those factors in the work in any shape, manner or form.

"This work has nothing to do with partisan politics—nothing at all. A great many of you are Republicans, a good many are Democrats—quite a number do not belong regularly to one party or the other. We are not the least bit interested in the partisan side of this picture.

Truly National Enterprise.

"We do want you to be absolutely hard boiled if you find any local person within your own states who is trying to get political advantage out of the relief of human needs and you will have the backing of this administration 1,000 per cent, even if you hit the biggest political boss in the United States on the head, in carrying out this general program.

"I think it is awfully important for the country to realize that relief—the carrying out of principles of the National Recovery Act, the carrying out of public relief works and other ramifications—is based on a conception that is far beyond local politics or the local building up either of a political machine or a party or personal machine.

"So that is one of the things you will have a hard time in fighting. I think you will be able to get the help and enthusiastic support of at least 90 per cent of the people within your own states if that idea can be thoroughly and completely gotten across at the very inception of your work.

"People are going to rush to you with all their troubles. That will re-

STATE LIQUOR BOARD ALL SET FOR THE TAXES

Picks Secretary; Acts to Enforce Law.

BY PERCY WOOD.

At its first meeting yesterday the Illinois liquor commission named a secretary and set up machinery for the immediate collection of the state tax on alcoholic liquors. The meeting was held at 33 North La Salle street.

Appointed late Thursday by Gov. Horner, the commissioners are Arthur S. Smith of Bloomington, chairman; Col. Albert A. Sprague and Milton J. Foreman, lieutenant general of militia. As their first act the three named former Congressman James McAndrews secretary. An assistant, or executive secretary, will be named next week.

Names Collection Agency.

Intent upon providing immediate revenue for the state which, under the provisions of the liquor bill, is expected to reach $6,000,000 annually, the commission deputized the department of finance to act as its collection agency.

Retailers of liquor were directed to pay their $50 annual license fees at the state finance department's office, 30 North La Salle street. A state license will then be issued, providing the applicant has purchased a Chicago retail liquor license. The state law designates Mayor Kelly as Chicago liquor commissioner, and it was assumed that the city license would be the only requirement at present for the issuance of a state license.

The liquor taxes and license fees will go into the liquor revenue division of the finance department's offices and a clerk will be appointed for the Springfield and Chicago offices.

Beyond these preliminary decisions the committee did not act. Chairman Smith explained that it is the purpose to put the law into operation first before the commission sets up standards for manufactures or exercises its other broad powers.

Asks for Coöperation.

"We believe the liquor bill a good one," Chairman Smith said, "and we ask the public to work with us in making its operation successful. One thing I can assure them, we're not going to put an army of snoopers to work peeking in keyholes. That passed with prohibition, and never again do we want prohibition.

"The commissioners should act as advisers. If the law does not work out in all respects, I believe it is our business to counsel with the legislature and ask that it be changed. It should promote temperance, and it will if honest administration of the law will bring that about."

Chairman Smith is only 34 years old. He does not drink hard liquor, but likes beer—"four bottles a day, if that's of any interest." Born in the coal fields of Grundy county, Mr. Smith was first a grocer and later a wholesale baker, his present business in Bloomington. He has never held public office before and only recently became interested in politics. As one of a group of young Democrats in McLean county supporting Gov. Horner in 1932, he was largely credited for the vote given the governor in that section.

Is "Sold" on the Governor.

In a crisp manner yesterday he announced that he hadn't asked for the job and had discouraged friends who pushed him for political positions.

"I took it," he explained, "because I'm so sold on the governor that I'm willing to devote four years to helping him enforce this liquor law. I'm not after the money the job pays and I don't need it. Nor am I bound by any political ties. But if I last in this position I'm going to make a decent effort to put this thing over."

Meanwhile, at a conference in the city hall, officials were trying to interpret the provisions in the new law governing the licensing of bars. Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph F. Gressman, Ald. Terrence F. Moran [16th], chairman of the council license committee; George Lohman, deputy city collector, and Henry Wilson of the city license department were the conferees.

They puzzled over section 21 of the bill which holds that "no restaurant licensed as such shall sell liquor except with meals." One interpretation was that no one could buy a drink except with a meal in taverns that have restaurant licenses.

The next question which naturally arose was "What is a meal?" It was pointed out that a customer might

NEW RADIOPHONE FOR TRAINS; SEE END OF WHISTLE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company today announced that an experimental five meter radiophone system has been installed on a regular freight train of the New Haven railroad.

If the radiophone is developed successfully the conductor in the caboose and engineer can talk the same as you would talk over the telephone.

This will eliminate the present system of wig-wagging signals of brakemen stationed at points along a long train or of whistle signals from pulling and pushing engines.

The engine antennas are placed on the front of the engine and are connected with the transmitter and receiver in the cab by means of two transmission lines. The caboose antennas are on the sides of the caboose.

Ship Battles Gale 35 Days; Defeats Death

ST. JOHN, N. B., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The steamship Svartisen, "probably lost" two weeks ago, made port today.

It sailed from Grangemouth, Scotland, Dec. 30 and battled stubbornly for its life against storms and ice 35 days before it reached this haven. Capt. O. Jentoft, middle aged Scandinavian, brought the vessel through.

The Svartisen, a 2,000 ton collier, ordinarily makes the crossing in 16 days. The waterfront marveled today that it had made it at all.

The Svartisen ran into storms as soon as it sailed. Driving gales smashed seas against it day after day. On some days, going full speed ahead into the wind, it scarcely made a mile.

Steering Apparatus Cracks.

A steel shaft in the steering machine cracked. For two days the Svartisen was steered by hand. Then the hand gear went. The ship rolled helplessly in the trough of the titanic seas, which threatened to swamp it. Capt. Jentoft ordered the rudder lashed fast.

"A loaded ship can always be managed if you're careful," he explained today.

For four days the ship drifted. The men fought their way through the cold water which swirled across the decks to lash heavy planks along the sides of their vessel. These helped break the impact of the waves, but still gratings and deck fittings were carried away.

While the vessel drifted, Capt. Jentoft and his men worked day and night with a chisel and a hand file—the only tools available—to save themselves. Their problem was to repair the steering machine. Using the file and the chisel, they cut a shaft to replace the broken one.

Runs Into Ice Fields.

"It was a difficult job replacing the shaft," Capt. Jentoft said. "We had no machine to work with—only the chisel and the file—but we kept at it every minute for four days and nights, and then it was done. Everybody on the ship took a hand at the filing."

So the Svartisen got under way again.

But off Newfoundland it ran into huge fields of ice—and more gales. The Svartisen slowed down to a crawl while lookouts kept unceasing watch against the danger of collision.

When it made port the Svartisen had 130 tons of coal left in its bunkers. The ship is not equipped with wireless, so it could not have called for help.

"But," said Capt. Jentoft, "there was never any time we thought we could not make port. Nothing happened. It was just a sort of rough passage, that's all."

IDLE USE ROPE TO INTIMIDATE CWA SUPERVISOR

Walker, Minn., Feb. 2.—(AP)—A group of 19 men armed with a rope threatened violence today to Edward Braddock of Brainerd, a CWA supervisor, when he refused to put them to work on the Gull lake airport project near Brainerd.

The men had been assigned to the job by the Cass county NRA office and told to report today, but when they arrived Braddock said he had all the men needed.

The group went to the home of Ernest Whipple, Pillager, member of the NRA county committee. They showed Whipple a rope and are alleged to have said they would hang Braddock unless he put them to work. Whipple induced the men to wait until he could call Westie Jensen, county NRA director.

The result of the call was an order from district NRA headquarters at Bemidji that the men should show up Saturday and draw CWA wages regardless of whether Braddock gave them work.

Vidal failed in not one but three subjects, and told his brother Juan about it.

Ex-Air Chief Is Arrested on Senate Order

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—William P. MacCracken, former assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, was under technical arrest tonight for contempt of the United States senate.

The senate ordered the former official, now a Washington attorney, taken into custody following his admission today before the special committee investigating air mail contracts that he had permitted the removal and possible destruction of files which the committee had ordered produced.

On the strength of the warrant issued tonight by Vice President Garner he will be brought before the bar of the senate, probably next Monday, to explain why he allowed officials of Northwest Airways and Western Air Express to enter his office last night and remove letters which he had earlier refused to bring before the committee.

Former Chicago Resident.

MacCracken is a former Chicagoan, former assistant attorney general of Illinois, and former assistant state's attorney of Cook county. He served in the air service during the war and in 1926 was appointed to the newly created position of assistant secretary for aeronautics in the commerce department. Since his resignation from that office in 1929 he has practiced law in Washington, numbering among his clients many air lines receiving postal subsidies from the government.

When summoned yesterday to testify before the Black committee, investigating charges of fraud and favoritism in the granting of air mail subsidies during the Hoover administration, MacCracken declined to produce correspondence demanded of him on the ground that it was confidential as between lawyer and client.

Senators Austin of Vermont and White of Maine, Republican committee members, upheld MacCracken's contention, and the matter was taken under overnight advisement by Committee Chairman Black [Dem., Ala.].

Permits Removal of Letters.

Appearing today before the committee, MacCracken informed the senators that Col. L. H. Britten, executive vice president of Northwest Airways, and A. G. Given, assistant to the president of Western Air Express, had come to his office, and with his consent and that of Frederic Lee, his law partner, had removed letters from his files.

He explained that he had waivers from both air companies permitting him to bring correspondence before the committee, but that Britten and Given had certain memoranda in his files which they felt they had a right to remove before the files were produced.

Britten later told Senator Black that he considered the documents he had removed as of no importance and so had destroyed them. Given said he had sent the papers he had taken to H. M. Hanschue, president of Western Air Express in New York.

Removal Follows Subpœna.

MacCracken admitted the removal of the papers had occurred following the issue of the committee subpœna requiring the files' production. And it was brought out that the removal had taken place in the evening or at night, since committee investigators were in the MacCracken law offices throughout the day.

At the committee session, on hearing the testimony, Senator White bluntly told MacCracken, "It was a fool thing to do. It creates a very embarrassing situation for some of us who have been looking favorably upon your claim that the documents were privileged communications. We assumed that there would be no change in the files while this matter was before the committee. This testimony comes as a shock and surprise."

The case of contempt of the senate in which a conviction was had was that of Harry F. Sinclair, who served 60 days in jail for refusal to testify in the oil lease scandal inquiries.

NEW HEARING ON KIDNAPING SET FOR FEB. 13

Jurors in Deadlock After 26 Hours.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

Hopelessly deadlocked after deliberating nearly twenty-six hours, the jury in the Factor kidnaping trial was discharged by Judge Michael Feinberg at 6:20 o'clock last night. The final ballot of the jurors was eight to four, with the majority reported in favor of conviction.

Immediately after declaring a mistrial, Judge Feinberg, at the request of State's Attorney Courtney, set Feb. 13 for the beginning of a new trial to determine the guilt or innocence of the three Touhy gangsters who are charged with the kidnaping of John Factor.

State Quick to Agree.

The ready agreement by the state to the declaration of a mistrial was believed to be due to the fact that when the jurors informed the judge of their final vote they declared that they stood "4 to 8" on a guilty verdict. This was taken to mean that only four jurors were in favor of a conviction. It was later asserted, however, although no juror was quoted, that the majority were in favor of finding the defendants guilty.

The early date of a retrial was set over the protests of Defense Attorney William Scott Stewart. The state insisted upon an early trial, however, in the hope that Factor, who is a wealthy speculator, may still be kept here to testify. His extradition to England to stand trial on charges of fraud has been postponed several times in order that he might testify at this trial.

State Not Discouraged.

"The state is not discouraged," declared First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley, who presented the state's case. "Every effort will be made to bring these men to justice despite this unfortunate conclusion."

The defendants—Roger Touhy, Gustave Schaefer, and Albert Kator—were openly jubilant at the outcome of the trial, although they will be kept in jail without bond pending a second trial.

"The jury should have been kept out until a not guilty verdict was reached," declared Touhy. "Our names should have been cleared."

"What is your opinion of Factor?" he was asked. Factor had identified the three defendants as members of the gang that kidnaped him last July 1 and released him 12 days later after $70,000 ransom had been paid.

Just Mistaken, Says Touhy.

"He was just mistaken," said the gang leader, mildly, but Kator broke in hoarsely.

"He was just a damned liar," he declared, vehemently. "I hope he gets what he deserves when he gets back to England."

"I never saw Factor before in my life," continued Touhy, who did not take the stand during the trial to make that assertion to the jury. "That is, before I saw him at the St. Paul trial."

[Touhy and three other members of his gang were acquitted in St. Paul of the kidnaping of William Hamm Jr., a brewer.]

Factor Is Disconsolate.

Factor stood in the rear of the courtroom, disconsolate, as the jury was discharged.

"It is a sad travesty upon justice," he asserted, "that a jury cannot be found to declare these men guilty of a crime which they undoubtedly committed."

Upon their discharge the jury hastened immediately to their quarters and began packing up for their return home. Most of them had been locked up for more than two weeks. They refused to discuss their deliberations.

The decision of Judge Feinberg to dismiss the jury came after repeated queries had convinced him, he said, that they would never reach a unanimous decision no matter how long they were locked up.

Jury Takes Twelve Ballots.

The judge said that twelve ballots had been taken by the jury. The first vote was an even division, six to six, which was later changed to seven to five and then to eight to four, he reported.

"After they reached the eight to four vote there was never a chance of any further change, according to my information," the judge said. "If they had been kept locked up for a week the vote would have remained eight to four."

The jurors were first questioned by the judge at 1:30 p. m. yesterday after they had been locked up for twenty-one hours. Summoned into court, they strode into the jury box, a sullen group. Several were flushed with anger.

Defendants Are Fearful.

At that time the defendants, unaware of the results of the balloting, were obviously fearful of a verdict and displayed none of the desire for an erasure of a stigma from their names which they expressed after the mistrial had been declared.

Attorney Stewart reassured the defendants, whispering to each of them: "No verdict yet."

Roger Touhy's face was pale and his eyes bloodshot, but he brightened when he learned that the jury was still undecided.

"Good! Good!" he whispered back to the lawyer.

Judge Feinberg then inquired of the jury foreman, Henry Beck, 1835 South 49th avenue, Cicero, a solemn man of about 60, gray haired, gray mustached, if there was any chance of an agreement.

"We have not been able to agree concerning any of the defendants," answered Beck wearily.

Duty to Reason.

"It is the duty of a juror to be willing to reason with his fellow jurors on any question which may arise," the judge told the jurors. "The court still entertains the hope that you may agree upon a verdict. You will retire and continue your deliberations."

With glum faces the jurors again entered the jury room. Nothing more was heard from them until 4:50 p. m., when they informed the judge, through Bailiff Louis Greene, that they were still deadlocked. Thereupon the judge prepared a written communication which was sent in to the jury room. It read as follows:

"Without indicating whether the jurors are for conviction or acquittal, will the jurors please advise the court, so that it may know whether any reasonable opportunity for an agreement exists, how they stand, as to each of the defendants, Touhy, Kator, and Schaefer?"

Division of 8 to 4.

Half an hour later the bailiff returned with the announcement that the twelve men were divided, 8 to 4.

Almost the entire period of deliberations had been devoted, it was learned, to a consideration of the testimony of the Rev. Joseph F. Weber, Indianapolis priest, who was the principal witness to testify in behalf of Touhy. The jurors wrangled for hours over the value of Father Weber's evidence.

The priest had testified that on July 8, 1933, when Factor was still missing after being abducted, July 1, he had interviewed Touhy and asked him if he had kidnaped Factor. Touhy's reply had been an emphatic denial, the priest said, and this evidence apparently carried great weight with several members of the jury.

Picture of Jury Room.

Some idea of the picture in the jury room during the long hours of bitter argument was carried to the waiting courtroom by the bailiffs who entered the jury room at intervals. The twelve angry men glared at each other through cigaret smoke. They were tired and disgruntled, worn and disgusted, but the two opposing groups clung stubbornly to their opinions.

Several were obviously exhausted when the final summons came which ended in their discharge from duty.

"The court is convinced," Judge Feinberg declared, "that it would be useless to keep you gentlemen together any longer. The court deeply appreciates the sacrifice made by you gentlemen who have been kept from your homes and families for two weeks. It believes you have made a real effort to come to a decision.

"It is an extremely unfortunate conclusion, however. But these are matters over which neither the state nor the court has any jurisdiction."

Courtney Presents Plea.

State's Attorney Courtney then presented his plea for an early retrial. Attorney Stewart objected.

"I don't know whether I'll be in this case again," he protested. "There is the matter of whether my clients have enough money to go on. I think a reasonable interval should elapse before there is another hearing."

"This case is not an ordinary case; it is one of vast public interest," Judge Feinberg reminded him. "The state is entitled to a guilty verdict if it can prove its case and the defendants are entitled to a not guilty verdict if they can prove their innocence. The court must recognize the fact that the state may have difficulty in holding its witnesses and it is therefore entitled to a quick trial."

After the judge set the retrial for Feb. 13 Attorney Stewart indicated that he might ask for a change of venue from Judge Feinberg.

No investigation of the jurors is contemplated, the state's attorney's office announced last night. The final vote of eight to four recalled, however, the fact that Defense Attorney Stewart accepted the last four jurors tendered by the state without asking them a single question. The 12 jurors in the order of their selection were:

JOSEPH J. KOOP, 47 years old, 4934 Grace street, special order clerk.

GEORGE W. HOSTLER, 63 years old, 6415 South May street, gravel roofer.

HENRY BECK, 50 years old, 1835 South 49th avenue, Cicero, storekeeper.

JOSEPH UNGER, 48 years old, 1930 North Lowell avenue, hardware salesman.

WILLIAM J. GORMAN, 48 years old, 5051 Waveland avenue, traffic manager.

WILLIAM M. BURGMAN, 36 years old, 3309 Carroll avenue, sign painter.

CHARLES SAGER, 44 years old, 1934 West High street, Blue Island, railroad engineer.

HENRY BOROWSKI, 25 years old, 5122 George street, wood carver.

J. E. JAMISON, 55 years old, 3931 West 60th street, a plater.

ORVILLE KINCAID, 43 years old, 14719 Main street, Harvey, railroad car inspector.

Believe Great Britain Will Delay Factor Extradition

John Factor, who is scheduled to appear this morning before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan to surrender on a warrant holding him for extradition to England for criminal prosecution, will in all probability be permitted to remain in Chicago to testify at the second kidnaping trial of the Touhy gangsters.

This was the opinion expressed last night by federal officials who said they were certain that the state department would delay Factor's extradition pending completion of the second trial, which is scheduled to begin Feb. 13. No definite announcement was made, however, pending a conference this morning between representatives of the British crown and the United States department of justice.

Routine to Be Taken.

"The routine to be taken will be as follows," Leo J. Hassenauer, first assistant United States attorney, said. "This morning United States Attorney Dwight H. Green will telephone the department of justice in Washington; that department will confer with the state department and the final decision will be up to the secretary of state."

There were several reasons, however, for believing that Factor would receive an additional stay. One was that Joseph B. Keenan, assistant United States attorney general in charge of the criminal division, has repeatedly urged the necessity of the government coöperating with the states in the drive against organized crime, particularly kidnaping. Also the government is interested in pressing the Touhy prosecution following its unsuccessful attempt to convict the same gang in the Hamm kidnaping in St. Paul.

Franklin R. Overmyer, attorney for the British crown, has indicated several times that Great Britain does not intend to rush Factor to England if such action would interfere with the prosecution of Chicago gangsters.

Faces Fraud Charges.

Factor is charged with defrauding British investors through stock schemes. He was first arrested on a warrant issued by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. Then Federal Judge George A. Carpenter ordered his release at a habeas corpus hearing. The British government appealed to the Circuit Court of Appeals where Judge Carpenter was reversed. Factor appealed to the United States Supreme court, which ruled that Factor's offense was extraditable.

The British government has consented to three continuances in order that Factor might testify at the trial of the Touhy gang. A hearing of the extradition case was scheduled for yesterday but was continued until today on Overmyer's motion.

A HOLDUP VICTIM PURSUES BANDITS AND SLAYS ONE

Albert De Witt, operator of a filling station at 4459 Cottage Grove avenue, shot and killed an unidentified Negro bandit last night.

The Negro and a companion, both about 25 years old, entered his station and robbed De Witt of $16. Both carried revolvers. They fled on foot to an automobile which they had parked in 45th street and drove eastward toward Drexel boulevard. De Witt seized a revolver and followed them to the street.

As the car drove away he emptied his magazine, containing twelve shots, at it. One of the Negroes jumped from the car, ran back to Cottage Grove avenue and southward. De Witt got an automatic pistol and followed.

One of his shots struck the Negro in the leg. The fugitive turned and raised his own gun and De Witt shot him in the chest. The man died 15 minutes later in the Provident hospital. The other bandit escaped after a minor collision with another automobile in Drexel boulevard.

TRAYLOR GAINS; WITHOUT DOCTOR FOR FIRST TIME

For a short period last night, and for the first time since he was stricken with pneumonia three weeks ago, Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, was without the immediate attendance of a physician.

This was pointed out by his friends as an indication of how much he has gained in his fight in recent days. However, Mr. Traylor's condition is still critical. Since he became ill he has had at least one and quite often two and three doctors at his side. Last night Dr. Carl Johnson, who had been in continuous attendance, left the Traylor home at 426 Barry avenue for a half hour. It was the first time Dr. Johnson had been out of the house and the first time Mr. Traylor had been left without a doctor at hand.

Dr. William R. Cubbins, spokesman for the doctors attending the patient, said that Mr. Traylor's temperature was normal, his pulse 100, and his respiration 24 to 26. The banker's mind was much clearer, he said, and his general condition was "infinitely better" than had been expected.

KIDNAPERS STILL HIDE FATE OF THE ST. PAUL BANKER

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The sixteenth day of silence by the kidnapers of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, passed today as the family of the abducted man waited, ready to pay the $200,000 ransom for his return. Other than the first ransom note, received a few hours after Bremer was seized Jan. 17, no word has been received from the gang.

N. Y. Ballistic Expert, Once Called to Chicago, Dies

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Stanley F. Gorman, police detective and ballistic expert, died here today at the age of 48. At the time of the St. Valentine's day massacre in Chicago, when seven gangsters were murdered, he was sent there to make records of the bullets for police files here.

$155,000 TAKEN BY BANDITS IN 3 BANK ROBBERIES

Policeman Killed and 3 Other Men Shot.

Penns Grove, N. J., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Four bandits held up two messengers of the Penns Grove National Bank and Trust company here today and escaped with $130,000 in cash.

The money, intended to cash pay roll checks of the Du Pont de Nemours company plants near here, was all in bills of small denominations. It had been sent by registered mail from the federal reserve bank in Philadelphia.

Four miles outside of town the car in which the robbers fled was found abandoned on a little traveled back road.

The holdup took place just before 9 a. m. Harold Anderson, a teller, and William Waddington, janitor of the bank, returning from the postoffice with the money, stopped their car before the bank.

Two armed men confronted them, struck Waddington with a revolver, and seized a mail pouch and two sacks of money. They walked to another automobile, manned by two more gunmen, and dashed from the city.

Shoot Four in Boston.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Four bandits killed a policeman and shot down three other men this morning as they robbed the Needham Trust company of $14,500.

Raining lead from a submachine gun, sawed-off shotgun, and two automatics, they fled down the little suburban community's main street with two officials of the bank clinging to the running boards of their car as enforced human shields.

Roused by the sixth successful major bank holdup in Massachusetts in as many months, the combined police agencies of that state pushed tonight a highly organized search for the bandits.

Enter as Guard Lunches.

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Four armed robbers held up the Union Trust company branch bank at 12:30 p. m. today and escaped with about $12,000. Upstairs sat Camille Schoolnester, the bank guard, eating his lunch and unaware of what was happening below.

Rangers Battle Robbers.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Three carloads of gunmen whom officers sought to question about the $24,000 robbery of the First National bank of Coleman and kidnaping of six employés, who were later released, staged a fight with Texas rangers on the streets of Blanco tonight, eluded pursuers, and later disappeared between Johnson City and Dripping Springs.

Ranger Captain James Robbins and two men met the caravan while driving from Blanco to Johnson City. The officers turned back and followed the cars into Blanco, where they headed them and opened fire with machine guns on the main street. The bandits wheeled around and, in a hail of bullets, sped toward Johnson City, outdistancing the officers.

Dillinger Reindicted as Step Toward Sure Death Penalty

Indiana yesterday continued its efforts to make certain that members of the Dillinger gang of desperadoes are given the full measure of punishment for their crimes.

At Crown Point the heavily guarded John Dillinger was reindicted by the grand jury for the murder of Policeman William Patrick O'Malley during a holdup of the First National bank of East Chicago on Jan. 15. This action was taken because Prosecutor Robert G. Estill feared that the former indictment, hastily drawn, did not make it imperative that a death sentence be imposed in the event of conviction. The state law makes a death sentence mandatory when murder is committed by an armed robber.

Formal Arraignment Delayed.

This legal formality caused the formal arraignment of Dillinger to be delayed to Monday at 2 p. m. He will be represented by Attorney Joseph Ryan of Indianapolis. Attorney Louis Piquett of Chicago has been withdrawn from the case.

At Michigan City penitentiary it was announced that five members of the gang, all confined there, would be turned over to the authorities at Lima, O., as soon as the formal requisition for their custody is made to Gov. McNutt. The men, Harry Pierpont, Charles Makley, Russell Clark, Edward Shouse, and Harry Copeland, are all charged with the murder of Sheriff Jess Sarber at the time they raided the Lima jail and released Dillinger.

State Insistent on Death.

Technicalities of the Ohio law, it was said, made it impossible to demand the requisition for two weeks. Wayne Coy, secretary to the governor in penal matters, said that Indiana wished to aid in sending the gang to a state where a death penalty could be imposed. In the event of Ohio's failure to execute them, he said, they would be brought back to Michigan City and compelled to serve their full terms.

Pierpont has been identified by several witnesses as the slayer of Sheriff Sarber. He, Clark, Makley, and Shouse were all in the band of ten whom Dillinger helped to escape from the prison on Sept. 25. Copeland was a parole violator who associated with them after the escape.

While awaiting the Ohio action prison officials are striving to get the true story of the group's sensational break for freedom.

"Mystery Woman" in Case.

A strange episode in the Dillinger case was an effort, made yesterday afternoon by a young woman, to interview the bandit chieftain in his cell. She arrived in Crown Point in a taxicab, announced that she was Janet Harcourt, a representative of the New York Herald-Tribune, and tried to brush past the guards.

She was taken before Prosecutor Estill, however, and questioned. Dissatisfied with her story, he communicated with the New York newspaper and learned she was not an employé. He also learned that she had agreed to pay the cab driver $16, while she had only $2.50 in her purse.

Traced in Chicago.

Later the woman announced that she was Mrs. Josephine Hunt, wife of Capt. Jonathan Hunt, U. S. A. She mentioned a number of prominent Chicagoans with whom she was acquainted. The Chicago police learned she had made several borrowings to pay cab bills and also that she had tried to borrow money from Miss Louise Groody, star of "The Curtain Rises" at the Cort theater.

Miss Groody said that she recalled meeting Mrs. Hunt only once previously in New York. She was introduced to her and Capt. Hunt, the star added, by John Harriman, socially prominent New Yorker.

Capt. Jonathan Hunt was a Yale graduate in 1914. He is the son of the late Richard Howland Hunt, architect, whose second wife was a sister of Mrs. Oliver Harriman Jr. Capt. Hunt was married in 1914 to Gertrude Donovan, a cabaret singer.

Richard Carley Hunt, a brother of the captain, said in New York last night that the latter and Josephine De Pre were married about 1929 and were divorced a year ago. Since that time the family has not been in touch with her, Mr. Hunt asserted. Capt. Hunt married again in the last year and is now in charge of a CCC camp in New England.

The Dillinger visitor was turned over to the Chicago police and brought to the detective bureau. Unable to fathom her motives in trying to see the bandit, the police held her while further investigation is being made.

MANUFACTURERS FORM PURE FOOD LAW COMMITTEE

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Formation of a joint committee for "sound and democratic" consumer legislation to oppose the so-called Tugwell bill was announced today at a luncheon at the Hotel Biltmore by a group of manufacturers in the food, drug, cosmetic, and other fields.

The joint committee intends to promulgate authoritative information to the public on pending consumer legislation, and to investigate and report on constructive and democratic legislation to protect the consumer, Lee H. Bristol, vice president of Bristol-Myers, Inc., asserted.

"We are in hearty accord," Mr. Bristol said, "with the intent of the so-called Tugwell-Copeland bill—to protect the public and reputable manufacturers and dealers from fake nostrums, adulterated foods, and harmful cosmetics, but we are opposed to the form of the bill."

ALCORN FOLLOWS SANKEY BACK FOR KIDNAPING TRIAL

Gordon Alcorn, the railroad fireman who turned kidnaper in search of easy money, was started back to Sioux Falls, S. D., yesterday to be tried in federal court there for the abduction of Charles Boettcher II., wealthy broker of Denver, Colo.

Alcorn, last of the gang sought for the Boettcher kidnaping, was placed aboard "The Sioux," a train on the Milwaukee railroad, at 5:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It was the same train on which Alcorn's chief in the kidnaping plot, Verne Sankey, was sent back for trial Thursday after his arrest in Chicago and his confession to the crime.

Held in Private Car.

The desperado was placed aboard a private car after his arrival in the midst of a flying wedge of 13 department of justice agents who endeavored to avoid reporters and photographers. Alcorn, shabbily dressed, tried to hide his face behind a battered suitcase.

The removal order was signed by Federal Judge John P. Barnes when Alcorn confessed his part in the kidnaping after his arrest late Thursday night in an apartment at 3125 Addison street, where he had lived with his wife, Birdie, since Sept. 22.

Federal agents revealed yesterday that further search of Sankey's apartment had brought to light a letter that indicated that Sankey and Alcorn had planned to seize Boettcher a second time. They expressed the belief that a quarrel between Alcorn and his former chief over the division of the $60,000 obtained in the first kidnaping halted the second attempt. Alcorn said that he received only $19,000 of that sum.

Girl Gives Clew.

Information that led to the arrest of Alcorn, it was revealed, was gained in questioning Helen Mattern, 28 years old, who had been living with Sankey in an apartment at 4062 North Kedzie avenue. Ten agents of the division of investigation, heavily armed, went to the Addison street apartment shortly before midnight.

An agent knocked on the rear door of the apartment and Alcorn's wife, who later disclaimed any knowledge of his criminal career, admitted the raiding squad. Pushing into the bedroom the agents found Alcorn in his pajamas in the bed.

"I've been expecting this," Alcorn told the agents, and submitted quietly to arrest. Search of the apartment revealed one .25 caliber pistol and $10 in cash. Alcorn said that he had spent his share of the kidnaping loot and was looking for a job.

Speaking with a lisp, the supposed desperado readily admitted his part in the Boettcher case, but denied any part in the kidnaping of Haskell Bohn of St. Paul, Minn., to which Sankey confessed, or any other crime.

After his arrest and confession Alcorn was taken to the office of the department of justice and questioned.

Moved Under Guard.

Later in the day he was taken before Judge Barnes, where he did not oppose his removal and was ordered to Sioux Falls.

A copy of the letter found in Sankey's apartment, which agents said indicated that Sankey had planned a second kidnaping of Boettcher, was made public yesterday. In Sankey's handwriting the unmailed letter gave instructions concerning the payment of ransom.

Although names had been deleted, it apparently was to have been sent to some one with whom the kidnapers had dealt with in the Boettcher kidnaping after the victim had been seized a second time.

"We will not treat him as nice as before," the letter said. "You and him have made plenty of innocent people suffer over that deal and we will see that you and yours suffer this time unless you do just as I say. There is to be no perfumed money or new bills as they were last time. You are to pay in old bills of 10 and 20 and only I will make arrangements as to delivering it so there will be no chance of you or your police catching us at that time or place like you did before. . . . If any one gets near our hide out . . . . will be the first to die."

Confessed Kidnaper Sankey in South Dakota Prison Cell

Sioux Falls, S. D., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—With Verne Sankey, the kidnaper often called "America's public enemy No. 1," in a secure prison here and his principal assistant on his way to South Dakota as a captive, United States officials banked tonight on a speedy conclusion to the Charles Boettcher II. kidnaping case. They likewise expected the forthcoming prosecutions to end an abduction career of more than a year.

Sankey, chief of the gang which held the wealthy Denver broker for $60,000 ransom, remained under strict guard in the state penitentiary.

Federal District Attorney Olaf Eidem said tonight that unless Sankey demanded a hearing at some other place the trial would be at Pierre, as the Sankey ranch headquarters is in the Pierre court district.

Mr. Eidem said that he would obtain a trial at the earliest possible time even though a special term of United States court should be required for that purpose.

Mrs. Sankey, who was living at the home ranch, has been taken into custody and is being held in jail here in default of $75,000 bail since the capture of her husband. Police feared she might jump the $5,000 bond under which she was originally placed. She is to be tried in the Boettcher kidnaping.

Sankey, gambler, railroad man, bootlegger and South Dakota rancher, smiled as he arrived this morning and remained cheerful to the time of his occupying his new steel quarters.

While at the county jail for two hours Sankey was forbidden to see or talk to Mrs. Sankey.

Sankey found little chance to chat, except to guards.

To Maintain Guard.

"I feel fine," he observed while in the jail where a reporter found him. "I can't talk right now," he replied to questions about his case, "but perhaps a little later I will have something to say."

Before entering the big gates Sankey was permitted by his heavily armed guards to pose for a picture in front of the prison.

Two deputy marshals are to guard the desperado 24 hours a day until the case is settled, whenever that may be. Officials indicated that unless Sankey pleads guilty, he and Mrs. Sankey and Gordon Alcorn will be tried at the same time as co-defendants on the conspiracy charge.

Federal Judge A. Lee Wyman fixed Sankey's bond at $100,000. Federal officials said this figure would be pushed to $500,000, if necessary, to keep Sankey behind the bars.

"It must have cost at least $100,000 to catch him," District Attorney Eidem averred, "and we won't take any chances on him getting away again."

JURORS IN LIFE INSURANCE FRAUD TRIAL LOCKED UP

The case of Machir J. Dorsey, former millionaire insurance promoter, and five other men charged with conspiracy to obtain $1,555,000 by false pretenses, was given to a jury at 9:30 last night by Judge Benjamin Epstein in the Criminal court. The trial started a month ago today.

At 11:30 the jurors filed into court to ask Judge Epstein this question: "Does a verdict of guilty cover all the counts?" Judge Epstein sent the jurors back with a suggestion to reexamine his original instructions. When no further word came from them by 12:30 o'clock this morning Judge Epstein ordered them locked up for the night.

Defendants with Dorsey are Attorney John H. S. Lee, Bertram Day, C. Edwin Johnson, Edwin Hult, and Harry W. Huttig. All but Lee are accused on eighteen counts. There are only eight counts against Lee. When the case went to the jury all but Huttig were in court.

The state charges that the defendants imposed $1,705,000 in mortgages on a Waukegan property actually worth no more than $150,000, and then dumped these mortgages into two companies controlled by Dorsey.

WED SIX YEARS AGO; WERRENRATHS HAVE THE TIE REAFFIRMED

Reinald Werrenrath, concert singer, and his wife, Verna, were re-wed last night in a churchlike ceremony which he described as a "reaffirmation of marriage."

The Werrenraths were married in a civil ceremony at Weehawken, N. J., six years ago, but the atmosphere was disappointing to the bride who had wanted a wedding veil, orange blossoms and organ music. And so, unknown to her, the baritone arranged for the "reaffirmation of marriage" ceremony.

Mrs. Werrenrath arrived in Chicago yesterday, and was taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Brayton Witherell, 511 Bryant avenue, Winnetka. At 7 o'clock last night, to the strains of organ music, the Werrenraths were remarried by the Rev. Gardner MacWhorter, former assistant rector of St. Luke's church.

Mrs. Werrenrath wore a white evening gown, and a long bridal veil held in place with orange blossoms.

Present were the Witherells, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Weary, Mr. and Mrs Holden K. Farrar, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas MacMillan, and Dr. James Turner, all of Winnetka. Because of illness, Arthur J. Witherell, 82 years old, father of the host, could not attend. The Werrenraths will live at the Ambassador hotel.

Evanston to Celebrate Eightieth Anniversary

Today is the eightieth birthday anniversary of the incorporation of Evanston as a village. The original town on the site of the present city was founded in 1849 and was known as Ridgeville. The name was changed when the land now occupied by the Northwestern campus was added to the territory and the village charter taken out. This was on Feb. 3, 1854.

HEARS NEW SUIT OF AUTHORESS AGAINST GRAHAM

Mrs. Alma Anderson Asks Injunction.

A hearing on a new suit involving one of the settlements which Ernest R. Graham, noted Chicago architect, made with Mrs. Alma Newton Anderson was held on Thursday before Master in Chancery Harry Smitz, it became known yesterday.

In this suit, as in four others which have brought the couple into the courts to settle differences which allegedly occurred when they broke up a ten year friendship, Mrs. Anderson is the complainant. She asks an injunction to prevent Graham from changing the beneficiary of an annuity bond under which the Canada Life Assurance company is scheduled to begin paying Mrs. Anderson $300 a month next May 1.

The pleadings in the new suit make no mention of a conspiracy case in which Mrs. Anderson sought $500,000 from the architect and which was dropped last year, but they trace all the "final" settlements of Mrs. Anderson's claims which Graham has made.

Suit Filed a Year Ago.

The action in the suit thus far has been brief. It was filed in January, 1933, shortly after the conspiracy case was halted. It was assigned to Superior Judge John P. McGoorty, who referred it to Master Smitz.

At the first hearing, on Thursday documents, including the disputed annuity bond, and a number of letters exchanged between Mrs. Anderson and Graham were introduced into evidence. It was decided to begin the taking of evidence next Wednesday.

The pleadings assert that in 1925, after their parting, Mrs. Anderson told Graham he "had a certain moral obligation toward her." It was at this time, according to Mrs. Anderson's testimony in the conspiracy case that Graham married Mrs. Ruby Leffingwell of Chicago.

According to Graham's cross bill, he then paid her $30,000, and obtained a release from her claims. The cross bill charges that the claims were "unlawful" but explain that Mrs. Anderson had promised upon receipt of the settlement to "make no publicity" for Graham.

Makes New Settlement.

After this settlement Mrs. Anderson went abroad but returned in 1927 and made new claims upon Graham. At that time he paid her $11,000 in cash and purchased an annuity bond from the Canada Life Assurance company which paid her $500 a month for seven years. Recently the novelist's borrowings against this bond caused the insurance company to ask the courts to determine to whom the money should be paid. This suit, in the federal court, is pending.

Graham's cross bill asserts that after the second settlement Mrs. Anderson went to California and stayed a year, then returned and for the third time made claims upon him. These were settled, the bill stated, for $15,000 in cash and the second bond.

In her bill of complaint Mrs. Anderson says that the second annuity bond was not purchased according to an agreement reached with Graham.

TWO DIE WHEN PLANE CRASHES IN STORM; ONE IS CHICAGOAN

Richwood, W. Va., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Edward B. Taylor, 37, of 4137 North Leclaire avenue, Chicago, and Dr. George H. Liebel of Cincinnati were killed today when their airplane tailspined in a snowstorm and crashed in a field near Hinkel mountain, five miles northeast of here. Dr. Liebel was the pilot.

The two were flying to Cincinnati from New York when they were caught in the snowstorm, one of the worst in this section this winter. Apparently they ran out of gasoline. Witnesses said that the ship circled a field as if to land, then went into a spin and crashed. Dr. Liebel was hurled from the plane before it struck. Mr. Taylor was crushed in the wreckage. Both men wore parachutes, but made no attempt to leap.

Dr. Liebel was part owner of the Liebel-Flaisheim company of Cincinnati, manufacturers of X-ray machines. Mr. Taylor joined his company a few weeks ago as sales manager of the Chicago district. In Chicago he leaves a widow, and three children, Edward, Judson and Carolyn.

Broker Killed by Auto Fumes; Accident Blamed

William L. Steinmiller, 49 years old, 2041 Morse avenue, an insurance broker with offices at 175 West Jackson street, was found dead yesterday of carbon monoxide poisoning in a private garage near his home. His wife, Helen, found his body. Police believe that Steinmiller was accidentally overcome while working on the engine of his car.

Alderman Bauler's Trial in Shooting Set for Feb. 27

The trial of Ald. Matthias [Paddy] Bauler [43d] on a charge of assault to kill Policeman John J. Ahearn was set for Feb. 27 yesterday by Judge Donald S. McKinlay. Policeman Ahearn was shot during a brawl in front of Bauler's tavern at 343 West North avenue on Dec. 19. Deputy Sheriff Frank Wright was also wounded in the shooting.

100,000 FARMERS HAIL DOLLFUSS; PARADE IN VIENNA

Nazis Hurl Stench Bombs as Procession Passes.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Feb. 2.—The little Austrian chancellor, Engelbert Dollfuss, wrote his reply to Adolf Hitler's taunting note, refuting charges of Nazi interference, along the streets of Vienna today. He mobilized over 100,000 peasants, all members of the Lower Austrian Farmers' association, and brought them to Vienna in 85 special trains. Every one of these peasants is a Catholic, a staunch Christian Socialist, a sturdy supporter of Austrian independence and an enemy of the Hitlerites.

For two hours today they paraded around the ringed avenues which circle the capital's business district in dark phalanxes. Each group was headed by a brass band. The peasants assembled at the east side railway station. There they were reviewed and addressed by Dollfuss and their leader, Herr Reither, who is also governor of Lower Austria.

Nazis Throw Stench Bombs.

Dollfuss told the peasants he will leave nothing undone to preserve Austrian independence. His message drew loud acclamations.

The demonstration failed to stir great enthusiasm among Viennese burghers. Nazis, on the sidelines testified to their presence by throwing smoke and stench bombs. They also placed annoying contraptions in the way of trains which rolled into Vienna loaded with peasants.

The parade of the peasants was a good show. Clad in sheepskin lined jackets and cockaded green hats, the farmers began arriving in town in the wee hours on milk trains. The Viennese seemed to appraise the parade for what it represented as political strength for Dollfuss.

Drown Out Bomb Explosions.

When the procession passed Kaerntner Ring two bombs were thrown. White smoke arose and the police scrambled in an attempt to capture the Nazi who had thrown the bomb. The bombs, however, were harmless and did not halt the parade. The noise of their explosions was drowned out by cries of "Heil, Dollfuss."

The marching peasants told their wants and grievances in huge banners they carried. Several banners merely said, "Heil, Dollfuss." Others said "Austria for Austrians," "For Our Faith and Race and Our Country," "Freedom and Independence for Austria," and "No Foreign Hands on Our Beloved Country."

The demonstration, it is agreed, raised the Dollfuss' stock in his fight for an independent Austria.

Tyrol Still Turbulent.

Meanwhile, the troubled situation still existed in the Tyrol where the government claims to have discovered a Nazi revolt conspiracy in the nick of time. Thirty-five Heimwehr [Home Guard] patrol groups have been organized there. Eight hundred armed men are holding Innsbruck which is turbulent with wild reports emanating from Nazis in Munich, just across the frontier. Dr. Richard Steidle, Austria's minister of propaganda, sped to Innsbruck today.

Chancellor Dollfuss and his advisers today were still considering what action to take to Hitler's reply to their protest. It seemed likely to be that of submitting complete documentation of Austria's case to a special session of the league of nations' council, which would be asked to act.

Dollfuss government officials today said the constitution of Austria will be changed within a few weeks. They declared constitutional reforms, introducing the guild system in Austria, will be ready for submission to popular approval some time after Feb. 15.

ASK CLUBWOMEN TO HELP FIGHT SMOKE NUISANCE

A campaign to enlist 70,000 clubwomen, affiliated with the Municipal Art league, in carrying to the small home owners of Chicago the league's 34 year old fight against the smoke nuisance, will begin at once, Paul Schulze, president of the league, declared yesterday at a meeting of the board of directors in the Union League club.

"So far as the power and industrial plants are concerned," Mr. Schulze said, "the city department of smoke inspection and abatement is efficiently carrying on its program of education in proper stoking of furnaces. Its regular staff has been augmented by the employment of nearly 200 Civil Works administration workers. This field is well taken care of.

"We must show home owners how to bank their coal so that a draft will be created that will burn the smoke. The small home owner needs only a shovel that will pass through the furnace door. With this, and proper knowledge, he can burn Illinois coal.

"The Chicago fuel bill for one year is 150 million dollars. The minimum saving through the use of Illinois coal and proper stoking would be approximately 37 million dollars. This saving would be put in the pockets of small home and apartment owners."

AN OUTSTANDING RESIDENT SOUGHT FOR LAW AWARD

Selection of Attorney General Otto Kerner as chairman of a jury of three to award the Illinois Law Enforcement medal of the United States Flag association, was announced yesterday. Other members of the jury are John H. Wigmore, former dean of the Northwestern university law school, and T. P. Sullivan of Springfield, superintendent of the Illinois State Bureau of criminal identification.

The jury has been chosen by the national officials of the Flag association at Washington, D. C., to select the individual who during 1933 made the outstanding contribution to law enforcement in Illinois. The Flag association recently established the medal to be awarded in each of the 48 states.

Any person who believes he might be entitled to the medal is invited by the officials of the Flag association to write to members of the jury. Claims and recommendations should be forwarded to Attorney General Kerner before March 1.

GERMAN POLICE KILL FOUR REDS "TRYING TO FLEE"

Stool Pigeon in Treason Case Murdered.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—A communist blackhand is ordering murders in Germany, according to charges made by the German press today in reporting the death of one of its own stool pigeons and the killing of four communists. The four men, police said, were shot down while attempting to escape from a police car into a wood near Berlin.

The murder mystery began with the death of Alfred Kattner, a carpenter. He was shot to death at daylight in his home near Nowawes, Brandenburg, by an unidentified person who forced his way into Kattner's flat.

Star Witness Killed.

The carpenter's death disturbed the police, for he was to have been the state's star witness in the treason trial of Ernst Thaelmann, former communist leader and candidate for president at the last election. Kattner was a communist, but police admit he had turned state's evidence. The communist party had ordered Kattner to proceed to Moscow. He refused. Then "secret communists placed him on the black list and he was killed," declares Der Angriff, the official newspaper.

The GSP (German secret police) claimed that the four slain communists, who were imprisoned in Berlin, had knowledge of the murder committed at Nowawes. Among them was John Scheer, known as "Jonny," who became the communist chief after Thaelmann's arrest and until his own arrest.

Scheer, with Erich Steinfurth, Eugen Schoenhaar, and Rudolph Schwarz, was placed in a police car with guards to be brought to Nowawes to testify concerning the Kattner murder. Reports of what happened differ. Some claim the communists escaped into the woods near Nowawes when the car broke down. According to this version, they started to fight the pursuing police and the four men were shot down. Others insist the prisoners started to fight in the car, then fled and were shot down. Berlin police officials declare Potsdam police know the details. Potsdam police say Berlin police have the accurate story.

Liebknecht's Death Recalled.

The death of Scheer and his comrades was similar to that of Karl Liebknecht, the communist who was shot while "attempting to flee" in 1919.

Georgi Dimitroff, Wassil Taneff and Blagoi Popoff, Bulgarian communists acquitted in the reichstag fire trial, were transferred today from Leipzig to a Berlin prison "for technical reasons." Leo Gallagher, Los Angeles attorney who interested himself in the case, left Germany today. German police had refused to extend his stay after an order had been issued directing him to leave the country as an undesirable alien.

Third Religion Envisioned.

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—(AP)—A new Germanic cult—a religion with a "German" heaven and a dogma replacing the Bible with Nordic myths—was envisioned today as an equal of Protestantism and Catholicism.

Since last July 30, when about 100,000 Hitlerites who consider themselves religious but disavow Christianity, held a convention in Eisenach and declared their responsibility "for our Germanic origin before the divine reality," the movement has grown apace.

The appointment of Alfred Rosenberg, head of the Nazi foreign policy division and a bitter anti-Semite, as supervisor of all organizations, including church bodies, taken over by the Hitler party, led to the belief in church circles that the "third religion" will eventually be accorded the dignity of official recognition.

Rosenberg is the author of the widely read book, "The Myth of the 20th Century," in which he decries Christianity, and church folk believed he might stress the Germanic cult in the training of German youths and workers, with a result that the nation may be turned away from Christianity.

RUHR WORKERS TO JOIN BOSSES ON "SOUP SUNDAY"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—The district of Wuppertal, in the heart of the Ruhr, has devised a specially effective way of observing "Soup Sunday" on Feb. 4. It will be the fourth "Soup Sunray" in Nazi Germany. Employers and workers alike will jointly partake of their Sunuday meal in the factories.

The cities of Barmen and Elberfeld are observing the day on even a larger scale. At giant mass meetings roastless dinners will be served to all members of the Labor Front, an organization numbering 20,000,000 members throughout Germany. Foreigners in Germany are also expected to observe roastless Sundays. Gen. von Blomberg, German minister of defense, has invited participants in the international riding tournament at Berlin to a Sunday dinner. Only a mixed stew will be served.

The German Press ball will be held on the night of Feb. 3. Welfare authorities plan to inaugurate a drive to collect funds at the ball.

Charges Husband Kept Her Awake with "Shop Talk"

Mrs. Mittie Scovel, 2970 Sheridan road, charged yesterday in a bill for divorce filed in the Superior court that Harley W. Scovel, 3620 Pine Grove avenue, an electrical engineer, kept her awake until early hours of the morning by telling of his projects. Her bill, filed by Attorney Harry X. Cole, asserts that this constituted cruelty in the meaning of the divorce statutes

BRITON DEFENDS WAR EXECUTION OF EDITH CAVELL

Duff Cooper Declares Germans Were Justified

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—A British official today said Germany was justified in sending Edith Cavell, English nurse who helped 200 allied prisoners to escape, to a firing squad and revived a controversy that was worldwide in 1915.

A. Duff Cooper, financial secretary to the war office, said:

"Miss Cavell was a noble and courageous woman whom the Germans were entitled to execute according to the rules of warfare.

"But any politician could have told them the execution was going to arm 100,000 men against Germany."

Addresses Army Officers.

He addressed a group of army officers.

Miss Cavell admitted at her courtmartial she had aided some 200 English, French and Belgian wounded soldiers to escape from the section of Belgium occupied by German troops. She gave them money and secreted some of them in her own house.

Brand Whitlock, then United States minister to Belgium, made vain efforts to save her. Miss Cavell faced the firing squad with composure.

Another war issue was revived by Duff Cooper when he said David Lloyd George, wartime prime minister, "distrusted" Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig "but he was afraid of public opinion and did not dare to place somebody else in the position."

Calls Attitude "Unpardonable."

Lloyd George, the speaker continued, "did everything in his power to undermine his [Haig's] position both with his fellow countrymen and with his allies."

"That is an unpardonable attitude for a statesman to adopt," he asserted. "That is why the name 'politician' continues to stink in the nostrils of the army."

Lloyd George, when questioned about the matter, replied he would answer Duff Cooper in the next volume of his memoirs. Duff Cooper is writing a biography of Haig.

Duff Cooper himself was a captain in the British army, serving from 1914 to 1919. He won the distinguished service order. In 1919 he married Lady Diana Manners.

Nazi Germany Orders All Monarchist Bodies Dissolved

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—Wilhelm Frick, Germany's minister of interior, today ordered all monarchist organizations to dissolve. "The dissolution could have been avoided if these organizations had shown the proper restraint," he said. "The Nazi state always will recognize the deserts of German sovereigns. It will not allow dark elements to try to drive monarchists into a movement against the Nazi state."

CUBA RETURNS SEIZED PLANTS TO U. S. OWNERS

Tobacco Strike Ties Up Four Provinces.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Feb. 2.—President Carlos Mendieta tonight signed a decree returning all plants and properties of the Cuban Electric company to their American owners. They had been confiscated early in January by former President Ramon Grau San Martin following disorders growing out of a strike, and since then had been operated under the supervision of a federal administrator. Return of the property was accompanied by an agreement with employés of the company definitly settling the strike. Their demands were not fully realized.

The strike of cigar and cigaret workers spread today to two more provinces. The strike now affects the provinces of Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas, and Santa Clara. The strikers were joined by field workers, thus virtually paralyzing Cuba's second largest industry.

Irritated by the failure of efforts to persuade workers to accept arbitration, President Mendieta ordered Col. Fulgencio Batista, chief of the army, to rush soldiers to all affected towns and establish martial law in factories and on farms. Five trainloads of soldiers went to Pinar del Rio, where some of the finest tobacco in the world is grown, and to Moron, in Camaguey province.

Mayor Rodas of Santa Clara reported a clash between civilians and police in which two civilians were killed and two policemen were seriously wounded. The civilians had attempted to disarm the police.

Six bombs exploded in Havana since last midnight. One damaged the home of Neil Holm, an American businessman.

VICE PRESIDENT OF PANAMA QUITS IN ASSASSIN PLOT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Feb. 2.—Vice President Domingo Diaz and Premier and Secretary of Justice Juan Antonio Jimenez resigned today because José Euribiades Jiminez, nephew of the former and son of the latter, had been implicated with Adolfo Aleman and Roberto Vallarino in a conspiracy to assassinate President Harmodio Arias last Saturday.

Aleman was formerly consul at Los Angeles and Vallarino's brother, Dr. J. J. Vallarino, was foreign secretary in Dr. Arias' first cabinet. Their homes were searched by police, who arrested Aleman's chauffeur, a worker at the Jimenez home, and another man. The three testified that they were offered money to assassinate Arias.

While the president has announced that he has forgiven Jimenez, Aleman, and Vallarino and does not intend to take court action, their arrests are expected. It is not believed that the elder Jimenez was aware of the plot. The attack was to have been made at a lonely spot while the president was motoring to his country home Saturday.

FORMER INDIANA PASTOR IS FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

Body Found in Auto with Whisky Bottle.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The Rev. Gaylord V. Saunders, 35, who resigned Sunday as pastor of the Wabash Street Methodist Episcopal church at Wabash, Ind., was found murdered today, slumped down in his automobile parked in a street in the north side district just off Meridian street and Maple road boulevard. His head had been pierced by a .38 caliber bullet. The motor of the automobile was running.

The name and telephone number of a young woman were found on a slip of paper in the minister's pocket. Investigating, police found that she was teacher of a class in bookkeeping conducted in connection with an embalming college the minister had begun to attend here. Mr. Saunders' wife had returned to Wabash on Thursday after visiting here several days. The minister had asked the young woman to accompany him and Mrs. Saunders to dinner Wednesday night, but the young woman declined, pleading another engagement.

No Weapon Found.

No weapon was found in the car or near by. Fellow students at the college said the minister had worn a large diamond ring and other jewelry, which were absent from the body. Only 5 cents was in his pocketbook.

A resident heard an automobile engine idling about 4:30 a. m. Two hours later she heard the motor still running and called police, who said they found a half pint of whisky under the back seat.

Saunders preached his last sermon at Wabash Sunday. He had been pastor of the Wabash Street Methodist church there nearly five years, being returned to the pastorate two years ago by the northwest Indiana Methodist conference with an advance in salary.

At the time of his resignation M. O. Lester, district superintendent for the area in which the Wabash Street church is included, asked that nothing more be said about the minister's resignation than that he was to engage in other business.

Subject of Gossip.

Gossip in Wabash a year ago linked Saunder's name with a young married woman member of his congregation. However, after he had made a general denial through newspapers and two telephone operators of the Wabash exchange had been discharged because they were said to have circulated stories regarding the minister and one of his parishioners, the talk subsided.

Saunders was for several years one of the most popular ministers in Wabash. He appeared on many school commencement programs as well as making baccalaureate addresses in Wabash and other cities. He was a general after-dinner speaker.

Before coming to Wabash Saunders had held a pastorate at Eaton, near Muncie, and later was pastor of the Whiteley Methodist church at Muncie. He entered the Methodist conference in 1920.

Woman House Member Loses Alcatraz Battle

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Representative Florence Kahn [Rep., Cal.] today failed in an attempt to have stricken from the justice department appropriation bill funds for the new Alcatraz federal prison. The house then accepted a committee amendment increasing the allowance for Alcatraz from $88,450 to $103,450. She said the people of San Francisco did not want an American "Devil's Island" just off one of their best residential districts.

NOT CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT, MILLS DECLARES

Merely Wants to Adjust G. O. P. Tariff, He Says.

Millbrae, Cal., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Ogden L. Mills, former secretary of the treasury, whom political observers have regarded as a possible contender for the Republican nomination for President in 1936, said today he was not a candidate.

"I most certainly have no intention of becoming a candidate," he said "Nor will I mix in local or factional politics."

The New York and California financier who served in the cabinet of Herbert Hoover said the major object of his trip west was a conference with the former President and other Republican leaders.

Asked what significance his visit to the Hoover home on the Stanford university campus might have, he said:

"We're neighbors, you know."

Democratic leaders in Washington interpreted Mills' speech in Topeka last Monday against "dictatorship" in the federal government to indicate he was in the field for the presidential nomination.

Mills offered a slight explanation of his remarks on the tariff at Topeka. He said his talk had been interpreted as meaning that he favored a general tariff revision. He explained he meant to convey that the Republican tariff policy should be adjusted to meet changes in the world.

Fights Revision of Tariff.

"I don't share the Democratic view that the G. O. P. tariff policy isolated American markets from the world," he said, and added that he did not favor treaty revision of tariffs.

Saying he is not opposed to the NRA and "all its works," Mills cited his opposition to "its extension far beyond what I believe its original conception was, or, at least, ought to have been."

Warning against "political control of the treasury," Mills said he felt Democratic plans threatened impairment of the federal reserve system.

Mills stated that he "hoped the Republican party in California would effect proper organization."

"I may make some speeches in California if I am asked," he added, "but I have no definite program."

Commenting on war in the far east, Mills said:

"I have always been an advocate of preparedness, but I cannot see a war with Japan. What has Japan that we want, or what have we that Japan wants?"

Business conditions are improving, the former cabinet member said, regarding those in the west as "generally better."

Balks at Repaying $902 She Got in Relief Fraud

Mrs. Angeline Sciiapis, 1737 Arcade place, who lived in apparent poverty with her husband, Steve, and six children in order to obtain public relief while she had more than $4,000 in a bank, yesterday refused to repay $902 she had received in relief money until she learned whether she and her husband would be granted probation. Municipal Judge John Gutknecht, before whom they appeared, postponed the hearing on the probation application to Feb. 9, when the report of the probation officer will be ready. Mrs. Sciiapis carried a check for the amount of relief the family had received, but refused to turn it over in court.

INSULL SPURNS NOTICE OF U. S. VISA RENEWAL

Fugitive to Have New Medical Test Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Feb. 2.—Samuel Insull, fugitive Chicago utilities promoter, today refused to accept a notification that his United States passport has been restored to him. The American government restored the old man's passport yesterday to facilitate his deportation from Greece. But he has no visa which will permit him to go into any other country.

An agent of the Greek government tried to deliver the notification. Insull demanded to know the contents. The agent opened the letter, formally read it, and presented the typed receipt drawn up at the foreign office.

As soon as he saw something to sign, Insull waved the papers away.

"I will have to receive legal advice," he asserted. "I can't sign anything except with the permission of my lawyers."

It was announced today that Insull will be given another medical examination by the government to decide whether he is able to travel.

Pact with Albania Ratified.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—The state department's effort to surround Samuel Insull's Greek exile with a network of extradition treaties was furthered today when the senate ratified a treaty of extradition with Albania.

Action upon a similar treaty with Turkey was delayed until next week because of objection by Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah]. Senator King feared, he said, lest the treaty embody some of the objectionable provisions which caused the senate to refuse ratification of the Lausanne treaty with Turkey in 1926.

In urging ratification of the treaties Senator Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.], foreign relations committee chairman, remarked that the state department was anxious to have them approved. Though not technically in effect until two months from ratification, he explained, their action would be retroactive and include the cases of persons now abroad and wanted by this country.

NEW U. S. TAX RATES WILL NOT APPLY TO INCOMES FOR 1933

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The 36 million dollar increase in personal income taxes on which the house ways and means committee has agreed will not affect 1933 incomes, it was learned today.

At the same time, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. revealed that the treasury plans a whole reëxamination of the income tax question during the summer and may recommend still further changes. The treasury did not approve of the committee's suggestions.

Under the committee's plan the normal tax rate would be changed from the 4 and 8 per cent now existing, to a flat 4 per cent, but surtaxes would start at $4,000 instead of $6,000 as at present. The committee explained today that under the pending bill, these revisions would first take effect on 1934 income on which returns are not filed until March, 1935.

2 BILLION FUND FOR STABILIZING OF DOLLAR IDLE

Disagree in Treasury on Publicity Policy.

The American dollar yesterday gained against the French gold franc, the British pound, and other foreign monies. Details in the market section.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—While rumors of currency stabilization negotiations between the United States and Great Britain increased, inquiry disclosed today that the treasury has not yet launched the 2 billion dollar stabilization fund which was to be its chief weapon during international monetary discussions.

Contrary to reports current yesterday and today, the treasury has not yet set the fund up on its books. Neither has it spent any of the two billion dollars in the fund for manipulating the dollar abroad.

Discovery of the treasury's failure to put its giant stabilization fund in operation partially explained the strength of the dollar abroad yesterday and again today. Without its stabilization fund the treasury cannot deal in British foreign exchange and therefore cannot directly control the relationship between the pound and the dollar.

Formal Warrant Lacking.

The dollar gained in value in comparison with the English pound sterling again today, a development which is counter to President Roosevelt's plans but which the treasury is powerless to control until it swings its stabilization fund into action.

Reasons for the treasury's delay in launching the fund were not disclosed. High officials continued to refuse to discuss the fund or answer questions about it. They also refused to discuss insistent reports of currency stabilization talks with England.

It was definitely learned, however, that Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. has not sent through the routine warrant ordering the fund to be set up on the treasury's books. Until this is done no money can be spent out of the fund on stabilization activities.

Reports have been current for two days that the stabilization fund was at work in foreign gold and exchange markets. Today's discovery discredited these reports and disclosed that the treasury has not yet embarked on its new program of juggling the dollar's value abroad.

Secretary Morgenthau has power exclusive of the stabilization fund to buy foreign gold, but he has no power to deal in foreign exchange except through the fund.

Arguments in Treasury.

Meanwhile the treasury has become the scene of lively but friendly arguments over the government's policy of keeping stabilization fund operations entirely secret. One group within the department is declaring that the treasury should publish as part of its daily statement on receipts and expenditures the net disbursals on account of the stabilization fund.

They point out that such a figure, since it would reveal neither the outgo nor the income of the fund, would not tip off the government's hand to currency speculators. They add that the treasury's statement always is from three to four days late, and that the figures for that reason would not aid speculators.

The opposition argues that complete secrecy is essential to the fund, and that there is no legal obligation to report the expenditures. The final decision, which is up to Secretary Morgenthau, is expected to be in favor of the latter group.

JURY INDICTS 2 MORTGAGE HEADS AS PERJURERS

E. Ray Grant and Philip Waldbillig, officials of the Bond and Mortgage company, which is in receivership, were indicted yesterday by the federal grand jury on charges of perjury growing out of testimony on the receivership given before Master in Chancery Jacob I. Grossman. Judge Philip L. Sullivan, before whom the indictments were returned, fixed bond at $1,000. The government charged that Grant and Waldbillig disclaimed knowledge of existence of a bondholders' list and of various bond issues underwritten by the company.

Flora Votes $60,000 Bonds to Build Sewage Plant

Flora, Ill., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—A $60,000 bond issue to build a sewage disposal plant was approved here today by a majority of 834 votes. The favorable vote was attributed to a feeling that sewage treatment soon will be required of every Illinois city, and also as a means of creating jobs.

WILLIAM H. M'NEAL NAMED NATIONAL MANAGER OF HOLC

Accomplishment Here Brings Advance.

BY AL CHASE.

William H. McNeal of New York, who has been in charge of the federal investigation of the local Home Owners' Loan situation for several months, yesterday was notified from Washington that he had been appointed general manager for the HOLC throughout the United States.

The new HOLC head will succeed H. E. Hutchinson, who has been acting as secretary to the Home Loan bank board and ex-officio general manager of the Home Owners' Loan corporation. Mr. Hutchinson, it was said, will continue to serve as secretary to the board.

Work Here Brings Advance.

Henry G. Zander Jr., Illinois state manager for the HOLC, said last night that Mr. McNeal had done such a creditable job of reorganizing the local branch that he had attracted the attention of Washington.

Mr. McNeal was vice president for ten years of the New York Title and Mortgage company. He was in charge of national title insurance and organized and built up in forty-eight states and two Canadian provinces a system of insuring titles.

Mr. McNeal was drafted by Washington last November for HOLC service and three weeks later was sent to Chicago, prior to the resignation of William G. Donne, to reorganize here.

Institutes Changes.

He at once began an investigation, and as soon as Donne was ousted he actively instituted several important changes in the procedure of the local HOLC. When Henry G. Zander Jr. was named to succeed Donne, Mr. McNeal continued in Chicago as a special representative.

He will leave for Washington on the Capitol Limited today and will assume his new office next Monday. As general manager for the entire United States he will have supervision over the local HOLC.

J.D. HUNTER HEADS SOCIAL AGENCIES' HOUSING PROJECT

Joel D. Hunter, superintendent of the United Charities, yesterday was appointed chairman of a newly organized housing committee of the Council of Social Agencies, which will investigate tenement conditions and coöperate in the proposed establishment of subsistence homes outside the industrial centers of the city. The appointment was made by Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the council.

The housing committee expects to urge prompt passage of amendments to the Illinois state housing act so that federal grants for housing projects may be received, Mr. Hunter said.

"Social agencies always have been vitally concerned with the problem of securing better living conditions," Mr. Hunter said yesterday, "but only recently have plans for improved housing seemed attainable. The destruction of condemned houses is a project fitted for the civil works administration. Lumber and other salvage materials would enable landlords to make needed repairs on tenements which would not be demolished."

FIND GAS DEATH ACCIDENTAL.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death yesterday in the case of Henry E. Jonas, 60 years old, killed by carbon monoxide gas Thursday in the garage of his home at 999 Bluff road, Glencoe, where he had been repairing his automobile.

FORBIDS PRIVATE LOANS TO NATION WHICH DEFAULTS

Senate Votes Term in Prison for Violators.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—While President Roosevelt moved today to grant new government loans to foreign nations, the senate passed a bill which aimed at preventing countries now defaulting on past debts from floating any more private loans in America.

The President's plan, it was learned, is to set up a new government owned bank which will finance sales of surplus American farm and industrial products to countries wishing to buy them. The plan is conceived mainly to finance trade with Russia.

Government Is Exempted.

As the President was discussing plans to repeat the disastrous postwar venture of extending federal credit to foreign nations, the senate was passing almost without debate a bill introduced by Senator Hiram Johnson [Rad., Cal.] with the intention of barring all future American loans to defaulting debtor governments such as France, Belgium, and a dozen other nations.

The bill was promptly amended, however, so that it would not block the President's newest scheme for ridding American markets of surplus goods. A proviso was written in declaring that loans to foreign defaulters could still be made by government owned corporations.

As it now stands, however, the bill, if passed by the house, puts in the hands of the administration its most powerful weapon for forcing payment of defaulted war debts. No defaulting nation may float any private loan in this country, and any American aiding in the illegal flotation of a private loan to a defaulter would be liable to five years in jail and $10,000 in fines.

President Silent on Plan.

Although President Roosevelt has consistently refused to express an opinion on the Johnson bill in its original form, it is assumed that he will accept it as amended today if the house agrees to it. The only objection the President is believed to have had to the original bill was that it might stop the proposed government loans to foreign purchasers which he announced today.

How much money is to be diverted for these new foreign purchase loans was not revealed, but the Reconstruction Finance corporation, through which the loans are to be handled, has 55 million dollars earmarked for financing exports between now and June 30.

Will Create Trading Bank.

Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the RFC, revealed that the President's plan calls for the creation of a trading bank, probably in the District of Columbia. This bank will partially underwrite extension of credits to foreign purchasers of American goods.

When a Russian purchaser, for instance, wishes to buy in this country on credit he will give to the American exporter a note promising to pay after a certain length of time. Under the new plan the bank probably would underwrite the note to a limited extent, making itself partially responsible for its payment just as any one who indorses a check is responsible for its payment.

Since the bank will be entirely owned by the government, this arrangement will be tantamount to a partial government guarantee. The bank will be a division of the RFC like the Commodity Credit corporation.

After the war the government made direct loans aggregating 599 million dollars to foreign nations lesiring to buy American products for rehabilitation purposes. This indebtedness to this country was later funded in with the war debts, most of which are now in default.

House to Invoke Gag Rule Again for CWA Issue Vote

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—An election conscious congress today threatened open revolution against the administration's plan to cut off the huge flow of federal CWA funds by May 1 next.

President Roosevelt's leaders in the house prepared to invoke the most drastic gag procedure to keep the Democratic majority in line when the issue comes to a showdown on Monday.

The house leadership was forced to discard its original intention of bringing onto the floor today the special appropriation bill carrying 950 millions for continuation of the government's direct relief and civil works activities.

Debate Is Limited.

Instead, it will be brought up Monday under a suspension of the rules, which will permit only forty minutes of debate, preclude all amendments, and force the membership to vote simultaneously on the question of rule suspension and passage of the bill.

The house revolt against the administration was led by Representative Kent E. Keller [Dem., Ill.], who announced his intention of proposing an amendment to increase to a billion and a half the fund carried in the bill. This addition, according to the Illinoisan, would permit the CWA to continue for at least another year. Throughout the day other members were rallying behind Keller and the house leadership was frank to admit that it faces a bitter struggle to keep its majority under control. Said one of the administration chieftains:

"We are plainly up against a straightout log rolling proposition. We had to decide to bring the bill up Monday under suspension of the rules in order to avoid the danger of amendments."

Although Representative Keller vigorously denied any political motive behind his opposition to the curtailment of civil works expenditures, it was generally accepted that the house's antagonism to the President's plan arises largely from the desire of individual members to keep the CWA pay envelopes pouring out from the treasury until after November's elections.

Nor was the opposition confined to the house. In the senate it was understood to be even stronger. Senators Robert M. La Follette [Rad., Wis.], Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N.Y.], and others have importuned the President repeatedly in recent weeks to continue the civic works administration beyond the May 1 deadline set by Mr. Roosevelt and Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins.

Position Is Strengthened.

The position of Representative Keller was strengthened in the house by the leadership's decision to resort to gag tactics. For some time sentiment against gag rule has been gaining among the members of the lower body and many representatives declared today that while they are not opposed to curtailment of the CWA, next May, they will vote against the motion to suspend the rules.

In resorting to the suspension procedure, however, administration leaders adopted a strategy that may serve to defeat the insurgents. Those voting against the motion will be put on the political spot by voting simultaneously against an appropriation of 950 million dollars to continue the CWA until the May 1 deadline. Only by careful explanation will the revolters be able to convince their constituents back home that their vote against this fund represented an effort to substitute a larger amount.

NRA LABOR BOARD HEARS DISPUTE OF COMMUNISTS

The Chicago regional labor board of the National Recovery administration heard testimony yesterday on a controversy between the Container Corporation of America and the Trades Union Unity league, a communist organization of which William [Zack] Foster is national president.

The controversy is over the dismissal last December of 25 Container corporation employés, who were accused of trying to organize the plant at 900 North Ogden avenue. After hearing testimony the regional board, of which Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, is chairman, postponed its decision indefinitly.

J. J. Brossard, vice president of the Container corporation, represented the company and E. Haumann the Unity league at the hearing. It was said to be the first dispute to reach the Chicago board involving a communist organization.

Roy C. Jacobson, executive secretary of the board, said "final action has been postponed until we learn what action the National Labor board takes in a similar case in New York."

URGES DOLLAR BASED ON ZINC, LEAD, COPPER

Houghton, Mich., Feb. 2.—(AP)—A new dollar, as a supplementary form of money, is proposed by A. T. Sweet, head of the metallurgy department of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology.

The new dollar would be money issued against purchase by the government for the surplus of three nonferrous metals, copper, lead and zinc.

For not more than 150 million dollars, says Prof. Sweet, Uncle Sam can buy the entire present surplus, thereby putting an industry back on its feet, giving itself a money saving war time reserve of indispensable nonferrous metals, and increasing its money with a safe type of dollars.

TWO HELD AS AUTO THIEVES.

Municipal Judge Joseph A. Graber yesterday held Frank Ochal, 17 years old, 1426 West Superior street, and Bruno Szczarik, 17 years old, 1471 West Huron street, to the grand jury for the theft of an automobile.

SHORTER HOURS FOR WORKERS DEMANDED BY WILLIAM GREEN

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Industrial idleness has been temporarily checked but not conquered, according to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

In spite of the "Godsend" of federal aid, Mr. Green said today, more than 6,800,000 men and women were without even temporary employment during December, and unless hours of labor are progressively shortened, "there will be 4,000,000 out of work even when we get back to 1929 levels of operation."

"The 30 hour week is a basic answer to our problem of unemployment," Mr. Green declared. "We must plan now to shorten hours progressively as industry recovers."

"The immediate problem," according to Mr. Green, is to "make sure that congress provides funds for the continuation of CWA work." To cut off the buying power of the 4,000,000 workers employed by the government, amounting to more than $200,000,000 a month, he said, would "strike a severe blow at business recovery."

CANADA MOVES TO PUT CURB ON "BIG BUSINESS"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 2.—Governmental action which is intended ultimately to stop big business, particularly department and chain store organizations, from smothering small competitors, was instituted in Canada today. With general commendation from all parties, Premier Bennett moved in the house of commons to set up a special parliamentary committee which will investigate price spreads, distribution system and the following specified matters: Effect of department and chain store massed buying on small retail trade, labor conditions in industries supplying department and chain stores, relations between the flour milling industry and bakers, and live stock marketing.

CRUSH POLITICS IN RELIEF WORK, PRESIDENT SAYS

Orders "Be Hard Boiled" on Spoilsmen.

lieve us in Washington very greatly.

"You will require extraordinary patience and long hours—a smile at all times—and the carrying out of the policy of not just the administration in a narrow sense, but the policy of what I think is the overwhelming policy of the American people today.

"We are all behind, with few exceptions, this broad program. We think it has done good. We believe we are on our way. We believe it is working out pretty well in all sections of the country.

"I was interested in talking yesterday to the president of one of the greatest railroads of this country. I asked him how his road was doing. His reply was that, while his road was carrying more freight and more passengers, the important fact was that the freight they were carrying revealed increases in every single classification of freight. That is the best illustration of the fact that we are building up economically in every section of the country, including practically all industries.

Would Keep in Touch.

"We know the human factor which enters so largely into this picture. We are trying to apply it to all groups needing aid and assistance and not merely just a few scattered or favored groups. That is why we want from you the kind of information and kind of reports that will keep us in touch with the broad picture—in every one of the 48 states."

At the same time, however, Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins evidenced an abrupt change of attitude regarding the affiliation of political office holders or office seekers with CWA offices throughout the country. Abandoning his strong stand against the association of politicians with the disbursement of federal funds, Mr. Hopkins declared:

"I certainly do not believe that any person who runs for public office therefore and per se becomes a person who should have nothing to do with us. I've been thinking this over a good deal and I've decided that in this democracy any man has a right to run for public office or get out and campaign for some one else."

Oust Political Doctors.

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Two physicians named in the Seabury inquiry as having split fees in compensation cases with Dr. William H. Walker, brother of former Mayor James J. Walker, have been ousted as physicians for the Civil Works administration, Howard S. Cullman, deputy administrator in charge of the workmen's compensation division, revealed today.

Seven other physicians, holdovers from the last municipal administration, were similarly dropped and Mr. Cullman issued a statement that "any attempt to use political influence must in itself disqualify any physician" from CWA practice.

Those dropped when Mr. Cullman took charge on Jan. 22 were Drs. Harris Feinberg, Max J. Shulman, Frederick Ziman, Edward L. Brennan, A. S. Driscoll, Harry Stoop, David M. Morgenstern, Samuel Lempert, and Arnold Salmowitz.

make a meal out of a pretzel or a potato chip if he chose. The law made no mention of the amount of food that would constitute a legal meal.

The conclusion drawn from the discussion yesterday was that tavern keepers who wanted to "cheat" on this provision would line their counters with pretzels, perhaps put in a steam table and place a few "rubber" sandwiches on the back bar.

Another solution suggested that if tavern keepers did not have a restaurant license they could not be subject to section 21. Section 21A, which deals with bars, holds that lunch counters can be maintained and drinks served over them in food-dispensing establishments. It was not believed that bars would be disturbed at present, but would promptly be called counters.

The use of the words "saloon" and "bar" is prohibited and the generally accepted theory was that taverns would soon blossom into "restaurants" and "cafés."

Ames Explains Tax.

K. L. Ames Jr., state director of finance, explained last night that liquors in the possession of retailers at midnight, Jan. 31, when the state law went into effect, will not be taxed. Merchandise ordered, but not delivered on that date, is however, subject to tax, he added.

E. C. Yellowley, federal supervisor of industrial alcohol, announced yesterday that beginning Feb. 10 distillers and rectifiers must attach government strip stamps to their liquor containers. Stamps of ¼ cent and 1 cent denominations were placed on sale in the office of Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue. The ¼ cent stamps must be placed on the caps of bottles of less than one-half pint capacity. Bottles or cans containing from one-half pint to one quart must carry a 1 cent stamp. This provision, recently adopted by congress, does not apply to bonded liquor.

A MYSTERIOUS HERO COMES TO AID OF A CITIZEN

Crying "Stop thief!" Philip Novak ran out of his candy store at 2101 West Chicago avenue late last night. In front of him was a young man who had just stepped into the store and, after making the owner, his wife, and two customers lie on the floor, seized $6.

The bandit was outdistancing the candy man when help arrived for the latter. A passing motorist obligingly got out of his car and struck the fugitive on the head with a big wrench. As the bandit fell unconscious the hero stepped back into the automobile and drove away.

The identity of the helpful motorist was not learned. That of the unlucky thief was established hours later in the Bridewell hospital as Marcel Van Derkave, 23 years old, 2103 Warren boulevard. Van Derkave carried no gun, but by keeping his hand in his pocket had made a good pretense of being armed.

STEEL PLANTS RESIST ATTACK ON COMPANY UNIONS

Insist They Obey Terms of Recovery Act.

New York, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Executives of all the leading steel companies issued a statement after a meeting tonight saying the industry intends "to resist all attacks" upon company unions, and holding that the present plan of employé representation complies with the NRA.

The statement, issued after a meeting at the offices of the American Iron and Steel institute, took exception to the national labor board's authority to conduct elections for employé representatives when a "substantial" number request that action.

It represented the industry's first pronouncement on the latest policy of the NRA and the first definition of the companies' position regarding the unions.

Coöperates with President.

"The steel industry of the United States," the statement says, "is cooperating wholeheartedly with the President in his efforts for national recovery and subscribes fully to the principle of collective bargaining as provided in section 7 [a] of the national industrial recovery act.

"In accordance with this principle, employé representation plans are in operation throughout the steel industry. They are functioning effectively and are providing employés with representatives chosen by them in free and untrammeled elections.

"The employés' representation plan is a modern and effective method of collective bargaining. It operates in the best interest of all the workers and, by promoting peace and harmony in industrial relations, instead of strife and irritation, it benefits industry and the consuming public.

Calls Order Direct Threat.

"We regard the analysis of the executive order which, according to the press, was issued by the NRA as a direct threat against the peaceful industrial relations long prevailing in the steel industry. It threatens the whole national industrial recovery program.

"The published statement by the NRA to the effect that so-called company unions are operated by employés' representatives chosen by the employers rather than by the employés themselves is a flagrant misrepresentation of fact. We regard it as a violation of public trust for a government agency to issue such a statement to the public. It can indicate nothing other than an intention to accomplish a complete domination of all industry, affecting the lives of millions of people, by union organizations which represent less than 10 per cent of the industrial employés of the nation.

"For elections to be ordered by the national labor board upon the request of a mere handful of employés in any plant would mean constant disturbance and confusion in the industry. We regard many of the decisions and acts of the board as clearly intended to encourage unionism and to impose it upon industry.

Election by Petition.

"Evidences of the bias of the board are found in the rules heretofore prescribed by it providing for nominations of candidates in employés' elections by petition instead of by the established American custom of secret ballots as practiced in the primaries for the selection of candidates for public office. The petition plan permits names to be placed on the ballot for the employés' vote by only ten signatures. We regard this as undemocratic and as opening the door to union intimidation of employés.

"To provide that an election shall be held when a 'substantial' number of employés shall demand it and to give to the national labor board the right to determine what constitutes a 'substantial' number of employés may force an election when only a handful of discontented workers, who might be only union organizers, demand it. This is bound to be a constant source of confusion.

"To make the wish of a majority of the number who shall vote, although they may be only a small percentage of the whole number of employés, compulsory upon all the employés is a direct violation of section 7 [a] of the national industrial recovery act, which gives to any number of employés the right to choose their own representatives for collective bargaining.

"The steel industry desires to define its position clearly and emphatically on this matter. While affirming complete confidence in the desire of the President to deal fairly in all matters affecting both labor and industry, it is convinced that the practical effect of this order would be unfair to both.

"The steel industry maintains that its employés' representation plans meet every requirement of the national industrial recovery act in respect of collective bargaining. It intends in every practical and lawful way to resist all attacks upon such plans."

The industry's statement followed upon President Roosevelt's executive order of yesterday specifically empowering the labor board to determine whether a "substantial number" of employés in any plant want an election of representatives and to conduct the election under its own rules.

The board would certify the elected representatives to the employer. If he refused to deal with them the matter would be reported to the administrator "for appropriate action."

Challenge of Board's Authority.

The steel executives' statement is the first official pronouncement placing the industry as a whole behind the position taken by the Weirton Steel company, the E. G. Budd Manufacturing company, and other corporations which have challenged the board's authority to step into their plants.

This authority is not challenged directly. Instead the steel industry, by its statement, takes the position that an election conducted by the labor board at the request of "a substantial number" of employés would violate section 7 [a] of the NRA on the ground that the representatives would not be chosen by a "majority" of the workers in the plant. The position is taken that the present plan of company unions more nearly represents the wishes of the majority.

Mauff Wins $10,000 from Arthur Cutten

$50,000 Sought

John R. Mauff, former official of the Chicago Board of Trade, was awarded $10,000 yesterday for his services as propagandist and ghost writer for Arthur Cutten, wealthy grain speculator, from 1929 to 1933. The sealed verdict of the jury, which voted the award on Thursday night, was opened yesterday before Circuit Judge John Prystalski.

Mauff sued for $50,000. The services for which he claimed payment consisted of efforts to obtain amendments to the rules of the Board of Trade and the federal grain futures act which would have favored the buying side in grain speculation. Cutten admitted that Mauff had worked to change the rules, but asserted that their efforts had been in partnership, and that he had never promised Mauff any compensation.

A motion for a new trial for Cutten, who was not in court, was set for Feb. 13. His attorneys refused to comment on the verdict.

"I am entirely satisfied with the money end of the verdict," said Mauff. "The main thing was my vindication. I am glad the jury believed my story."

SIFT PRICE FIXING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—Pursuing his attack on the NRA's abrogation of the anti-trust laws, Senator William E. Borah, Idaho insurgent, won senate approval today for a resolution calling upon the federal trade commission to make a complete report on price fixing by steel corporations under the NRA steel code.

Such a report has already been made by the commission and submitted to President Roosevelt, but has never been made public. President Roosevelt himself was called on to settle one case of price fixing by the steel companies last summer. Seeking to increase steel production, the federal railroad coördinator called for bids on steel rails to be bought by the carriers with federal help.

When the bids were opened they disclosed a uniform and, according to Coördinator Eastman, overly high price. The President's personal intervention was necessary to make the companies agree to a cut. They explained that they had supposed the NRA was intended to increase prices.

In addition to a report on steel prices the Borah resolution also asked a study of increases in gasoline prices.

SEEK WAY OUT OF $17,000,000 SCHOOL DEFICIT

CRA Hears Discussion of Critical Problem.

A group of measures to help the board of education balance the 1934 school budget in the face of a 17 million dollar deficit were defended by some and opposed by others yesterday at a session before the tax committee of the Chicago recovery administration. The one thing that the teacher leaders, school officials, and financial experts agreed upon was that unless new revenues were obtained the Chicago schools would close. The meeting was held in the county building.

The debate centered first on the proposal advanced by the school board to transfer 20 cents of the tax rate from the building fund, which has no deficit, to the educational or operating fund which has a huge deficit. John Rees, director of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, said that his group would support this plan if further school retrenchments were made and if no further tax rate adjustments were made.

Computes the "Real Deficit."

"There are many ways of computing a deficit," said Rees. "The true figures can be juggled and you can put in everything from old shoes to kitchen stoves as assets, but the real, unescapable public school deficit is $17,000,000. One way out would be a repudiation of the debts and the closing of the schools, but I don't think any one wants to follow this course."

The transfer of 20 cents from the building fund to the educational fund would make an increase in the school revenues, because the educational fund is several times as large as the building fund. Mr. Rees defended such an increase because, he said, school economies had been largely responsible for reductions in Chicago taxes. He pointed out that teachers' salaries were $37,900,000 in 1931, $33,700,000 in 1932, and $28,000,000 in 1933.

Opposes Increase of Taxes.

Lester Porter, president of the Chicago Real Estate board, opposed an increase in property taxes.

"There's no use putting 20 cents on the educational fund tax bill," he said, "when only 60 per cent of the 1931 taxes have been collected. It just won't work."

"But the most important thing in the city is children," said Mrs. Thomas B. Stephenson, parent-teacher leader, "and we must pay for their education."

George Anspaugh, chairman of the legislative committee of the Chicago division of the State Teachers' association, pointed out four possible revenue measures. They were a grain futures tax of ⅛ of a cent a bushel, a 3 per cent tax on net incomes of corporations, an income tax for individuals, and liquor taxes.

Shy at Liquor Revenue.

The liquor revenue for schools had not been approved by the State Teachers' association, Anspaugh said.

"Yes, but they would take it under the name of beverage," said James B. McCahey, president of the school board.

"Well, downstate is pretty dry," answered Anspaugh, "and I suppose if some superintendents went back and told their school boards they had voted for liquor revenue they would have been fired."

Among the teacher leaders who admitted the board had a real deficit were Mary J. Herrick, president, and Helen Taggart, vice president of the Federation of Women High School Teachers, and George Mahin, secretary of the High School Teachers' association.

William F. Stelzer, chairman of the CRA committee, concluded the meeting with a plea for coöperation in order to obtain help from the Illinois legislature.

LA GUARDIA CUTS OUTLAY AT RISK OF BEING JAILED

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—In the face of inevitable mandamus proceedings, the board of estimate voted today, 9 to 6, against paying the $76,000 in salaries and expenses of the transit commission, a state body supported almost entirely by mandatory city funds.

The action of the board was regarded as the first step in Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia's plan for sweeping economies in the city's pay rolls. He believes, he stated unequivocally, that the state should support the transit commission. He is preparing a bill, he said, which will be submitted shortly to board members and then to the legislature. It would relieve the city of paying $400,000 a year for a body under state control.

"This is mandatory, isn't it?" the mayor asked the clerk, and, receiving an affirmative answer, said: "Then I vote no."

"I'm not afraid of going to jail with the mayor," piped up Borough President Lyons. "I've been in jail before," declared Borough President Palma, voting no.

Must Return Ring

MISS GERTRUDE QUASNY.

An engagement ring is not a gift and must be returned if the marriage ceremony is not performed. So ruled Municipal Judge Howard Hayes yesterday when Lewis Howell, 24 years old, a barber at the Palmer house, brought suit for return of a $100 diamond ring given to Miss Gertrude Quasny, 19 years old, 2146 Wellington avenue.

Howell testified in replevin proceedings that he gave Miss Quasny the ring on her promise to marry him. Later, Howell said, she broke the engagement but refused to return the ring.

"This was not an outright gift," Judge Hayes ruled. "It was a gift with a string to it. The ring was given in anticipation of marriage. Therefore, when the young woman refused to go through with the marriage, she forfeited her right to the ring."

Miss Quasny surrendered the ring to Howell after hearing the ruling of the court.

REJECT PLEA FOR 50 MILLION TO AID TEACHERS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The house appropriations committee today rejected a proposal for a special allocation of $50,000,000 from the civil works funds from which unpaid Chicago teachers might receive financial relief.

The suggestion was rejected after Harry L. Hopkins, CWA administrator, appeared before the committee to explain that although relief has been extended to rural schools he felt such aid should be provided for in a special bill and not put in a relief measure.

Meanwhile Representative Collins [Dem., Miss.] introduced a separate bill making a special authorization for the suggested $50,000,000 fund.

At the same time Representative Sabath [Dem., Ill.] announced he would press his proposal giving the Reconstruction Finance corporation authority to make loans to the Chicago school board. These loans would be backed by the school board's real estate holdings.

Jury Awards Girl $1,250 for Golf Course Injury

A jury before Judge George W. Bristow of Paris, Ill., sitting in the Superior court, yesterday awarded damages of $1,250 to Miss Lillian A. Heur, 130 North La Salle street, in her suit for $20,000 against Charles Naselli, an insurance broker with offices at 1 North La Salle street. Miss Heur charged that in October, 1931, on the Garfield park golf course, she stepped behind a tee where Naselli was taking a practice swing and his driver struck her a severe blow on the head.

U. S. GOES IN RED 2 BILLIONS FOR LAST 7 MONTHS

But Spending Program Is Behind Schedule.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The Roosevelt administration ended the first seven months of its current fiscal year with the government in the red almost 2 billion dollars, the treasury department revealed today.

Despite this huge deficit, which is larger than that rolled up during the same months last year, the government is lagging far behind in the furious spending program which President Roosevelt mapped out for it at the first of this month.

The President declared that the government would pour out 3 billion dollars before June 30 in its gigantic drive to increase purchasing power. To achieve this total the government would have to spend more than 300 million dollars a week.

Far Behind Schedule.

Treasury reports made public today showed that the government was falling far behind this pace. Last week the government disbursed only 172 million dollars, the smallest amount in months, and each week's expenditures have been under the 300 million dollar mark, the figures showed.

Total expenditures by the government during the July 1-Jan. 31 period, which marks the first seven months of its fiscal year, aggregate 3 billion 602 million dollars, the treasury reported. Its revenue collections amount to only 1 billion 680 millions, leaving a deficit of 1 billion 922 million dollars.

On the same date a year before the deficit had climbed up only to 1 billion 860 millions.

Half Way for Recovery.

Of the 3 billion 602 million dollars spent thus far 1 billion 964 millions has gone for the various recovery agencies set up by President Roosevelt. Largest spender among them and in the whole government has been the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which has poured out 1 billion 64 million dollars.

The routine government establishment and services have taken only 1 billion 638 million dollars of the 3 billion 602 millions spent. The treasury's statement shows a reduction in ordinary expenditures under those of last year, but a huge gain in extraordinary outlays.

On the receipts side of the ledger the government has drawn 870 million dollars from nuisance taxes, 335 millions from the income tax, 201 millions from customs duties, 170 millions from processing taxes, and the rest of the 1 billion 680 millions from miscellaneous sources.

2 GET 6 MONTHS FOR DEFACING CAR MOTOR NUMBERS

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Stolen, 41; recovered, 34; stripped, 2 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Thursday].

Abe Poncher, owner of an automobile accessory store at 2000 South Wabash avenue, and an employé, David Golden, 3420 West 12th place, were sentenced to six months each in the county jail yesterday by Judge Joseph A. Graber for defacing automobile motor numbers. Poncher and his brother, Isadore, were found guilty by a jury in Judge Francis Allegretti's court Wednesday on charges of receiving stolen property. Motion for a new trial is to be heard in this case on Feb. 20.

JURY ASKS MORE JUDGES TO SPEED ANTI-CRIME WAR

Suggests Changes in Auto Theft Campaign.

In its final report to Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court the January grand jury yesterday declared that unless enough judges are obtained to assure "swift and certain justice" the war on crime will wane. The drive against crime was started last August by Judge John Prystalski, former chief justice.

The grand jury also made extensive suggestions for the prevention of the wholesale theft of automobiles. It was recommended that the auto theft division of the police department be increased and several changes made in the law.

Urges Swift Justice.

"We feel that one of the most important factors in the suppression of crime," said the report, "is the meting out of swift and certain justice to guilty offenders."

"I shall take the matter up at once," replied Judge Finnegan. "Speedy justice is the best deterrent which any community can have to clean up crime. It has more to do with acting as a deterrent to those contemplating crime than long term sentences."

Judge Finnegan has striven for several weeks to have the executive committee of the Superior and Circuit courts supply him with additional judges to take the places of some of the present Criminal court judges who have been occupied in lengthy criminal trials. Thus far only two new judges have been assigned, but they have not as yet taken up their duties.

Trude and Kavanagh.

Judge Daniel S. Trude has been assigned to take the place of Judge Joseph B. David, who is on a winter vacation. Judge Marcus Kavanagh will take the place of Judge Benjamin Epstein, who is also planning a winter vacation as soon as he finishes the life insurance fraud conspiracy trial that has been in progress for nearly a month.

The report of the grand jury in analyzing automobile thievery, which had been the subject of a special charge from the chief justice, commended the improvement in the situation through the combined efforts of the police department and the state's attorney's office.

Suggest Change in Law.

"This energetic and determined drive should be permanent," said the jurors. "The general public should lend every assistance to eliminate this pernicious situation. We suggest that the legislature amend the present habitual criminal act so as to permit the crimes of larceny and receiving of stolen motor vehicles and parts to be invoked against second offenders."

The present habitual criminal act, passed by the legislature in 1874, does not cover the theft of automobiles, although it does the crime of horse stealing. The statute also fails to cover other crimes such as embezzlement and confidence game.

Oppose Night Parking.

Besides recommending increased police facilities to combat automobile stealing the jury suggested that attention be given to night parking with the view of working out an ordinance for its abolition that would be acceptable to the public. This would materially reduce the number of thefts, the jury said.

The jury also recommended that in instances where stolen automobiles that had been recovered subsequent to the payment of loss by insurance companies the salvage be disposed of as junk under the provision of the newly enacted certificate of title law.

BANKRUPT PLEA IS FILED AGAINST EMIL DENEMARK

An involuntary bankruptcy petition naming Emil Denemark, sportsman and automobile dealer, and his wife, Jennie, was filed yesterday in the United States District court by Attorney W. C. Bowman. The petition was filed on behalf of three creditors with claims totaling $500. Attorney Bowman said that Denemark and his wife have liabilities between $700,000 and $1,000,000. Their personal assets, the attorney said, would approximate $10,000. The petition was filed against the Denemarks as individuals and not against the automobile corporation.

Matthew Kotwas, W. Walter Ziober, a clerk in the first precinct, who previously had been sentenced to a year in jail for making a false canvass, made the charges against the three workers, but refused to repeat them yesterday on the witness stand.

WIN MEDALS FOR HEROISM

CHIEF JAMES COWHEY.

Risk Their Lives to Save Comrades.

President Richard J. Collins of the city civil service commission announced yesterday that the commission had awarded the Carter Harrison medal for 1931 to Chief James Cowhey of the 4th battalion, and the Lambert Tree medal for 1932 to Fireman Martin J. Carney of Squad 1. The awards are made for the outstanding act of heroism in the fire department each year.

Chief Cowhey was awarded his medal for the rescue of Fireman Edward O. Raschke from a fire in the plant of the Illinois Feather Duster company, 1926 Webster avenue, on Oct. 12, 1931. Raschke had been overcome and was lying face downward in a pool of water in the burning building.

Chief Cowhey forced his way through heat, gas, and heavy smoke and carried the unconscious man to safety. He then reentered the building and made a search to be sure that no other firemen had been overcome. He spent two days in the hospital as the result of his experience. Both he and Fireman Carney were given THE TRIBUNE'S monthly hero award for their acts.

Rescues Electricity Victim.

Carney was awarded the Tree medal for heroism in a fire at 1701 South Wabash avenue on May 30, 1932. A high tension electrical wire had broken and struck two firemen, Edward O'Neill and Edward Burke, unconscious. The injured men lay in a pool of water, with the charged wire nearby.

Carney first hooked his ax in the coat buckle of one of them and tried to draw him to safety, but was prevented from doing so by a hose line, over which he was unable to lift the unconscious man.

He then stepped forward and passed his hand over the unconscious man's face, to determine how heavily his body was charged with electricity, and lifted the man and carried him away. Other firemen rescued the other shock victim.

In addition to the two medal awards, the commission gave honorable mention to 150 firemen for their conduct in the disastrous 22d street water tunnel fire on April 13, 1931, during which four firemen and seven laborers lost their lives, and to 40 other members of the department for other courageous acts during the year. Twenty-six firemen were given honorable mention for acts during 1932.

Medals Are Alternated.

Under the terms of the Harrison and Tree medal foundations, each medal alternates yearly between the fire and police departments, so that one fireman and one policeman is given a medal each year. The awards to Chief Cowhey and Fireman Carney will be made soon by Mayor Kelly at a meeting of the city council.

At the same time Fireman Charles Edmonson will receive the Harrison medal for 1929 and Fireman William C. Moir the Tree medal for 1930, and certificates will be presented to members of the department who were given honorable mention.

G. O. P. REGULARS FINISH SLATE FOR APRIL 10 PRIMARY

Progressive Group Adds Four to Ticket.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The slate committee of the regular Republican organization completed its county and sanitary district primary ticket yesterday just in time to permit the circulation of the nominating petitions so they could be dropped in the mail and reach County Clerk Sweitzer's office this morning—the first day for filing for the April 10 election.

The real conclusion of the committee's work came with the selection of Mrs. Rena Elrod [38th ward] for one of the ten county board places to be filled by Chicagoans. Mrs. Elrod served three terms—from 1924 to 1930—as state representative from the Twenty-fifth district. The widest publicity that came her way at Springfield was aroused when she voted for the boxing bill and made a speech for it. She was a popular member of the house.

City County Board List.

The list of ten Chicagoans selected for the county commission, as given out by Secretary Edward F. Moore, includes:

George F. Nixon [42d] for president; Robert C. Rohn [19th], Felix F. Kucharski [12th], Louis Nettelhorst [50th], Joseph F. Gubbins [36th], Dr. Carl J. Madda [37th], Mrs. Rena Elrod [38th], Harry E. Hoff [34th], Richard A. Williams [2d], and John F. Duff [28th].

No effort was made to include on the slate of candidates the organization choices for the five country town county commissionerships. Secretary Edward F. Moore said he had been informed that seven candidates will file and later the country town district committeemen will select the five to be supported.

The seven named were the two sitting commissioners, William Busse of Mount Prospect and George A. Miller of Oak Park; William N. Erickson, Evanston; Kurt Berliner, Forest Park; A. W. Komarek of Riverside, John Jaranowski of Calumet City, and Carl Carlson of Blue Island.

There was no effort to complete the slate of candidates for associate judge of the Municipal court. There were two omissions from the list published yesterday—the names of Judge William E. Helander, candidate for renomination, and Archie Bernstein, a north sider.

Jenkins' Faction List.

The Jenkins faction, which calls itself the Progressive Republican organization, announced the addition of four candidates to the ticket it will file. They are H. Wallace Caldwell, for president of the county board; William Jansen of Roseland, for assessor, and Arnold R. Baar, president of the City club, and Ald. O. E. Northup [19th] for the tax appeal board.

This is the first day for filing for congressional, legislative, and state office petitions at Springfield, as well as the first day for county and sanitary district petitions in Cook county. At each place the petitions that come by regular mail, it was announced, will be listed first. However, it is expected the regular Democrats will have good luck with the postoffice people.

Feb. 19 Is Deadline.

The last day for filing petitions for these groups of offices is Feb. 19. The first day for filing petitions for associate judge of the Municipal court is Monday, and the first day for ward committeeman and precinct committeeman petitions, the latter from the country towns of Cook county, is next Friday.

The Democrats, who completed their local slate early in the week, have announced a "spread the gospel" meeting in the Civic Opera house next Monday evening. They say the place selected is indicative of the harmony that exists in the organization.

KILLS TEACHER AS HER 20 PUPILS LOOK ON, THEN ENDS OWN LIFE

Harlan, Ia., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Before her 20 pupils, Margaret Graves, 23 year old rural school teacher, was shot to death by a suitor, who then committed suicide.

The suitor, Herman Seick, 28, a farmer, walked into the schoolhouse about 3 p. m. and shot the girl in the back with a shotgun as she crouched behind a desk seeking to escape.

She struggled to her feet, staggered to the door of the schoolhouse and fell from the steps dead.

Seick told the children to get help, then walked a short distance from the schoolhouse and shot himself through the heart.

CANDIDATES RUN A PRELIMINARY HEAT IN DU PAGE

Although the April primaries are not until April 10, actual running for office began literally yesterday at Wheaton, county seat of Dupage county.

The filing of nominating petitions starts this morning, and two of the candidates stayed in the courthouse all night Thursday so they could be at the head of the line. The candidates or their proxies held the positions in line all day yesterday and all last night waiting till the courthouse opens this morning so as to file the first petitions and thus get places at the top of the ticket.

Arthur A. Bennett, candidate for sheriff, and Ray Van Getson, who is seeking the Circuit court clerkship, dashed into the courthouse when it opened yesterday. But when they got to the clerk's office they found that Bernard M. Long, probate clerk, and Eva M. Ellsworth, acting circuit clerk, were ahead of them, having spent the night in their offices.

Forty-five minutes later sounds were heard in the locked attic. The attic door was opened and out walked Charles Heise of Elmhurst, covered with dust, carrying a nominating petition for James F. Cronin of Elmhurst, a candidate for sheriff.

Youth Kills Himself as Father Looks On

While his father and a passerby looked on, Charles Miller, 25 years old, shot and killed himself yesterday in front of his home at 7855 West 45th street, Lyons. The young man had been despondent. He stepped out of the house with a shotgun, placed the barrel against his abdomen and pressed the trigger as his father, Rudolph, and Richard Gath, the passerby, were only a few feet away.

NAB 'AMBULANCE CHASER' POSING AS A REPORTER

Samuel Adams, 3651 Grenshaw street, an "ambulance chaser" for lawyers specializing in personal injury cases, was arrested in the County hospital yesterday when he was found to be carrying a bogus reporter's police card.

Adams appeared at the hospital to see a patient who had been injured in an automobile accident. He is alleged to have posed as a newspaper man. A suspicious nurse notified Dr. Ole Nelson, assistant warden, who caused Adams' arrest.

Questioned later by Capt. John Stege at the Marquette police station Adams said he had received the police card from a law firm in the Steuben building. He said he obtained the names of accident victims from police records, interviewed them, and, where possible, turned their cases over to lawyers on a commission basis.

Earlier in the week the police arrested Herman Stenn in a police station when they discovered he had a bogus reporter's pass. He will be arraigned before Judge Frank Padden in the Stockyards court on Feb. 23. His case is being investigated by the Chicago Bar association.

20 RECEIVERSHIP SUITS FILED ON OVERDUE TAXES

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $332,189, making a total of $104,588,320 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
Feb. 2	$ 3,863	$ 25,054
Uncollected	15,391,861	41,191,024
	1930.	1931.
Feb. 2	$ 69,243	$ 234,029
Uncollected	65,081,167	63,256,344

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $5,328.

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday filed twenty more tax receivership petitions in the County court against properties owing an aggregate tax bill of $36,293 for 1928, 1929 and 1930. The treasurer asks his appointment as receiver for the properties under the Kerner-Skarda act. Among the properties sued were a building at 4432-36 Cottage Grove avenue, which owes $8,909, and a building at 12940 South Western avenue, owing $7,659.

JURY PROBE DUE TODAY IN BAIL JUMPER'S CASE

Surety Accepted by Judge Below Amount of Bond.

The circumstances surrounding the approval of a bond for Lester Weiss, a forger, by Judge Leon Edelman in his home at 1:30 o'clock in the morning, are expected to be told to the grand jury today. Various criminal trials delayed the beginning of the inquiry yesterday, according to Acting First Assistant State's Attorney Otis P. Lightfoot.

Weiss jumped bond of $15,000 on Jan. 26, when he was scheduled for arraignment in the Felony court. Earlier that morning Judge Edelman had approved real estate surety with an assessed valuation of only $8,484, indicating a total value, after deducting incumbrances, of $6,62[illegible], and set free the man accused of obtaining $18,000 by forgery.

Further inquiry into the case yesterday brought reports of a mysterious $200 left behind by Weiss when he fled.

Meeting in Judge's Office.

It was also learned that a meeting was held in the office of Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court last Monday, at which Judge Edelman, Attorney George R. Bieber, and representatives of a west side bank, where Weiss opened an account, were present.

Judge Edelman is said to have rebuked Attorney Bieber for failing to tell him that Weiss had a criminal record. Earlier reports, which purported to be authoritative, said it was not Attorney Bieber, but a professional bondsman, Robert Narcus, who called upon Judge Edelman at his home. One of the investigators for the bank said yesterday that Bieber, prior to the meeting held Monday, had disclaimed any knowledge of the case.

"Asked to Arrange Bond."

"All I know," Bieber was quoted as saying, "was that some one asked me if I would arrange bond for Weiss. I said I didn't know. Then I was asked whether I would represent him and I said not unless I was paid. Later I was told that bond had been arranged. The next morning I went out to Felony court and was just as much surprised as anybody else when Weiss failed to show up."

Judge Edelman insisted that he had approved the bond because he thought it was good.

"So far as I know it is still perfectly good," he added. "If investigation proves that it is not good, I'll be the first to assist the state's attorney's office and will take steps on my initiative to punish those involved."

Efforts to reach Bieber yesterday were unsuccessful.

HUNT ELECTRICAL UNION AGENT IN WHITE SLAYING

Oak Park police last night were seeking William C. Ryan, business agent for the Electrical Workers' union, and Robert Uebert, an alleged labor racketeer, for questioning concerning the murder of William [Three Fingered] Jack White. It was learned that the automobiles of both the men had been seen frequently in front of White's apartment at 920 Wesley avenue, Oak Park, for several weeks prior to his slaying on Jan. 23.

The men were traced, it was learned, through the license plates on their cars which were noted by residents of the flat building where White lived with his bride, Nancy. Ryan, according to the police, lived at the Shoreland hotel, 53d street and South Shore drive, until the day after White's murder, when he moved. Uebert had lived at the Oak Park Arms apartments at Washington boulevard and Oak Park avenue, until the day of White's death, it was said. Uebert, according to the police, had received mail for White at the hotel, presumably delivering it in person to White.

Lieut. Harry Wilson of the Oak Park police, yesterday obtained a continuance until Feb. 14 of the inquest into White's death.

ORGANIZE GROUP TO 'CARRY ON' FOR TWO ROSENBERGS

The memory of Mike and Moe Rosenberg, brothers, who rose from precinct politicians to Democratic bosses of the 24th ward before death ended their careers, is to be perpetuated.

A benevolent institution, to be known as the Michael and Moe Rosenberg Memorial fund, was incorporated for that purpose at Springfield yesterday. Its material objectives are to be the promotion of social, educational, religious, and philanthropic activities. Headquarters will be at 2501 South Hoyne avenue. Incorporators are Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th] and Mrs. Ethel Rosenberg and Harold Rosenberg, widow and son of Mike.

Moe Rosenberg died Jan. 12, on the eve of his trial in federal court on a charge of evading $85,000 in income tax payments. At the time he was a power in west side politics and committeeman of the 24th ward. Early in life Moe was a junk dealer. His political rise dated from 1928 when his brother, Mike, a sanitary district trustee, died. Moe succeeded him as boss of the 24th ward. Both brothers were known for philanthropy in their ward.

Gil Berry's Wife Obtains Job as Film Chorus Girl

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Determined to get into the movies, "if I have to hoof my way in," Winnie Flint Berry, daughter of Amos T. Flint of Chicago and wife of Gil Berry, recent Illinois football star, today took a $40 a week job as chorus girl in the motion picture "Murder at the Vanities." Mrs. Berry, who was twice voted most attractive girl at University of Illinois, says: "I hadn't danced for two years, but when Gil got his job I determined to get one, too, and went to Leroy Prinz, the Paramount studio dance director, and applied to him." Prinz formerly operated Rainbo Gardens in Chicago.

TWO EX-HUSBANDS OF SAME WOMAN SWAP BLOWS IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Apologies and explanations usually follow these Hollywood fist fights, but the principals in the latest encounter remained silent today.

Harry Menjou, brother of Actor Adolphe, and George Pallay, stock broker, ex-husbands of the same woman, traded blows, say eye-witnesses, both in and out of a Hollywood gambling casino early yesterday morning.

Mrs. Fran Menjou divorced Menjou last year. Before her marriage to Menjou she was the wife of Pallay.

Observers reported there was an exchange of words between the two former husbands when they met, and some said Menjou was objecting to Pallay's attentions to their former wife.

New York, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Thirty thousand men set to work today to clear New York streets of a ten inch fall of snow. Among them were 20,000 emergency workers, who receive fifty cents an hour.

ASKS RESTRICTED HABEAS CORPUS RULING IN STATE

Loesch Seeks to Block Judges' Intervention.

Revision of state law to restrict the issuance of habeas corpus writs to the county in which sentence was passed was urged yesterday by Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission, to prevent interference in Cook county justice by downstate judges, who may or may not be acquainted with factors involved in their granting freedom to men convicted and sentenced in Cook county courts.

The most recent intervention was the order Monday by Circuit Judge Clyde H. Thompson of Pontiac granting freedom on a writ of habeas corpus to "Dr." Spencer Brown, serving a sentence of one to ten years in Joliet prison for his part in the one million dollar robbery of Werner Bros. Safety Deposit company in 1923.

Judge Thompson held that Brown was denied the opportunity of serving his state sentence when Cook county authorities turned him over to the federal government. Brown was imprisoned in Leavenworth for 70 months for possession of and tampering with stolen war savings stamps. This evidence had been uncovered in the investigation of the Werner robbery.

The release of James [Fur] Sammons, murderer and rapist, by Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff of Marengo was the most sensational of the habeas corpus interventions. The Illinois Supreme court ordered Judge Shurtleff to expunge his action from the court records. Sammons now is serving a life sentence in Indiana.

Plan New Action.

Every effort will be made to effect a similar upset of Judge Thompson's order freeing Brown, said State's Attorney Courtney yesterday. Assistant State's Attorneys Walter L. McCoy and James M. Cunningham have been assigned to make complete examination of the records. Exactly what steps will be taken has not been determined, but it is probable that mandamus proceedings will be instituted to compel Judge Thompson to strike the order from his records.

The permanent solution of the problem presented by interference of outside judges lies in limiting issuance of habeas corpus writs to the county in which the convict was sentenced, according to Mr. Loesch.

"It is the only remedy I can see," said the veteran enemy of crime. "The law places no limitation as to the judge who may take jurisdiction. A judge in the southern end of the state is thus given the right to pass on Cook county criminal problems.

"This apparent abuse of the valuable writ of habeas corpus has been increasing in the last few years," continued Mr. Loesch, "and it nearly always leads 'flaky.'"

Effecting this change in criminal law might well be a subject for one of the legislature's special sessions, he suggested. Whether the directors of the crime commission will present the matter to the legislature has not been decided.

PEORIA POLICE SEIZE KID WEIL AND TWO PALS

Joseph [Yellow Kid] Weil, swindler who for years operated in Chicago, was arrested yesterday in Peoria. The police there asserted that he and two alleged accomplices were planning to defraud George Chismes, proprietor of a recreation parlor, of a considerable sum.

In the luggage of the three men the police found four bundles, each marked $20,000 on the outside but actually containing only a quantity of blank paper. The police said Weil's companions had given names that were obviously false.

Weil in the last few years has almost abandoned Chicago, possibly because he is so well known here.

REOPEN OLD HOPE HALL AS REFUGE FOR 13 CONVICTS

Shelter for Parolers Put Under State Rule.

Hope Hall, refuge of destitute convicts built in 1903 by Maud Ballington Booth, who with her husband headed the Volunteers of America, has been reopened. The rambling old residence at 8086 West Ravenswood Park, in the center of a residential neighborhood, now houses 13 convicts sent here from Joliet penitentiary.

The hall has been reopened by George T. Scully, newly appointed state superintendent of paroles, who yesterday stated that within a short time some 54 men will be sheltered in the home under state supervision, pending their release on parole. There are two employes of the state department of parole in charge of the convicts.

The old Hope Hall which was operated by the Volunteer organization, was closed in 1925 after two Illinois grand juries had investigated the Len Small "pardon mill" and linked Maj. M. A. Messlein, who had been superintendent of the hall for 16 years prior to 1919, to the alleged pardon scandals. There were no indictments, but the condemnation of the grand juries caused Small, then governor, to dismiss Will Colvin, who was his supervisor of pardons and paroles at the time.

Under the Messlein regime Hope Hall had been a shelter house for convicts without home or family. The Volunteer organization sponsored these men before the state parole board, and after they obtained paroles provided them with food, clothing and a place of residence until they were able to get jobs of their own. Without such a sponsor men without family had been unable to secure parole privileges.

Quiz Discloses Graft.

Early in 1925 a deputy warden at Joliet, Peter Klein, was slain by seven escaping convicts. The men later were recaptured and held for the murder. State's Attorney Robert Crowe of Cook county, and Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom then joined in an investigation of the parole ring. They uncovered evidence which, they charged, disclosed that convicts in the penitentiary had been paying cash for paroles.

Klein's murder, the prosecutors said, occurred because he was a member of the ring and had refused his slayers paroles because they were penniless.

Messlein was accused of taking $600 from a prisoner, who received a parole, and he did not deny the charge. Other prisoners, through friends, purchased large blocks of stocks at high prices, in a tiny manufacturing company that Messlein operated.

The investigation ended in recommendations by the juries that Colvin and others should be held blameable for lawlessness in the prison, and a plea that Colvin be discharged. Ultimately Gov. Small took Colvin off the parole board, but gave him another state job.

The new Hope Hall, according to Supt. Scully will be run under state supervision. It is to be a "stop gap" for men who are eligible for parole, and will be used as a "home," where these men are to be placed until their paroles are granted. He said that the title to the property, which is held by the Volunteers of America, is to be given to Gov. Horner within three weeks for a consideration of $1 a year.

The cost of running the new hall, the superintendent said, will amount to $54 a man annually in contrast to a cost of $306 a man for prisoners at the Joliet penitentiaries. He said that the state welfare department had the statutory power to open the hall, and added that he has the approval of Gov. Horner.

LA GUARDIA SEES TAXICAB STRIKE SETTLED TODAY

Employers Say Mayor Is Cause of Row.

New York, Feb. 2.—(AP)—More than half of the city's 14,677 licensed taxicabs were idle today when the drivers suddenly went on strike, but Mayor Florello H. La Guardia predicted they would be running again tomorrow.

The drivers seek to have distributed among themselves between 500,000 and a million dollars collected from a five cent tax on each fare imposed by the last city administration. The courts held the levy illegal and the operating companies are holding the receipts in escrow pending an appeal.

When it developed the city was not to receive the money, Mayor La Guardia suggested it go to the drivers. It was to enforce this suggestion that the strikers left ther cabs in the garages.

The mayor conferred tonight with representatives of the strikers and employers. He said arrangements had been made for both sides to meet and adjust their differences.

Regret Business Disruption.

Strike leaders estimated 30,000 drivers had qut work, but company spokesmen held this figure exaggerated.

Jerome Hyman, traffic manager of Radio Fleet Owners, said it was "unfortunate that the mayor chooses at a time when business conditions are at their lowest ebb within the industry to precipitate such a movement without giving ample consideration to the sharp loss in invested capital during the past few years."

B. M. Seymour, president of the Terminal Transportation system, said the mayor's proposal that the disputed funds be turned over to the drivers precipitated the strike.

The employers have offered to give the drivers 40 per cent, claiming imposition of the tax has cut down their receipts and that their invested capital is in danger.

Suggests Arbitration Body.

Police dispersed 1,500 striking drivers from the Grand Central terminal and the pickets stormed through the midtown hotel district pulling drivers from their seats and wrenching license plates off cabs standing in "feed lines."

Mayor La Guardia, who encountered a group of strikers on his way to the city hall in the morning, offered to appoint an arbitration committee. To a delegation of strikers he said:

"I want to warn you against trying any rough stuff. If you do I will get rough. I warn you against hiring any strong arm men or gangsters, and I want you to inform me if you hear of any of the companies doing the same."

Declaring the drivers had a perfect right to strike if they did so peacefully, he added.

Holds Up New Licenses.

"I know that you are not earning a living wage and that the hours during which you are compelled to work create a danger to the public."

The mayor ordered the issuance of taxi drivers' licenses suspended temporarily to prevent the importation of strike breakers.

An organization composed of 2,000 single-cab owners announced that while they had not joined the strike they were in sympathy with it. The strikers planned to furnish independent cabs with stickers to protect them from molestation.

U. S. TO AUCTION EIGHTY CASES OF CHINESE WHISKY

Chicagoans will have a chance to buy at auction 30 cases of Naui-Kwei-Lu whisky and 50 cases of Ng-Ka-Py whisky within the next few weeks. This became known yesterday when Assistant United States Attorney Eugene A. Tappy announced that he would apply for a libel order on the consignment of rice whisky seized in 1930.

The whisky was brought to Chicago by Hong Ming Lak three years ago and seized by federal agents despite the owner's contention that the beverage was "a tonic for tired celestials." The owner since has died and the whisky has lain forgotten in the government stores.

It came to light when a Chinese visiting the Federal building noticed the drink manufactured in his homeland and gave vent to gleeful exclamations. The Chinese, whose name was not learned, announced that he would return for the auction.

CUT RATE DAIRY TRUCK STOLEN, DRIVEN IN RIVER

Vandals yesterday stole a large truck belonging to the Edgewater Dairy company, cut-rate concern at 5348 Ravenswood avenue, dumped it into the north branch of the Chicago river, and spoiled a load of milk valued at $500.

Walter Schladweiler, 1053 Dakin street, the driver, and Henry Winter, 940 Argyle street, his helper, had parked the truck, which contained 2,400 quarts of milk and cream for store deliveries, at Lawrence and Western avenues while they ate breakfast.

When they emerged from the restaurant the truck was gone. It was found later in the river near California and Montrose avenues. During the recent milk strike, several members of the milk wagon drivers union were arrested for attacks on trucks and drivers of the Edgewater company.

TOWN GOES BACK TO WORK AFTER GENERAL STRIKE

Row Over Two Bosses Causes Walkout.

Centralia, Ill., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The city-wide strike that almost completely tied up business in this city of 12,000—closing theaters, bakeries, barber shops and what not—was settled tonight and the word went out for every one to return to work.

The strike started Monday when 450 employés of the Barnes Shoe company walked out demanding the resignations of a foreman and a forelady whom they charged with favoritism to friends and abuse to others and rapidly spread until every union worker and several nonunion workers joined the walkout in sympathy.

From 3 p. m. until 6 p. m.—after business virtually was at a standstill—executives of the shoe workers' union and the shoe company remained in conference and finally reached an agreement.

James Holder, president of the shoe workers' union, said the agreement was that the foreman and the forelady were to resign in return for the resignations of all officers of the union local.

The action late tonight was ratified by the local, new officers elected and messages were sent to sympathy strike organizations — encompassing every union in the city—that the difficulty was over. Edwin Nichols was elected the new president of the shoe workers' union.

The end of the strike came at a time when the tieup of the city was practically complete.

Earlier today the city had lights, water, and food, but it was forced to worry about heat and there were no movies, no ice for highballs, no cakes or pies or bread, while whiskers grew and hair went untrimmed. The city's barbers, bakers, carpenters, hodcarriers, plasterers, plumbers, painters, teamsters, motion picture operators, electricians, and ice men joined with the sympathy movement after workers of the Glendridge mine quit Tuesday morning.

SALOONKEEPER IS ROBBED.

Two robbers yesterday invaded the saloon of Joseph Shotkus at 4518 Gross avenue, choked and slugged Shotkus and robbed him of $270.

Hold Annual Meeting

Elmer T. Stevens of Charles A. Stevens & Co. was elected chairman of the board of the State Street council at its annual meeting yesterday in the Palmer house. He succeeds Gordon Strong. The council decided to name a committee of three to insure active cooperation with World's Fair officials in boosting Chicago and its 1934 exposition. A banner, bearing the council's 1934 slogan of "We Must Continue to Keep Chicago Ahead," stood at the head of the luncheon table.

Walter L. Gregory, vice president of the Palmer house, was reelected president of the council. Also reelected were J. L. Kesner, treasurer, and H. W. Rieger, executive secretary. Henry G. Hart succeeds Mr. Stevens as vice president. Frederick D. Corley, John L. Coyne, D. F. Kelly, Bruce MacLeish, and D. M. Nelson were reelected as members of the executive committee.

A letter was sent to Henry C. Lytton expressing the city's loss of a "business leader and civic leader" in the recent death of his son, George Lytton. George R. Benson was named to fill this vacancy on the board and John O'Connor to fill that left by S. N. Baskin's retirement from active business.

Radio Crooner Divorced by Opera Ballet Danseuse

Mrs. Ruth Murphy Wildey, 4736 Woodlawn avenue, who danced with the Chicago Civic and New York Metropolitan opera ballets under the name of Ruth Pryor, was granted an uncontested divorce yesterday from Russ Wildey, a radio crooner. She charged before Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the Superior court that he deserted her Aug. 20, 1932. Mrs. Wildey was granted the custody of a daughter, Janis, 6 years old, and $5 a week for the child's support. She received a property settlement out of court.

AUSTRIA SENDS ENVOY TO U. S. TO SEEK TRADE

Wants to Sell Wine, Buy Lard and Fruit.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Feb. 2.—Chancellor Dollfuss' government is making a bid for the American wine business. Herr Loeschnigg, president of the Lower Austria Chamber of Commerce, left today for the United States to represent his government on a general mission to increase trade between the United States and Austria, and especially to see if he can obtain a bigger quota on wine exports to the United States.

Loeschnigg said he would be prepared to meet American demands and that in return for raising the wine quota for Austria, this country would import more American lard, bacon, and fruit.

See Political Obstacle.

Austria's difficulty in importing American lard in exchange for wine arises from the fact that it now imports most of its lard and bacon from Hungary and is anxious to keep up the trade with Hungary for political reasons. Chancellor Dollfuss will visit Hungary next week largely to negotiate a new Italo-Austro-Hungarian trade bloc.

George H. Earle, American minister, who is now in the United States on a vacation, took back with him a large amount of data on the Austrian wine trade and is prepared to lay it before American importers.

Beer Quota Unsatisfactory.

Loeschnigg said that Austrian beer exports to the United States are unsatisfactory, despite the fact that Austria is one of Europe's distinguished manufacturers of this product.

He said, however, he would go after this business also. He revealed that an Austrian company, Rostak & Baerlocker, is opening up new offices and factories in the United States for manufacturing beer barrels. Workers and engineers of the company have already left for America. This company's technicians are experts in brewery construction.

Rooming House Owner Shoots Visitor of Girl

Fremont Mordal, 27 years old, 1500 East 61st street, an automobile company employé, was shot in the legs this morning during a fight with Charles Wilde, owner of a rooming house at 1706 South Michigan avenue. Mordal and his friend, Charles Hannan, 5722 South May street, attempted to visit a girl acquaintance in the rooming house and were denied admittance, police said. A fight with Wilde followed in which Wilde shot Mordal in each leg.

TURKISH TRADE ENVOYS PREPARE TO SAIL FOR U. S.

Mission Seeks to Place $60,000,000 Order.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The Turkish commercial mission, which has $60,000,000 worth of contracts to place, plans to sail for America on the SS Deutschland on March 9 from Bremen. However, there is a possibility in view of the mission's failure in England, its members may be able to sail on the steamship Volendam on Feb. 24.

A change has been made in the mission's leadership which enhances the importance of the delegation. Hilmi Bey of the department of agriculture has been replaced by Djelal Bey, chief of the finance department, and President Mustafa Kemal's right hand man.

Seeks Machinery.

Turkey will ask for immediate credits for about $50,000,000, to be secured by government bills over a period of 10 years.

What she is after is machinery for paper, glass and shoe factories, railway material, material for a ferry, tunnel or bridge connecting European and Asiatic systems—road and rail—mining machinery and a plant for development of hydro-electric power by damming Anatolian lakes.

Some orders for textile machinery have been secured by Russia, but Turkey is anxious to place all orders for her five year plan of development either in the United States or Great Britain because she feels certain that neither country is likely to be engaged in a European war.

Britain Loses Orders.

Because Britain has turned down the credit proposals and lost the orders, Turkey is now turning to the United States.

In the meantime the Turish coal commission, which left England for Belgium a few days ago has been ordered to return immediately to Ankara for consultation. Its members may be ordered to join the general trade commission in the voyage to the United States. The members left Brussels today for Istanbul.

Wife "A Mere Patient"; Gets Alimony from Doctor

Judge Rudolph F. Desort, in the Superior court, yesterday ordered Dr. Max Lewis Busch, part owner of the Edgewater and North Chicago hospitals, to pay temporary alimony of $20 a week to Mrs. Eve Busch of the Sovereign hotel. He set trial of Mrs. Busch's suit for separate maintenance for Wednesday. In her bill, filed by Attorney Norman Becker, she charged that Dr. Busch refused to speak to her except on infrequent occasions, and then gave her brief consultations as if she was one of his patients. They were married on May 13 last year.

CLEANER TELLS OF PAYING FOR GANG PROTECTION

State Witness in Racket Conspiracy Trial.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

Theodore Biever, bankrupt master cleaner, took the stand for the state last night in the racket conspiracy case before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan in Criminal court. The judge has ordered night sessions to speed the trial and clear the court docket. Eighteen defendants charged with conspiracy in connection with the cleaning and dyeing industry are on trial in the case.

Loud voiced, slightly deaf, and belligerent, the bushy haired witness was questioned on direct examination by Prosecutor Thomas Dodd Healy. He said his concern, the Arcade cleaners of 518 West 31st street, now bankrupt, had joined a syndicate of six south side cleaners to buy protection by gangsters against the cleaning and dyeing unions.

"The Atlas cleaners, run by the union officers, were grabbing all my business," he asserted, identifying a defendant, James P. Gorman of the Retail Cleaners' union, as president of the Atlas plant.

Payments to Mystery Collector.

Healy handed the witness a sheaf of canceled checks, which he admitted paying at $40 a week to a mysterious collector and which, the state later expects to show, were cashed by "Machine Gun Jack" McGurn, gangland gunner. The prosecutor was unable to make the witness admit knowledge of a connection between his gang protectors and the union, however.

Attorney William E. Rodriguez, for the defense, cross-examined the witness and forced him to admit that the union chiefs threatened to call a strike only when he did not pay his drivers' wages and continued to threaten such strikes even after his syndicate employed the "gunmen's protective committee."

Q.—You simply hired these thugs to wreck the union, didn't you? A.—Well, not exactly, but we did want cheaper labor.

Q.—The union officers threatened strikes only when you didn't meet your pay roll (a nod of assent came from the witness) and they continued to threaten strikes after you got your "thugs'" protective committee? A.—Yes, they threatened, but, believe me, they didn't pull any. We got drivers for $18 and $20 a week after we hired protection.

On redirect examination Prosecutor Healy tried to have his witness declare it was competition from the union cleaning plant that forced his wage cutting. A defense objection was sustained and that testimony was blocked.

Introduce Squires Agreement.

Earlier in the session the celebrated Squires agreement, by which another defendant, Dr. Benjamin M. Squires undertook to purge the racket infested industry in 1931, was introduced in evidence.

It was a modest title that the University of Chicago economist assumed, according to the copy of the agreement read in evidence. But as Prosecutor Healy read the terms of the agreement it became clear that the 65 master cleaners, hundreds of small tailors, and union business agents who signed the contract had given Dr. Squires all the powers of an autocrat. A rueful smile crossed the economist's face as Healy outlined the scope of the powers granted to him.

"The sales manager shall have full charge of sales, with authority to employ and discharge all employés, fix prices, wages, and working hours, and exercise every authority of sales manager, which the owner of the plant shall ratify and confirm in advance," Mr. Healy read.

"Owners of cleaning plants shall be designated submanagers, but shall submit their resignations to the general sales manager upon signing this contract, he having full power to substitute his own subsales manager upon any infraction of the agreement."

Pact Illegal, State's View.

Dr. Squires shook his head, reflecting perhaps that even now as impartial chairman of the industry under the NRA, with the full power of his government sponsors behind him, he has less authority than the Squires agreement gave him. The flaw in the agreement, as Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber expects to show, was its illegality, which contention he expects to prove through Dr. Squires' failure ever to test its enforcement in the courts.

The state's version of how it was enforced has been developing for the last three days through union tailors who testified that at every infraction of its terms their windows were shattered or their shops bombed. Defense attorneys have been offsetting their direct testimony by showing that in many instances the aggrieved tailors were encroaching on such dye plant owners as George [Bugs] Moran and Murray Humphries, raising the presumption that the violende came from that quarter, not the Squires institute.

Method of Collecting Dues.

The institute's alleged method of collecting delinquent dues—which dues the agreement fixed at 2 per cent of gross sales—was related by two state witnesses of the day.

Meyer Berkowsky, partner in the Columbia Cleaners, 1129 West 14th street, testified that he owed the Institute $300 in dues when Dr. Squires' co-defendants, James P. Gorman and Charlie Goldstein, of the cleaning and dyeing unions, called a strike at his plant. When he wrote a $50 check in part payment and signed a note for the remainder, he testified, the strike was called off within three hours.

At the morning session Attorney Louis Greenberg, representing one of the defendants, F. Walter Crowley, leader of the master cleaners, dumped a "five foot shelf" of law books before the bar and argued for two hours for a directed verdict of acquittal. His contention was that the state, in introducing evidence of violence first and promising to link that violence with a general conspiracy later, was "putting the cart before the horse."

Judge Finnegan granted him the right to renew the same motion later and the trial went on.

WOMAN DOCTOR WILL TAKE STAND IN DEATH TRIAL

To Deny Charge That She Poisoned Surgeon.

Greenwood, Miss., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Counsel for Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, Greenwood woman physician, announced late today that Dr. Dean would take the stand in her murder trial to deny that she was responsible for the death of Dr. John Preston Kennedy, Greenwood surgeon, who is alleged to have charged on his death bed that Dr. Dean served him poison in a drink of whisky.

Dr. Dean, 33 year old child specialist formerly associated in practice with Dr. Kennedy, has maintained silence about the case since she was indicted.

"You'll hear all about it when Dr. Dean takes the stand," said Dick Deaman of defense counsel when asked about defense plans.

One juror, the twelfth, was still to be selected when court was adjourned late today.

At adjournment the state had four challenges left, but the defense had exhausted its last challenge. Exhaustion of the last defense challenge was considered a defense move to back up any appeal they might take to the Supreme court in the event of a conviction.

Two regular jury panels and a special venire have been exhausted this week, and deputy sheriffs were ordered to scour around to locate additional talesmen.

All indications pointed to the beginning of evidence taking tomorrow.

Frank Gotthard, 38 years old, 3025 Logan boulevard, a janitor, was fined $25 yesterday by Judge Alfred O. Erickson for kicking a dog, Miss Viola Larson, 1506 West Erie street, an investigator for the Chicago Humane society, was the complaining witness.

OTTAWA SHAKEN BY EARTHQUAKE; GROUND RUMBLES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 2.—The capital of Canada and surrounding region, which, geologists say, is one of the most impervious areas to earth disturbances in the world, was shaken by an earthquake at 11:35 a. m. today.

Householders on the outskirts of Ottawa, at Rockcliffe and in the Gatineau hills, reported hearing a muffled roar, followed by an underground rumbling noise, and then feeling their houses rock as if in a windstorm. No damage was reported.

According to the dominion observatory the quake lasted twelve seconds.

LAUNDRY OWNERS ASK INJUNCTION IN PRICE WAR

A Circuit court injunction was sought yesterday by 179 members of the Chicago Laundry Owners' association to restrain 17 insurgent laundrymen from carrying on a price cutting campaign on wet wash laundry which the plaintiffs charge is in violation of President Roosevelt's reemployment agreement and of the proposed NRA laundry code.

One of the charges of the plaintiffs was that the defendants have run "bait advertisments" in which a price of 3 cents a pound was quoted for wet wash laundry, while in much smaller type it was explained that the 3 cent price did not apply until 60 cents had been paid for the first 15 pounds. The plaintiffs charge 5 cents a pound.

After Judge Harry M. Fisher, to whom the case was referred, had pronounced the advertisments "a fraud on their face," Attorney George Lavin, representing the defendants, promised that the style of future ads would be changed. The case was set for hearing Monday afternoon.

The plaintiffs charge the defendants with "a conspiracy to engage in destructive and ruinous trade competition with the purpose or effect of destroying the laundry business in Chicago" and assert that the low price schedule is in violation of the association contract signed in September, 1932, by the defendants, and will force the plaintiffs to operate at a loss."

Self-Inflicted Wounds Kill Drug Store Janitor

Peter Andrie, 48 years old, janitor in a drug store at 1501 South Ashland avenue, who was taken from the Chicago river at the Ashland avenue bridge Thursday with four bullet wounds near his heart, died yesterday at the county hospital. Andrie regained consciousness before his death and told police that he had shot himself and leaped into the river, after throwing acid into the face of Edwin Platt, son of the drug store owner. Physicians at St. Anthony's hospital, where Platt was taken for treatment, said his condition was not serious.

FAILS TO CROSS SEA TO REWOO WIFE, SO IS DENIED DIVORCE

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Julius Keck of Newark lost his suit for divorce on the grounds of desertion today because he did not cross the Atlantic ocean and personally request his wife, Elsie, to return to him from Germany.

Vice Chancellor John Backes refused the divorce on the ground that Keck was duty bound by honest effort to neutralize the barrier he created to her return when he wrote a letter in 1929 that he had lost all love for his wife.

The case is unusual in that judgment in favor of the wife was without her appearance before the court in person. Since 1927 Mrs. Keck has been living in Germany, having gone there for her health. She was represented by counsel.

"He was in duty bound by honest effort to neutralize the barrier he created to her return," ruled the vice chancellor. "She was receptive and I feel he would have succeeded had he wooed her with a fraction of the ardor by which he captured her, or upon failure then would have succeeded to a divorce which now must be denied him."

DETECTIVES HEAR OF PLOT TO MAR MAE WEST'S FACE

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Vague rumors of a plot to disfigure the attractive face of Mae West reached detectives tonight while a Superior court jury was ready to determine the fate of Edward Friedman, accused of robbing the movie actress of $20,000 in jewels and cash.

The report that "underworld mobmen" might attempt to hurl acid into Miss West's face, thereby wreaking revenge on her for her testimony during the trial, was received by Detectives Jack Chriss and Jack Southard.

They said the report came from a Hollywood film studio. Chriss and Southard said they had posted additional men about Miss West's apartment house pending the conclusion of the case.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

MR. ICKES AND HIS WORK FUNDS.

Secretary Ickes is also one of Secretary Wallace's major prophets, although Mr. Wallace has as yet mentioned only Senator Norris in the notable company of worthy warriors for the right (on the left). The secretary of the interior raises his voice against conditions in the PWA and the CWA and warns all that misdeeds will bring wrath and punishment upon miscreants and rascals. Mr. Ickes means it and within his power he will make good his word. Within his power must be stipulated as the condition.

First it must be noticed that Mr. Ickes walks one side of the street and most of the administrators are on the other. The secretary of the interior will have no collusion on bids for contracts or materials and no dodges to eliminate competition. On the other side of the street the administrators by code and otherwise plan for monopolistic collusion, and when they suspect the possibility of competition to benefit the buyer act to suppress it.

Mr. Ickes, spending public money, thinks he should get the lowest price he can and that contractors should bid against each other in honest competition. There is here a heretical touch of the old deal which is rejected by the other administrators. They deal with codes suspending the anti-trust law and encouraging or forcing the pooling of interests for high price fixing. The New Dealers are committed to the program of restoring trade and industry by sticking up the prices beyond the consumer's reach and at the same time attacking his purchasing power by beating down the value of his dollar. Secretary Wallace gave a trial to the idea that if the price of milk was raised the people would buy more of it. He discovered that it wouldn't work, but other administrators believe it will.

Mr. Ickes as a New Dealer should welcome combinations in restraint of competition, collusion to raise prices and make the buyer pay them, but as administrator of the civil works and public works funds he wants his money's worth in a free and competitive market. If he gets it he will get what the government does not intend the general public shall have. Many things in Washington are difficult to understand. This is one of them.

It is an infamy that gross frauds should be committed against public funds devoted to the relief of indigent people, but it would only add a mistake to others to expect that where there is opportunity there will not be fraud. The philosophy in Washington is that the money must be spent. It is not an essential that the thing procured be needed. The emergency does not require the thing, it requires the spending of the money. The idea is to take it from one pocket and put it in another. It is loose money, and loose money is inherently demoralizing. It gets out of the realm of conscience. It gets into the realm of politics, where conscience is generally amenable.

Even when the rule which Mr. Ickes tries to enforce was the general rule government spending was seldom free from percentage politics. Fraud, waste, and special privilege and profit were common. What would have been known as waste a year ago has now acquired a virtue. To guard it against scandal will require a miracle. Mr. Ickes will try to produce one. He can be given credit for that, but he is one man against a system which knows all the tricks and which never before had such opportunity.

JUDICIAL RELEASE OF PRISONERS.

Circuit Judge Clyde H. Thompson at Pontiac released Spencer Brown from the Joliet penitentiary on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus filed by a Bloomington law firm. Brown was serving a sentence of one to ten years on a conviction for receiving stolen property. He was a chemist whose criminal actions became known in a police raid following the robbery of Werner Brothers' safety deposit boxes. The police found $24,000 of stolen bonds in his possession and also evidence of much other criminal activity, such as the preparation of nitroglycerin for safe blowers and the chemical treatment of stolen war savings stamps to change their serial numbers.

On the forgery charge he was sent to Leavenworth after a trial in the federal courts. He was also convicted in the state courts and on his release from the federal prison in 1932 he was put in Joliet. Judge Thompson at Pontiac issued the writ of habeas corpus on the ground that the criminal had been deprived of an opportunity of serving his sentence in the state prison when the Cook county authorities turned him over to the federal government. The same point had been argued in his behalf before Judge Feinberg in Chicago, with the ruling that the convict must serve both terms and that the Leavenworth imprisonment did not satisfy the Illinois sentence.

This is the second instance of late in which a court outside Cook county has interfered with the sentence of the Criminal court in Cook county. The notorious "Fur" Sammons was released by Judge Shurtleff in Marengo. The state Supreme court reversed Judge Shurtleff and ordered him to expunge the action from his records. Sammons meanwhile had been caught by the Indiana habitual criminal act and is in an Indiana penitentiary for life, which disposes of him if he can be kept there.

Judge Thompson's action is a piece off the same bolt of goods as Judge Shurtleff's. It is equally extraordinary and reprehensible. Courts of proper jurisdiction had passed upon the question raised before Judge Thompson and it had been decided that the convict had acquired no rights and the state had lost none. He was where he should be. Judge Thompson's action has made trouble for the Cook county state's attorney's office and has muddied the waters in a fashion which might enable a dangerous man to regain his liberty without being punished in accord with the finding in law. A court does not gain enviable distinction by such procedure.

EVANSTON AS A YARDSTICK.

The citizens of Evanston can congratulate themselves upon their competence in self-government as revealed in the tabulation of corporate expenditures and appropriations recently prepared by the city's finance committee.

The tabulation is as candid as it is informative. It shows what a community can do to pare appropriations to meet expectations of reduced income; and when income runs even below expectations, to pare expenditures below appropriations. What that kind of fiscal management means for municipal solvency goes without saying; what it means for the taxpayers can be told most readily in actual figures.

In 1931 Evanston's corporate fund appropriations totaled $2,202,000. The corresponding figure for 1934 is $1,208,000. The decrease is 45 per cent.

In 1931 the actual expenditure was $1,663,000. In 1933 the corresponding figure was $1,198,000.

In 1931 the actual draft upon property owners for taxes amounted to $1,089,000. Last year the figure had been reduced to $764,000. The estimate for 1934 calls for $666,000 in property taxes, and if the usual savings are effected the actual draft will be even less.

Evanston's 1933 appropriations, including an item for loss and cost of collection, totaled $1,404,000. This amounts to about $20 for each inhabitant. The roughly comparable figure for Chicago was $110,000,000, which amounts to about $30 for each inhabitant. Evanston's city government costs about 30 per cent less than Chicago's, assuming that Chicago's expenditures run as far below appropriations as Evanston's do.

Evanston's experience suggests that on corporate fund expenses alone the taxpayers of Chicago might save close to $30,000,000 without serious impairment of the quality of government in the community.

JAPAN SHIES FROM A NAVY AGREEMENT.

It might be unwise not to give careful consideration to the suggestion made in the Japanese house of peers by Yoshizawa, former foreign minister, that the 1935 naval conference be abandoned "unless preliminary negotiations should show that there is a possibility of agreement." That possibility does not have much weight in Japanese opinion just now.

It is remarked of international conferences that they nearly always aggravate the trouble they were called to settle. This is true of the naval agreements, which left Japan with a grievance not fully appreciated for its real seriousness in the United States. The two naval conferences were thought to be of better results than other international get-togethers which were frustrated, because the naval conferences reached agreements. Other attempts at agreement merely fanned the flames. If now appears almost certain that if the United States, Great Britain, and Japan try to reach another naval understanding they will merely raise a fresh dispute, make the issues more acute, and result in a rise of tempers.

Japan pretends to be seeking a ground for an amicable understanding with the United States in a desire to allay the provocative elements in the relations of the two nations. The United States puts as much trust as possible in these good intentions, the object sought being so desirable. It is not unlikely that if nature be allowed to take her course, if both Japan and the United States feel free to adopt such defense measures as they see fit, the tendency will be toward amicable rather than hostile arrangements. The idea that the United States seeks by diplomacy to reduce Japan to a state of insecurity is one which can prevail only to the great injury of the two nations.

If the Japanese believe that they will be forced out of a naval conference by American and British insistence upon limitations prejudicial to them, it would be better to abandon the idea of the conference.

Editorial of the Day

COUNTY GOVERNMENT.

[Danville (Ill.) Commercial-News.]

Petitions are being circulated in Peoria county asking that the question of changing the form of government be submitted to a vote of the people. The proposed change would do away with the ancient township system and place the entire county under the control of commissioners.

Illinois has a law providing for this change if the people wish to make it. Several counties are now operating under the commission form. More counties are planning to make the change. In other counties an attempt to submit the proposition to the voters has been stopped by technicalities.

In northern Michigan an attempt is being made to consolidate two counties, a step in advance of the change in government in a single county, and the best argument put forward in favor of the consolidation is the warning to the voters not to look for any encouragement in the move to the county officials.

In Illinois the same thing is true. The people can look for no encouragement from the township or county officials in such a movement. It is a step that is up to the voters. As a separate unit of government the township has served its purpose. In the horse and buggy days, when a trip to the county seat required almost as much time as a journey to the state capital, there was excuse for the township.

The township has no functions that cannot be taken over by the county, without the slightest injury to the interests of the taxpayer. Abolishment of the nineteen townships in Vermilion county would eliminate the operating costs of these individual governmental units and would not add materially to the cost of the county government.

Opposition from those holding offices in the townships is to be expected. County officials, fearful of any change from existing routine, cannot be expected to join in the movement. Any change will have to come from the taxpaying voters who are counting their pennies today.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. — Ed.

WE'RE TOLD we really will not know it's a sixty cent dollar for at least six months or a year. This seems to make it practically painless. However, when we do find it out—ouch! Wonder if, when the moment actually arrives and the dollar drops right down to 60 cents, we couldn't take gas? Or have we had the gas?

BUT OVER IN PARIS the Americans know right this minute that the darned thing is worth only sixty cents. When the American dollar is tendered in payment butter costs 82 cents a pound; roast beef, 77 cents a pound; eggs, 84 cents a dozen; sliced ham, $1.08 a pound. And those are the prices we're assured we'll have to pay as the dollar goes sliding down to sixty cents. It might be a good idea to hoard a lot of eggs and roast beef and ham and things in the safety box down at the bank.

"YOUNGEST PORTIA of Cook County Bar Wins First Case."—Headline. Attention, pupils of journalism! Now you see you must pay attention to what your wise old teacher tells you. Long ago I warned you to be on your guard to use newspaper English when and if you got a job. Some of you who have not listened carefully to teacher would have written that headline, "Youngest Woman Lawyer Wins Her First Case." Tsk, tsk, tsk! You would have been immediately bounced out of the local room into the midst of a hard, cold winter, to say nothing of the hard, cold pavement. Now, don't forget this—there are no longer any women lawyers. They are all—but by this time you ought to know, and if you don't then keep away from a newspaper office when you go out for a job.

FEBRUARY DAY.

Like a length of old-fashioned silk,
White sprigged on shimmering brown,
The soft falling folds of the hills
Lie patterned with patches of snow.
Thawing furrows in Fall plowed fields
Tempt a raucous raven flock;
Pigeons swerve from the roof's warm slope,
Swift, light, aluminum winged;
And above the frost free, quickening earth
Sails a delicate, daylight moon.

THE JAPS PROPOSE the 1935 naval conference be abandoned. And doesn't that prove something? Certainly it does if you look at the darned thing from a certain angle. Doesn't it prove that the Japs expect their navy officers to be so busy fighting in 1935 they won't have time to attend the naval conferences? Of course it might also prove that the Japs think naval conferences are just a lot of hooey, cost a lot of money and never get anywhere. But why be a spoil-sport?

ORATORY IS NOT yet dead. One of the really great speeches of all ages has just been delivered by a colored longshoreman named J. N. Nicholls. It was during an NRA code hearing at Norfolk, Va., where there was much wrangling which had gone on for hours and hours. The eloquent Nicholls arose and made the following address: "Much has been said; nothing has been did." Daniel Webster, John C. Calhoun, or Henry Clay never reached greater flights.

To regret the mating season
Of two lovers, strange to look on:
Radio and what you cook on.

It's my guess that hi-de-ho
Has no truck with biscuit dough.
Cakes may rise (with indignation)
As you dial your favored station.

Don't complain if steaks are tough
When a crooner does his stuff.
Even Sherry's recipes
Can't compete with flatted C's.

WHY IS GOOD AIR?

THE agency or quality in good air which makes it wholesome and that in bad air which makes it harmful still eludes us. It is said that we can go without food for three weeks, without water for three days, and without air for three minutes. The inference is that water is seven times as important as food for the human system, and air ranks higher than water. The figures are not right, as a matter of fact; but that is of secondary importance, since the statement is used only for the purpose of making the point. Nor is the inference correct in any proper sense.

We need the oxygen air contains in order to burn chemicals that must be burned. We must breathe for other reasons beyond the need for oxygen. In fact, under everyday practical conditions, air as a source of supply for oxygen calls for no thought. The supply is far beyond the need. Therefore, oxygen content is not the important element that makes air wholesome or not.

Used air is rich in carbonic acid. For a long time we thought it was this chemical that made bad air unwholesome. That theory was abandoned early. Carbon monoxide is rarely present in air in unwholesome proportions. The widespread quality now under discussion is not carbon monoxide.

A theory widely accepted a generation ago was that bad air was unwholesome because it contained "crowd poison." The expired air contains many gaseous, excretory products, from onion flavor to halitosis ethers. It is the presence of such excretion products that makes bad air unwholesome. That theory was popular a quarter of a century ago.

Then came the theory that bad air was unwholesome and good air was healthful because of what is loosely called "air conditions." By this is meant because its temperature and its content of water and freedom from dust, and its rate and force of movement made for comfort, it was called wholesome or otherwise. This explanation still stands. It is the best we have. But it does not entirely satisfy us. We keep casting about for something new that we feel is needed to complete the picture.

One that makes a strong appeal is a certain electrical condition of the air that we have in mind when we say the air is ionized. This theory has much to support it. It is in line with many of the newly discovered and now accepted qualities and capacities of electricity. It is being given a moderately extensive practical trial. So far as the demonstrations have gone, ionization is not making good. The ability of ionized air to improve metabolism, to modify breathing, heart beat, pulse rate, and the action of organs that can be well observed has not shown that ionization has much beneficial effect. The experimenters are still at work on the problem, approaching it in other ways, from other angles, and by other methods. There is still hope that the cause of goodness and badness of air can be found in its electrical condition, but so far we have nothing more substantial than hopes.

PROBABLY NOT CANCER.

M. K. writes: I am a 51 year old widow. Seven months ago I had my gall bladder removed. I suffer lately with the same pains I had before the operation. I am afraid I have cancer of the liver. How can I find out? I feel fine otherwise and have not lost any weight.

REPLY.

Your physician can tell you. Probably you haven't cancer. Operation on the gall bladder occasionally fails to relieve the symptoms. Particularly is this true if the case was an old one.

DRY SKIN.

R. T. writes: 1. I am a man in my early twenties. The skin all over my body is extremely dry in the winter time. How can I remedy this?

2. I am troubled with dandruff and a very dry scalp. I soak my head in cocoanut oil and wash it out with pine tar soap. Is this treatment beneficial or harmful? Can you prescribe a better treatment?

REPLY.

1. Do your best to keep out of hot, dry air. Go south for the winter or live in a greenhouse or laundry and you will not be troubled by dry skin.

2. Wash your scalp with a good soap, one that is not very drying. Then grease it. An animal fat is better than one of vegetable origin for that purpose. Spend much time brushing and rubbing.

YOU ARE WRONG.

Miss R. N. writes: I tried to convince a person that boils are a blood condition and should be treated internally as well as externally, but did not have very good luck. This person has had boils for several years every spring and fall and some were in clusters.

REPLY.

You are wrong. A boil is the result of an infection of a hair shaft or some deep skin structure with staphylococci. In some cases diabetes or high blood pressure is a contributing cause.

FACTS VAGUE.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother had some money in the postal savings. Application asks whether letters testamentary have been issued or filed. There is a small will and I think it has been in the paper. Still I am asked to fill out this blank or application even though it says not to fill out if letters testamentary are to be filed or will be issued. What should I do? C. V.

It is not clear what question you intend to ask. We would infer from the facts that you state that if the estate is to be put through the Probate court the postoffice officials would insist on your producing a certified copy of the letters authorizing you to ask as executrix, but that if the estate is not to be probated other steps may be taken to waive the requirement.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MORTGAGE BONDS.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. On the margin of a mortgage bond we hold appears the name "A. F." Until about a year ago we assumed this man to be the trustee. At that time we signed a three year extension on this bond, but just prior to that the property had been taken over by a concern dealing in second mortgages. 2. The new bonds came back signed "D. C.," trustee. 3. Now which man really is the trustee in this case? Eight months' back interest is due on the bond. 4. Will the trustee have to pay it? 5. He has been collecting the rent and letting taxes, interest, and assessments accumulate. There are five or six other bondholders on this property, but we don't know who they are. 6. How shall we proceed to protect our interest to the greatest possible extent? N. S.

1. It is a common practice for the trustee to sign as trustee on the margin merely for the purpose of identifying the bonds. We could advise to better advantage if you had stated what wording appears in connection with the signature in question.

2. Your statement does not make clear whether this signature purports to be that of the trustee for identification or whether he signs as maker of the bonds.

3. The question who is trustee under the trust deed depends on the wording of the trust deed rather than on the wording of the bonds. We suggest that you look up that instrument.

4. Not merely by virtue of being trustee.

5. Your letter does not make clear on what authority he has been making these collections. Presumably they should be divided to the interest of the bondholders.

6. The trust deed may contain express wording as to whether you can act alone or whether you must join with other bondholders. If you do not have access to a copy of the instrument we would advise you to employ an attorney to make the necessary investigation.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—After long hesitation, the British air ministry has ordered ten of the De la Cierva autogiros.

They will be constructed by the autogiro company after a model recently shown by Don Juan de la Cierva himself in tests at Hanworth field, but with additional specifications suggested by the air ministry. The ministry finds the peculiar qualities of the autogiro are of particular interest in both military and naval aviation.

The ten test planes are destined to join the army coöperation squadron, that part of the royal air force which, as the name indicates, is attached to the army. They will be first of the autogiro type, technically called "rotating wing machines," built in England for military purposes.

De la Cierva's demonstrations convinced the air ministry that the autogiro is especially adapted to observation, photographic and gun spotting purposes because of its exceptionally wide range of speed, which ranges from 15 to 115 miles an hour. But the chief attraction seems to lie in the autogiro's ability to take off and to land in short distances at low speeds.

This means that the craft can be operated from improvised airfields and even from building tops. Their usefulness in naval observation is also being considered, as it is obvious that they can take off from small naval craft not equipped with catapults.

The ten planes, which will be tested in view of a much larger order, will be of the "direct control" type. They will be more carefully adapted to military uses than the type, also "direct control," recently purchased by the French navy. The type used by France is merely an adaptation of the current civil model.

The autogiros get their lift from a three bladed free "windmill" or propeller which for starting purposes is clutched into the engine and rotated by power. In the air the engine is cut off from the "windmill" which is operated by the air stream. The machine is controled in turning, diving and climbing by a so-called "hanging stock." It tilts the axis of the "windmill" at any direction required. The ordinary propeller draws the plane through the air.

The test machine on which the ministry placed its orders carried a pilot and observer, 45 pounds of baggage, and a gas supply sufficient for 3½ hours' flight. The autogiro attained a top speed of 115 miles an hour.

SEQUEL TO A NEWS STORY.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—Recently I had my automobile stolen while helping an old couple celebrate their sixty-fifth wedding anniversary. The car stood in front of their residence, which is two miles from my own.

The case was promptly reported to the police and the car was back in my possession within two hours and apparently without the slightest hurt.

When I called at the police station to get the car I expressed my hearty appreciation of the men and the system which could and did perform such prompt and efficient service. Later I thanked personally the officers who made the arrest and recovered the car.

The next day THE TRIBUNE wrote up this case, giving my name and street number and also adding a bit of fictitious spice in the form of a reported conversation between myself and the desk sergeant in which he and I were made to boast that thieves could not steal clergymen's cars in the Albany Park district.

The night following the appearance of this report my garage was broken into and my car taken a second time. No single trace has been reported to me since this second theft, though it was faithfully reported and followed up by me. The car, an old but good running Chrysler, was uninsured so far as theft is concerned—the first time in fourteen years I have not been insured against theft. My personal financial situation, together with the small amount a 1928 car could be insured for, accounts for the failure. So the car is a total loss and at a time when I cannot replace it.

My purpose in writing this is that I may register with you my sense of injustice in this unwitting bit of reporting and to suggest that I heartily disapprove of the entire system by which criminals are made wise to facts which lend themselves to forwarding their purposes. I have not the slightest doubt but that this overdetailed report accounts for the loss of my car, and many of my friends had expressed themselves to me to that effect before I had said anything about it. The car was perhaps worth no more than one hundred dollars, except in trade, but it served our purpose nicely in a scattered parish and would have done so for two years yet.

I hope this bit of helpless protesting may serve some slight purpose in the direction of justice and future security against the frightful crime condition in which we find ourselves.

A BOOK PUBLISHER ON SPELLING.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 30.—I am very glad indeed to see that you are taking a step toward the improvement of our utterly illogical and archaic spelling. While I can't go the whole way with the simplified spelling board, I believe that an evolution along the lines suggested by your list of words is most helpful, and I hope that within the next few months we may see this list adopted by other papers and see you pushing ahead with another list.

Naturally, we book publishers cannot follow as rapidly as we should like to, but if we could get together—a most difficult procedure—I should be heartily in favor of adopting your list. I am sending it to some of my friends in other publishing companies in the hope that some such action may result.

A TRIBUTE TO CHICAGO.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—I wonder if Chicago quite appreciates how important a part it is probably playing, not only in the governmental history of the United States but in the fixing of the future governmental policy of this country. As you know, there is a widespread, all permeating notion in the country that only the federal government can do things and that everything ought to be turned over to the federal government. The pride which a self-governing people is supposed to have in being free and independent and responsible is not to be observed very generally in this nation. If at this psychological moment Chicago can demonstrate its capacity for self-government and its citizens can feel the thrill of the achievement of an independent sovereignty it will give to us at least one example to which the attention of the country can be attracted.

It is possibly not too much to say that Chicago in the demonstration of its capacity for self-government may be preserving the very structure and the functional machinery of our system of government. Certainly the importance of what Chicago is doing is not local. It is nation-wide and in its importance second to no other thing that is taking place in the whole country.

HATTON W. SUMNERS,

PURCHASING POWER.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—I believe first prize for today's best example in fallacious thinking should go to Reuben H. Bean. He says concerning the price of milk: "It means that 20,000 farmers will lose their purchasing power." What about the consumer? The few pennies they save amount to several million dollars a year. Does not that money also represent purchasing power in the hands of the city consumer?

If there were a free and open market for everything, including salaries and wages, our depression would now be history. In fact, it would never have existed in the severity in which we experienced it. Of course, an entirely free and open market is practically impossible. Our aim, however, must be in that direction if we wish to provide employment, purchasing power, and eventually a higher standard of living for everybody, including all of the farmers.

SALT AND FRESH WATER.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—With reference to the editorial, entitled "Government Information," in THE TRIBUNE of Jan. 26, permit me to call your attention to an error of some magnitude.

Salt water is not 10 per cent, but 2.6 per cent heavier than fresh water. Therefore, to displace the same weight in fresh water, a vessel's draft will be increased by 2.6 per cent. That is, that a vessel with a draft of 26 feet in salt water, when transferred to fresh water, will have a draft of 26 feet 8 inches. Or, if a vessel is loaded in salt water with the purpose of going into fresh water with an available depth of 26 feet, a reserved buoyancy approximately eight inches will have to be allowed. This will mean a reduction in the cargo to be carried. As the cargo will represent approximately two-thirds of the total displacement, this reduction of the cargo carried will be approximately four per cent.

AUTO SHOW ENDS TONIGHT; SALES, ATTENDANCE UP

Officials See Omens of Better Times.

BY HAL FOUST.

This is the last day of the 34th National Automobile show. The doors of the Coliseum will open at 10:30 o'clock this morning. At 11 o'clock tonight the doors will close on what will probably become known in motor car history as the recovery exposition of 1934.

As had been predicted, the attendance by noon yesterday, the seventh day of the show, reached a total exceeding the gate receipts for the entire eight days of the 1933 exhibition. By tonight it is expected that ticket sales will exceed those for last year's show by 25 per cent.

The gain in automobile sales as compared with last year is even greater. The Chicago Automobile Trade association announced yesterday that 2,112 cars had been sold up to Thursday night. The total of sales for this year is expected to approach 4,000 units, with a value of approximately $2,720,000.

Sponsors of the show, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, said the exposition had drawn more attendance and shown more sales than any of the annual events since 1928 and 1929 and that the number of retail sales would approach boom records.

"It's a harbinger of better times ahead," said Alfred Reeves, vice president of the N. A. C. C. "The Chicago show has for years been a reliable barometer of business for the ensuing year."

Factory officials, who occupied temporary company headquarters in hotel suites during the show, were entraining yesterday for their manufacturing towns with plans for increasing production schedules and for boosting commitments for raw materials.

SPANISH COURT O.K.'S PARDON FOR FOUR AMERICANS

MADRID, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The sixth section of the Supreme court today approved a governmental pardon for four Americans serving a jail term in Palma, Mallorca, for assaulting a civil guard. The Americans are Mr. and Mrs. Clinton B. Lockwood of West Springfield, Mass.; Roger F. Mead of New York, and Edmund A. Blodgett of Stamford, Conn.

They were sent to jail last month after a long legal battle in which consecutively a court martial acquitted them, a military auditor overruled the acquittal and the Supreme court upheld the military auditor. They were sentenced to six months and a day in jail. The pardon is now up to the full Supreme court.

COMMUNISTS ON WAY TO CAPITAL IN HUNGER TREK

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3 [Saturday].—(AP)—Washington police said early today they had information that several bus loads of communists were on the way to the capital as part of a new "hunger march" converging here.

Members of the National Unemployed council, numbering 200, were understood by police to have gathered during the night in a mixed crowd at a Negro Masonic hall. Police information was that it was the same organization that sponsored hunger marches on Washington last year and the year before.

The ranks were supplemented by the arrival of 30 men from Chicago, who reported several more bus loads were following.

RUSSIAN PARTY EXPELS 195,474 MEMBERS IN 1933

MOSCOW, Feb. 2.—(AP)—In the nation-wide "cleansing" of the ranks of the communist party during 1933, 195,474 members and candidates, or 17 per cent of those examined, were expelled, the soviet all-union party congress was told today.

J. E. Rudzutak, head of the central control committee, reported that in addition to those expelled, 68,991 were demoted to the status of candidate—composing six per cent of the 1,149,850 examined thus far.

POLICE CAPTURE 3 AFTER CHASE AND GUN BATTLE

West side residents were aroused early today by a running gun battle between a detective bureau police squad and three burglar suspects who were captured. They are believed to be the men who, a short time earlier tied up Carl Rau, a caretaker, and looted a safe in the G. Peterson & Co. cigar store at 492 Milwaukee avenue. The loot was $250.

The squad, commanded by Sergt. Jack Hanrahan, sighted the trio in an automobile at Halsted street and Austin avenue. The ensuing chase coursed west in Austin avenue to Ogden avenue, south to Washington boulevard, west through Garfield park, and east in Warren boulevard to Talman avenue, where the fugitives were halted. Police fired twenty shotgun charges during the pursuit, and were fired on a dozen times.

The back of the fugitive car was riddled. The wind shield and a fender of the police car were punctured. In the suspects' machine was found an extra set of license plates. Along the line of chase police found four discarded revolvers and a kit of burglar tools. Rau identified one of the guns as a pistol taken from the cigar store. The prisoners identified themselves as John Conroy, 34 years old, 5520 South Marshfield avenue, a clerk; James Murphy, 39, 5502 Lake Park avenue, a druggist, and Edward Ryan, 35, 5730 South Ashland avenue, a florist.

JUSTICE DE YOUNG DISCUSSES NEW PRACTICE RULES

Speaking before the Chicago Bar association at a luncheon yesterday under the auspices of the University of Chicago Law School association, Chief Justice Frederic R. De Young of the Illinois Supreme court outlined the court's supplementary rules recently adopted as a result of the new civil practice act.

The new act gives the Supreme court additional powers to regulate practice and procedure in all courts of record in the state, excepting the Municipal court of Chicago. Chief Justice De Young said the act, plus the supplementary rules, simplify court practice, expedite justice, and reduce costs of litigation.

"Ancient Egypt held that the first duty of the state was to administer justice," he told the assembled lawyers. "The complexity of modern civilization makes that duty no less imperative in our day. Legal procedure is a means and not an end. It is necessarily subsidiary to the substantive law.

"The responsibility for the administration of justice rests upon the courts and for the efficient discharge of that responsibility the courts should resume their ancient power to regulate their methods of procedure."

The chief justice said this was the first time the legislature had given to the Supreme court enough power to simplify and improve the administration of justice in Illinois.

"SOVIETIZATION" IN U. S. PLEASES EMMA GOLDMAN

Infamous Anarchist Runs Into Series of Strikes.

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Emma Goldman, the "infamous anarchist"—for she so corrected a young woman reporter who addressed her as the famous anarchist—arrived in New York today after a banishment which has lasted for fifteen years.

She has a visitor's permit and will lecture—with hopes of profit—on the subject of her very full life of sixty-four years.

Before being visaed in from Canada—by grace of marriage to a Welsh coal miner she is now a British subject—she promised the United States government that she would neither by word or deed stir up any trouble of the style to which she was accustomed before her deportation.

Approves Trends in U. S.

But, promises or no promises, times seems to have worked but little inward change in the Emma Goldman who on a gray December day in 1919 marched up the gangplank of the deportation ship Buford, shorn of her American citizenship for declaring against the draft and on her way to her native Russia.

"I shall be called back to soviet America," were the words she flung at the newspaper reporters. She came back today, and, while America is not soviet, the "queen of the Red agitators" expressed herself as being right well pleased at the progress made along these lines.

As for strikers, which she said today are "always just," she ran right into a fistful of them. When her train pulled into the Pennsylvania station Miss Goldman, surrounded by relatives, friends, admirers and common curiosity seekers, headed for the taxi stand.

Industrial War Galore.

Somebody told her the drivers were on strike.

"I'm glad to hear that," said Miss Goldman. "How far is it to my hotel? Suppose we can walk."

But the manager of her lecture tour procured a private car and she journeyed to a Broadway hotel, where there is a waiters' strike.

Nobody, however, told her about it. When the news did come to her, she was in the midst of a mass press interview, but declared had she known it she would have gone to another hostelry.

"I don't know the man who tried to assassinate President Roosevelt," she said. "It was a foolish thing to do. But it seems pathetic that because a man is a murderer the state should also be one."

DUNLAP-RUSSEL BANK TRIAL SET FOR MARCH 12

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Federal Judge Charles G. Briggle today set March 12 as the date for hearing the case of Millard F. Dunlap, former president of the Ayers National bank at Jacksonville, and Andrew Russel, former state auditor and state treasurer. In ordering the defendants to trial he overruled their demurrer to the indictment charging them with conspiracy in misapplication of the bank's funds.

Judge Briggle said that there was some doubt about three of the twelve counts in the indictment, but he regarded the others as valid. The demurrer asserted that the indictment, based for the most part on Russel's withdrawal of money from the bank after dissolving partnership with Dunlap, did not state an actual cause of criminal action. The defense will be that Russel was solvent when he drew his checks on the bank and that Dunlap was justified in honoring his drafts.

Lawyer Sues Servant for Wrecking His Car

George T. Buckingham of the law firm of Defrees, Buckingham, Jones & Hoffman yesterday filed a suit in the superior court on behalf of his wife, Mrs. Carol Allen Buckingham, 1400 Waukegan road, Lake Forest, asking damages of $284 from a former servant, Hilding Nielson, for wrecking one of her automobiles. The suit charges that when Mrs. Buckingham went to Florida in November she left orders that the car was to be used by servants only for errands in Lake Forest. Nielson, the bill charges, disregarded the order, drove to Chicago on Nov. 25, and struck a Clark street car in the loop.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

Phyllis Bentley Writes Novel of Crash Era

Modern Tragedy Set in Her Native Yorkshire.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

PHYLLIS BENTLEY, whose "Inheritance" was deservedly a national [and international] best seller last year, offered us on Thursday another novel of her native Yorkshire and the wool trade, "A Modern Tragedy" [Macmillan]. Unlike "Inheritance," which made the whole epic sweep of six generations of human history and generation after generation of industrial chronicle, it is not far flung either in period or in characters. It is, as its title indicates, a modern story—and that of only a few years those of the "post-war economic depression of the 20th century."

Its dramatis personæ, although numbering 22, is a mere handful compared to the lorry-loads of "Inheritance." It is concerned not with a whole family in its ramifications and a whole industry, but with—in reality—one person, influenced by two others, whose action wrecks a whole community. "Inheritance" is a novel of manners; "A Modern Tragedy" a novel of character.

Youth Accepts Dazzling Future.

The one person who motivates the whole book is Walter Haigh, at the opening of the book, the honest, eager, younger son of a man who for forty years has been a respected worker in the woolen mills. In the first pages he is waiting to accomplish his first important assignment — coming to terms with a mill owner over a piece of goods damaged in the finishing.

Young Walter is tricked, discovers Tasker's dishonesty, is offered the next day a dazzling future by the man whom he knows to be dishonest, hasn't the character to refuse, and thus begins a chain of circumstances that ends tragically for every one closely connected with him and countless unnamed remote dependents of industry.

Ambition Is for Woman.

Walter's passionate ambition is not for himself but for Elaine Clay Crosland, a spoiled exquisite whom he adores at sight and to be in whose presence he would sacrifice all of the sturdy quality of generations of simple west riding honesty. While revolting against Tasker's power over him, but wanting more than anything else in the world, either spiritually or materially, the love of Elaine, the hero, by allowing himself to be a fool, finally wrecks himself and most of the west riding.

However, this "modern tragedy" is not only the work of man individually but of man collectively . . . the tragedy of an age which will be remembered in history for the disintegration of more than material prosperity.

A "Tough Guy" and Gang.

A novel as different from "A Modern Tragedy" as Schoenberg is from Brahms is "The Young Manhood of Studs Lonigan" [Vanguard], by James T. Farrell, published on Tuesday. It is the second panel in what will probably be a trilogy of modern Chicago, which began with "Young Lonigan."

"A Modern Tragedy" tells a story of today in the classic manner and method. "The Young Manhood of Studs Lonigan" tells a story of today in the manner and in the language of one group today. It is about "a tough guy" and his "gang," and the language which the author uses comes straight out of the mind and mouth of his chief character. There are words which gently reared women have never even heard, expressions which make their first impact on their eyes and mental ears. There are ideas which must shock minds which have never met before some of the thoughts and action which fill its pages. And yet even the most sensitive reader must feel in those pages a strange and terrific power, a reality that has nothing to do with beauty but much to do with the terrifying brute force of ugliness.

Makes Impression on Mind.

I feel that the author would have achieved a more overpowering effect if he had compressed the four hundred odd pages into two or three hundred, but I must admit that in the very dull monotony of the day by day and night by night record of a life and a mind consistently and abasedly "tough" there is a certain grinding on one's consciousness which scars the mind into not being able to forget Mr. Farrell's book.

James T. Farrell, born in Chicago, educated here, was not so long ago the young writer in the classes of the University of Chicago from whom most was expected. In this book he writes of a young student at the University of Chicago who hated the neighborhood of his birth: "Some day he would drive this neighborhood and all his memories of it out of his consciousness with a book." Perhaps that is what Mr. Farrell has done.

Another Book About Chicago.

Another book about Chicago utterly unlike Mr. Farrell's is Edwin Balmer's "Dragons Drive You" [Dodd-Mead]. It is the story of a murder—in which there is no mystery whatever which by chance implicates the daughter of a great Chicago banker—a chance which changes her whole life pattern. The period is the same as that of "A Modern Tragedy," except that the mad supergilded years just before the crash are in it as well as the days when the gilt so completely rubbed off.

New Novel by Rinehart.

A murder, also no mystery, is likewise the focal point of Mary Roberts Rinehart's "The State Versus Elinor Norton" [Farrar & Rinehart]. Elinor Norton admits the murder. The only possible mystery about it is why she did that killing. A man who had loved her as a child, had never wavered in his devotion, tells the story of the life of the sensitive daughter of a self-willed, scheming mother, the wife of a war casualty, the pawn in a game of wills other than her own, and the tragic results of the exercise of her own will.

HER YORKSHIRE

Phyllis Bentley, whose "Inheritance" was one of last year's successes, has written another novel about her native Yorkshire in a "A Modern Tragedy," reviewed today.

Writes Satire on Dangers in Travel Books

Peter Fleming Makes Fun of Modern Explorers.

BY AL CHASE.

"Brazilian Adventure," by Peter Fleming. [Scribners.]

PETER FLEMING, 26 years old, Oxford graduate, literary editor of a staid British publication and already a fairly well seasoned globe galloper, has written a brilliant and fantastically funny satire on modern exploration. "Brazilian Adventure" [Scribners] is a delightfully droll debunking of tropical Munchausens. It's the January selection of the Book of the Month club.

No fiction writer could have sketched in a more ridiculous background of people and events than Fleming actually had on his trip across Brazil in search of the long lost Col. Fawcett. And this young explorer makes the most of it throughout his book, with "the spirit of burlesque as our tutelar deity."

Fleming ridicules all the pet dangers of explorers and apparently—to his own satisfaction, at least—proves the jungle is just about as safe as Bond street. Perhaps he overdoes this a bit, for it's hard to believe that alligators, the piranha, ants, mosquitoes, snakes, and other jungle annoyances don't annoy. And yet Fleming never saw a serpent on the entire trip; he waded in schools of man-eating piranha, splashed by alligators, slept on the ground, and apparently was immune from insects.

But you'll overlook little things like that in the joy of Fleming's delightful humor and his brilliant writing. He defends his jesting attitude toward what was supposed to be a serious search for a missing Englishman, with these comments: "Much of what we saw and did was clearly too good to be true. Life was always perilously close to the pages of those books which publishers catalog under the heading 'Travel and Adventure.'

"In self-defense—in instinctive pursuance of that policy of nil admirari which is the joint product of repression, sophistication, and all the hot air one hears—we turned to parody.

"If Indians approached us, we referred to them as the oncoming savages. We never said, 'Was that a shot?' but always, 'Was that the well known bark of a mauser?' All insects of harmless nature and ridiculous appearance we pointed out to each other as creatures 'whose slightest glance spelt death.'"

Fleming surely had tongue in cheek when he decided on his title—also a gentle bit of satire—for there's little "adventure" as the modern explorer uses that term. The action moves slowly, but is so well greased with chuckles that one seldom notices the lack of speed or regulation thrills.

In the last part of the journey, however, when Fleming and his rebel companions race down a Brazilian river against the villain, Maj. Pingle, and the loyalists, suspense and action combine to make the finish an exciting one and the book ends as you want it to.

Fleming has this to say about his own work: "This book is all truth and no facts. It is probably the most veracious travel book ever written; and it is certainly the least instructive." And we heartily add "one of the most delightful we've ever read."

"New Pioneers" Is Series of Views of New Deal

Not an interpretation but a series of sharp, immediate impressions of what the New Deal means to America is the subject matter of "The New Pioneers," by James Remington McCarthy [Bobbs-Merrill]. On a trip of over twelve thousand miles through the United States, talking to every one he met, the author achieved a series of "stills" of how the country was taking the New Deal which, read quickly in the pages of a book, achieve something of the effect of a moving picture. The author offers the reader "separate pieces which the reader must put together by himself," he says in his foreword.

'UNLUCKY WOMAN'

Mary Roberts Rinehart's latest novel, "The State Versus Elinor Norton," is not a mystery, although its pivotal point is a murder. It is the life story of an unlucky woman.

Little Book Series Describes Progress in Various Fields

Do you know those very interesting and important little handbooks which were labeled "The Century of Progress Series," and which explained to the layman without in any way talking down to him, scientific progress? Don't miss them.

"The Long Road" from savagery to civilization, by Fay Cooper Cole, most clearly depicts the anthropological progress of what resulted in you and me.

"Life Giving Light," by Charles Sheard, tells succinctly more things you had dreamed of about light.

"Insects—Man's Chief Competitors," by W. P. Flint and C. L. Metcalf, gives you something to think about besides the New Deal.

"Chemistry Triumphant," by William J. Hale, shows it to be.

"Telling the World," by George O. Squier, is the short history of communications — telephones, telegraphs, radio, all sorts of message bearing.

"Sparks from an Electrode," by C. L. Mantell, tells of the extra benefits derived from electricity.

"Adjustment and Mastery," by Robert S. Woodworth, tells you what psychology has found out about the relation between proper human adjustment and success.

"The Romance of Research," by L. V. Redman and A. V. H. Mory, analyses the philosophy of research and proclaims its powers in the newer civilization.

Literary Lights of London Run Into Criticism

T. S. Eliot Now Appears to Need Support.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—In the specialized literary world of London—I mean the world that takes in the literary washing of its fellow members and confides to the rest of mankind news of its threadbareness or poor quality—things have been lively of late.

For one thing, T. S. Eliot's book, "The Use of Poetry and the Use of Criticism" [Faber], has had an almost uniformly severe press. Not only have the critics in favor of tradition taken this opportunity of assailing a man who has done so much to inspire the young but the young themselves have discovered that Mr. Eliot is not as sure of himself as they thought he was.

Before we know where we are Mr. Eliot will be on the shelf, if indeed he is not already there. Fashion changes so quickly nowadays that just as Lytton Strachey now requires the support of last ditchers Mr. Eliot has to be defended, and this from his juniors.

Nor is this all, for Ezra Pound has been offering the world a new anthology of constructive verse, "Active Anthology" [Faber], mostly made up of selections from the work of American poets resident in Paris; and over this book also some argument has arisen. It would be strange if it had not done so, for Mr. Pound is one who slaps hard and slaps back. He seems to have unlimited time for argument, which he conducts with vigor and curious misspellings that show him to be a very serious-minded man. His anthology is not a very good book, but at least it is provocative.

Louis Untermeyer's anthology, "The Albatross Book of Living Verse" [Collins], already familiar to American readers, is another work that still meets with fresh praise and blame, partly of its texts and partly of its exclusions; and there has appeared a very original volume of selections called—by, it seems to me, a misleading title—"A National Gallery." This, which may cause the slipshod to suppose it another guide to pictures, is explained in a subtitle as "A Collection of English Characters," and it consists of a rich and unhackneyed series of vignettes of typical English men and English women taken from a wide range of authors, from Langland and Chaucer to Dorothy Richardson.

The editors of this delightful book are "C. C." and "D. G.," and although I do not identify "D. G.," I believe I am right in saying that "C. C." is Mrs. Carswell, whose book on D. H. Lawrence caused excitement and whose novel, "Open the Door," I have several times commended as outstanding in the Lawrentian manner.

The collaborators have taste and judgment, and they have so well avoided the obvious that "A National Gallery" has many of the attributes of an original work—including, in many of its examples, that of novelty.

Mystery of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK.

The diary of a medical student, mysteriously come into the hands of a literary agent, is compiled into the grewsome book called "The Cadaver of Gideon Wyck" [Farrar & Rinehart], edited, so say the publishers, by Alexander Laing. It concerns itself with "monsters" in the pathological sense, and monstrous it is in its implications and ideas. Whoever is responsible for it has made it absorbing and rather horrible and you will not put it down if you have once taken it up.

I do not know how exact it may be from a medical standpoint, but I am sure it is a very good book, energetic and full of convincing detail. It is not too literary, but might well be the diary of an intelligent and enthusiastic student who has hit upon a terrible set of circumstances in which he becomes involved through curiosity and morbid excitement.

On its jacket is a warning—read at your peril—and truly it is not a book for those who like nice clean murder with a blunt instrument or a blue-nosed automatic. The routine of the small medical college seems so real and authentic that the horrid events that transpire are themselves imbued with reality and fascinate while they shock too gentle a reader. But if you like them that way, here's a book to keep you going to the break of dawn.

Pitkin's Book About Time Life Begins Has Role in Divorce

For months I have been trying to point out to Hervey Allen that "Anthony Adverse" ought to be appearing in the divorce courts . . . it would be superb publicity if a happy home were split asunder by its component parts getting furious at each other because one or the other had "Anthony Adverse" and refused to share it.

The quarrel might so logically lead to blows, the book being a hefty weapon, although not a concealed [or concealable] one might be grabbed and slung, and serious physical harm result. . . . O, there are lots of ways that "Anthony Adverse" could make a divorce.

But nobody seems to have furnished the publishers with that publicity. . . . And now, right in our own town, another book has caused a divorce. Did you notice in the news columns that a Mrs. V. Diamond of 2854 Cambridge avenue sought a divorce from the man who she said had been mistreating her for fifteen years, declaring that she had recently read Walter Pitkin's "Life Begins at Forty" and had taken the hint.—F. B.

FANNY BUTCHER says: "Her new novel is written with a sharp, clear perception and an understanding which is Anne Parrish's particular high gift."

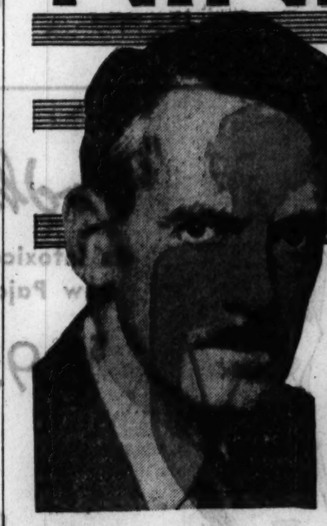
NINE PLAYS BY EUGENE O'NEILL FREE— FOR YOUR LIBRARY



—to those who join the Book-of-the-Month Club at this time . . . it costs nothing to belong and you do not have to take a book every month

WE suggest simply that you send the coupon below and get full information as to what the Book-of-the-Month Club does for book-readers. For instance, are you aware that as a member, you are not obliged to take the specific book-of-the-month chosen by the judges? You may buy it or not, as you please, after reading the judges' pre-publication report about it. Nor do you have to pay any fixed sum. You pay the regular retail price for such books as you decide to buy. What then is the advantage of joining?

There are many: first, book-dividends; for every dollar its members spend on books they receive back on the average over 50% in the form of free books. Second, without a penny of expense, through the reports of the judges you are kept completely informed about all the important new books, so that you can choose among them with discrimination, instead of having to rely upon advertising and hearsay. There are several other advantages, not readily measurable in money, that cannot be outlined here for lack of space. Surely, within the next year, the distinguished judges of the Club will choose as the book-of-the-month or recommend as alternates, at least a few books that you will be very anxious to read and which you will buy anyway. Why not—by joining the Club—make sure you get these instead of missing them, which so often happens; get the really substantial advantages the Club affords (such as the book-dividends mentioned, if nothing else), and at the same time get a copy of NINE PLAYS by Eugene O'Neill, free.

Good Morning!

This morning I picture my little readers all agog to learn about Greta Garbo's brand new film. Did I like it?—you want to know. And is the Swedish charmer as Ummmmmmmm' as ever?

Yes, unequivocally, to the first question. More so!—to the second. So draw deep breaths now and take your time over the rest of the review.

"Queen Christina" is a rôle unlike any Garbo has played before, and the screen queen a variation from the lady of history. In the film, romance is the ax that severs royalty from her throne. The real Christina, known in the seventeenth century as "The Royal Wanderer of Europe," abdicated because—she wanted to wander. She was wearied of responsibility. She rebelled against marrying her illustrious cousin, Charles Gustavus, for the purpose of giving her country an heir. She was a homely and mannish Viking, the acme of eccentricity.

But Garbo's Queen Christina is so different! Alluring to the eye, of course, though they do say the star wanted to play the rôle with a hump and a hooked nose. True, she likes to wear trousers, and her maid servant is a man servant—a devoted, grizzled old soul. But, for a' that, a real woman's yearning heart beats beneath the riding shirt of the screen Christina, and her passionate romance with the Spanish envoy reveals her as fundamentally healthy in the reactions of heart, mind, and body.

Christina's sex is a sad disappointment to her parents. To the time of his death her father, King Gustavus Adolphus, called "The Lion of the North," has reared her as a boy and treated her like a son. A mere babe when she ascends the throne, she adheres to his teachings and grows up breezy, brilliant, independent, and adored by court and subjects alike. But war she abhors, and gets no kick out of the glorious victories won by her cousin. She forces the cessation of the Thirty Years War. In the picture—for humanitarian reasons. History claims she did so because she thought Oxenstiern [regent during her minority] was getting too much glory out of it. She refuses absolutely to wed Charles Gustavus, though her advisers are importunate that she should.

For awhile she carries on a bit of love affair with her lord treasurer. Then comes the Spanish envoy to propose her alliance with the king of Spain. . . .

Her meeting with Antonio is highly romantic and unconventional. While out riding on a snowy morning she encounters him en route to the palace. His carriage gets stuck in a ditch, and she rides up to offer mocking advice.

Antonio takes her for a boy and is curt and annoyed, though grateful. How far is it to the nearest inn, he queries.

"You can make it by nightfall," says Christina—and beats him to it.

Here again they meet. The inn is crowded. Will the young man [Christina] share her quarters with the Spanish gentleman? . . .

And so starts the torrid romance [unrecorded in history] which is to result in Christina's abdication and her lover's . . . see pix for rest of the story.

The Garbo gives her usual effortless, intriguing performance. She is, really, intensely appealing both as the unhappy, duty-bound queen, and the woman who abandons herself so entirely to the great love that comes swiftly and without bell of warning into her life. A striking figure at all times, and uncharacteristically vital in several episodes.

I nearly fell off my seat when, in one scene, she threw back her head and laughed! A hearty ringing laugh that showed all her teeth. She's never done it before, you know. May she get the habit—for merriment is enormously becoming to the still siren from Sweden.

John Gilbert is dashing as the diplomatic representative, though to me he seemed always the actor acting. Ian Keith as the lord treasurer looks enough like Gilbert to be Gilbert, and the technique of the two is similar.

Lewis Stone as prime minister, C. Aubrey Smith as the man servant, and all others concerned give excellent performances.

The piece, though it drags a bit in spots, is suspenseful and cleverly dialoged. The scenery is glorious and interiors and costumes of the period perfectly fascinating. Especially memorable are the palace sets and views of Stockholm.

A nice picture! It should tickle Garbo fans no end.

Rita La Roy Will Leave Films to Return to Stage

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Rita La Roy, stage and screen actress, said today she was making her last movie. Upon completion of her current picture, she said, she will return to the stage, starting in New York within the next two months. Miss La Roy has been in the films since 1928, during which time she has appeared in more than 100 screen productions.

This Doll Should Set Fashion Records

There isn't a luckier doll family in town than that of little Miss Helen Burch (left) and her baby sister, Elise. Their grandmother, Mrs. Paul Schulze, enrolled the girls a month ago in the dress-making class at the School of Domestic Arts and Science that they might outfit the pretty dolls Santa brought them in the very latest of dresses and bonnets. Helen celebrated her eighth birthday last fall and Elise is just past five.

Woman Forces Studio Crew to Pay for Silence

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—W. C. Fields and the Paramount studio have declared an embargo on the little tree shaded Los Angeles suburban community of Sierra Madre. Fields and the rest of the cast in "You're Telling Me" went to Sierra Madre to shoot scenes this week and rented a frame cottage. When time came to record with camera and sound, the lady of the house next to the studio cottage turned on her radio. Gnashing of teeth prevailed nothing and when approached the neighbor lady allowed as how she had a right to play her own radio in her own sitting room. So the assistant director paid her $10 and she shut it off.

More scenes had to be shot the next day, but when Fields and his troupe got to Sierra Madre bright and early, a little boy ran indoors, told his mother the movie people were there, and in a jiffy the radio was going again. Then the little boy and his brother were out in the yard, not ten feet from the scene of film action, playing hocky with tin cans and broomsticks and yelling their heads off.

An ambassador from the movie outfit went to see the woman, but she wanted $100 to turn off her radio and call the kids inside.

At that, one of the movie group did an automobile Paul Revere to the offices of the Sierra Madre Chamber of Commerce and the chief of police. The chief and the chamber of commerce secretary hurried up to talk things over with the neighbor woman and ask her in the name of civic pride to lay off. Which she did—for a payment of $15.

But as the shooting was starting, the lady two doors away and her family moved a bunch of card tables into the front yard and this ambitious woman began selling sandwiches and lemonade to all the curious who had been attracted to the scene. In between clinks of glasses and the hum of chatter, Fields went through the scenes of his script, but all you have to do now is say "Sierra Madre" to Bill Fields and he will fall in a swoon.

For the first time, Harold Lloyd is going to feature a song in his next film, "The Cat's Paw." He bought the song, "I'm Just That Way" from Harry Akst Turk today, but he still doesn't have a girl to sing it. The song is intended for the second feminine lead, as yet unchosen. The first feminine lead is Una Merkel. I asked whether Lloyd was going to sing, hum, or whistle the harmony, but his studio staff looked horrified and said: "Hell, no." Al Newman of the United Artists music staff will be Lloyd's musical director.

Seven girls whom Earl Carroll has chosen in Hollywood to augment the eleven showgirl beauties he brought from New York for "Murder at the Vanities" included six extra girls of movie bit experience, and not one of the seven was really from Los Angeles at all. Moreover, not one of them was a brunette. The choice: Billie Hubbar, 22, blonde, Cumberland, Md.; Gladys Young, 19, blonde, Sacramento, Cal.; Diane Hunter, 21, blonde, Camden, Ala.; Inez Howard, 21, blonde, Fort Worth, Tex.; Zunetta Garnett, 18, redhead, San Francisco, Cal.; Blanche McDonald, 20, blonde, Augusta, Me.; Iris Lancaster, 21, redhead, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Miss McDonald, although born in Maine, was "Miss California" at the national beauty pageant in Atlantic City last year and runner-up as Miss America. Carroll examined 700 girls as applicants, and threw Hollywood this squelcher: "I had expected to select eleven girls here, but seven seem to be about all I can find who are satisfactory out of 700."

In an effort to make the cast more explosive, Radio-RKO has added Lupe Velez to "Strictly Dynamite." Others are Jim Durante, Francis White, and Bill Gargan.

Gail Patrick so pleased M. H. Hoffman, producer, with her work in a film for an independent film maker that Hoffman sent her a large bottle of perfume.

They are billing Sally Rand for Los Angeles stage shows as "The Girl Whose Dance Made the World's Fair a Success." Sally says she is engaged to be married, her fiancé's name not known, but she introduced his mother as Mrs. Mayan.

Pupils Write Their Views on 'Peter Pan'

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

If Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy were asked to name her favorite book, she would without doubt select a slim dark blue paper cover affair filled with childish verse and still more childish illustration.

It was a gift to Mrs. Cudahy, just before her recent departure for Palm Beach, from the second grade boys and girls at the Carpenter school on North Racine avenue. And it's the most sincere "thank you" any boys and girls ever said for a morning of "Peter Pan" topped off with ice cream and candy.

Mrs. Cudahy arranged in January to take all of the pupils in the first two grades at the school to one of the Saturday morning performances of Sir James Barrie's "Peter Pan" now being given by the Junior league at the Studebaker theater. For the first performance on Jan. 20 she was hostess herself to about 30 of the high second graders. Last week the low seconds were there. This week it's the high first graders' turn and for the last performance a week from today it will be the turn of the babies in the low first grade.

Mrs. Cudahy knew they would enjoy it (what boy or girl doesn't?) but her delight in the good time of the first group was unbounded when they sent her an array of letters and drawings bound together in a small volume as an expression of their appreciation.

The young theatergoers spent all of the Monday morning after they had seen "Peter Pan" doing the letters and pictures. Then their teacher, Miss Marian Morse, filled in the words they couldn't quite spell, bound all the papers together, and sent the book to Mrs. Cudahy.

Two Concerts on Calendar for Tomorrow

Gershwin Concert, Dance Program Benefits.

BY JUDITH CASS.

INSTEAD of going to the country tomorrow as society does almost in a body on so many Sundays, every one will be staying in town and even those who live in the country will be coming to town, for there are two interesting musical affairs, both benefits, on tomorrow afternoon's calendar.

The "program of rhythm" that George Gershwin, the Reisman Symphonic orchestra, and James Melton will give for the benefit of the Red, White, and Blue club will be attended by more people than the other one, a dance program by Harald Kreutzberg and Ruth Page for the benefit of Emerson house, for the former is to be in the Auditorium theater and the latter in Orchestra hall.

Both will start at 3:30 o'clock, so it will be rather difficult for any one to attempt to attend both affairs, although some undoubtedly will do so. Many have tickets to both, of course, because both are for charity.

There are to be numerous luncheon parties before the concerts, for most of those who have boxes will entertain their guests at luncheon first. Mrs. Byron S. Harvey will have a large party at the Casino and after luncheon she and nineteen of her guests will go to Orchestra hall to occupy three boxes she has taken and the others will go to the Auditorium to hear Gershwin.

Lily Pons Will Be Guest at Concert.

Lily Pons, who is to sing in the Auditorium Monday night at the last of the Monday night concerts for the benefit of the Girl Scouts, will attend the Gershwin concert with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Byfield and later will be a guest at the supper party they are giving in their house on the roof of the Hotel Sherman for Mr. Gershwin. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker, the Ambrose C. Cramers, the Walter S. Brewsters, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, the Howard Linns, the John R. Winterbothams, Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Miss Janet Fairbank, and the Philip Mahers are some of the others who will be at the supper party in addition to all those who have been active in selling tickets and making plans for the Red, White and Blue club benefit.

The Byfields, the Goodspeeds, the Thomas R. Gowenlocks—she is president of the Red, White and Blue club—Addison Stillwell, the William H. Mitchells, the Alfred O'Garas, Vincent Bendix, the George Rasmussens, and the Polish consul general, Titus Zbyszewski are among those who have boxes for the Gershwin concert and some of those who will occupy main floor seats are the Gordon Kelleys, the Charles F. Glores, the junior Edward A. Cudahys, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Miss Helen Gurley, Mr. and Mrs. Huntington B. Henry, the Hampden Winston, the James H. Hopkinses, and the Steins.

Mrs. Willoughby G. Walling has taken a block of seats in the first row of the balcony for the Kreutzberg-Page concert for that is her favorite place from which to see a dance pro-

TRUE tale with a moral. Men were hauling sand, stone and cement in small trucks on a narrow railway by the side of the road under construction. A passerby stopped and watched them for a time. The men were ruddy-faced from wind and cold, sturdily and solidly built, apparently well equipped for manual labor. The observer asked one of the men what he was doing.

"Breaking stone," he answered.

Further along the line asked a second man what he was doing.

"Working for three dollars a day," he answered.

Going still further he asked a third man the same question. Looking up at his questioner steadily the man answered:

"Why, I'm building a road," he replied.

Vision—Inebriate—Salaries—Contribution—Pinks.

PHIL BAKER tells about the inebriate who lifted the telephone early one morning and called Sunnyside . . .

"You are calling from Sunnyside ——," the operator informed him after some difficulty and delay.

"Thank you, I just wanted to be sure I was home," he answered.

THE other day the local chapter of the Red Cross received a telephone call from a greatly concerned woman who had been warned not to contribute to the organization because she had been told that its president received a salary of $75,000 a year. James T. Nicholson, head of the local office, told her that it was true; that the president of the Red Cross was entitled to a salary of $75,000 a year, but that he earned it as President of the United States. No officer of the organization or member of its governing board received any salary out of Red Cross funds, he added, and in fact that once when the active chairman of the Red Cross, Judge John Barton Payne, was asked who paid his salary since the American Red Cross didn't, he replied tersely, "My heirs."

AS long as we are being sort of worthy in today's column, we might as well tell you another item we found interesting. Among the thousands of memberships in the American Red Cross, secured in the annual roll call, was a remittance of $4.12 received from gang 11 of project 1,335 of the CWA. A man named Edward Hayne is the foreman. The gang, without any solicitation, decided it wanted to show its appreciation of clothing some of its members for outdoor work, also of their jobs. None was permitted to contribute more than a nickel, but the total enabled the gang to send a telegram to the President on his birthday, and to contribute to the Red Cross.

TWO pallid, long haired young men with red carnations in their buttonholes were conspicuous in the crowd smoking during the intermission between the soviet dances of Vecheslova and Chabukani the other night.

"Do those flowers mean they are bolshevika?" queried one observer.

"Just parlor pinks," her companion replied.

Cancel Tour of Hepburn Play

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Katharine Hepburn's Chicago engagement in "The Lake," announced a few days ago to begin Feb. 18 in the Erlanger theater, has been canceled. Furthermore, her entire tour has been called off. The young cinema star's run in the Martin Beck theater, New York, will end Feb. 10, and then "The Lake" will be folded up and put into storage—permanently, no doubt.

The New York office of THE TRIBUNE diaghoses this affair as follows:

"We hear, unofficially, that the movies have bought back Miss Hepburn's contract with Jed Harris, producer of 'The Lake.' This is denied. We also hear, still unofficially, that she is sick and tired of it all and wants to go to Europe on a vacation.

"Anyhow, it's all off. 'The Lake' closes here a week hence, after a seven weeks' run. It will not go on tour without her, so you will never see it—and lucky you are."

"Fifty Million Frenchmen," which was a Broadway musical comedy of some renown three seasons ago, now forms the stage entertainment at the Palace theater. This show is a song-and-dance tourist's guide to the gay spots of Paris, with a wisp of story to connect the various scenes.

Anatole Friedland, veteran producer of vaudeville revues who used to be an important contributor to the Keith and Orpheum circuits in the brave old days of the two-a-day, has dressed "Fifty Million Frenchmen" gayly and given it a good company. He has also brought it up to date with a fan dancing number, treated with tact and grace, and a backdrop showing an exterior view of the Streets of Paris at last summer's A Century of Progress.

Among the players are Venita Gould, amusing as a hard-boiled American lady who cannot be shocked by anything that Paris has to offer; Richard Lane, a brisk singing "juvenile"; Susan Jayne, an attractive ingenue, and Esther Lloyd, a dancer who has served in Texas Guinan's cabaret troupes.

"Fifty Million Frenchmen" is a marked improvement over "Artists and Models" and "The Greenwich Village Follies," its immediate predecessors on the Palace's schedule.

"The Student Prince's" vaudeville career did not end with the completion of its week at the Chicago theater. Next Friday afternoon this operetta will appear as the stage entertainment at the Uptown theater. Allan Jones and Gertrude Lang, however, will not lead the cast. They will be replaced by Charles Hedley and Madelon Mayo. . . . Mr. Jones' next appearance in operetta will probably be with Mme. Jeritza in "A Night in Venice." This production, if staged, will mark the brilliant young tenor's first appearance in New York.

THE WILD BIRD

By OWEN JOHNSON

SYNOPSIS.

Barbara Brawne, aged 22, is completely dominated by an adoring though jealous father, who is against every modern idea and improvement. Lynwood, their home, is in the prim and proper village of Oxbridge, a place of intellectual sanctity. Barbara seems predestined to join the ranks of the village spinsters. She contemplates rebellion. Gregory Rance, popular novelist, is visiting her cousin, Laurie Chiswick. They are mutually attracted. Barbara overhears Rance asking Laurie about her. He says she is the sort of girl he'd want to marry. Laurie leaves and Barbara makes her presence known to Rance. She asks him to marry her. But when she learns he is divorced, she tells him it is hopeless and leaves him. Gregory feels humiliated. The Chiswicks give a party to announce the engagement of Laurie's sister. Barbara and Gregory meet. She is torn between her love for Gregory and fear of hurting her father.

INSTALLMENT XVIII.

A BAITED TRAP.

"If I were myself— if I were alone in the world—I'd go with you now, tonight, any way you'd take me!" The trees swam around her. Barbara no longer knew what she was saying, so breathlessly. She stood up and faced him. "Gregory, don't listen to me! Never listen to me! O, my dear, don't, don't ever let me give you up. Because, because if I did, if I had to, I wouldn't want to live. O, my dear, I love you so!"

"That's better," Gregory said with a catch in his breath. "For God's sake, don't let's reason about a thing like this. What's the use? Neither you nor I can do anything about it. You know it. You settled everything last night. Not what you said—what you did. What's all we've been saying? Words, words, words!"

She stood swaying.

"I've got you in my blood!" he said, coming near her. "You've burned down into me, deep. Give you up now? I couldn't! Come here—come back to me, you absurd, you adorable little coward!"

She wavered, took a step away from him, and suddenly was shivering in his arms with that strange low laughter, which brought a giddiness to all his senses.

Two weeks later Rance went to the test in his first dinner at Lynwood, with the younger Chiswicks and Addington Bryce, one of the new historians. He went rebelliously, with a natural dislike for masquerading. He had yielded to Barbara's plan of presenting him to her father as a casual acquaintance, because he was by now completely obsessed by the strength of a passion that left him bewildered and helpless. He himself would have preferred the direct announcement. But he had conformed, already feeling the grip of the inevitable. In the end, he was certain, they would have to come to a direct defiance. Any other course would mean bickerings and heartaches, a needless wearing out of their nerves, and the intrusion of other people into the fine riot of all their senses that now intoxicated them.

Come back to me, you adorable little coward.

"Well, to face the music," he thought gloomily, as they came into the lights of Lynwood and he felt the stony shadow rise above them.

Nevertheless, his ill humor vanished with the first waiting look from Barbara's eyes. She was in powdered blue and silver gray, an emerald necklace and eardrops against her dark throat. How rare and elusive she was! He shook hands correctly with the aunts and coming to Barbara, took her hand. A sudden pressure warned him. He looked up and saw the father in the doorway watching him. The next moment they were shaking hands. He had expected a big man, domineering, masculine, and aggressive. But this man, who looked up at him in a furtive defiance, would never fight in the open. To beat him he would have to drive him into a corner.

"Going to be more difficult than I thought," he said to himself, somberly. "He will never like me. You feel such things at once. Nor I, him. He'll only yield at the last squirm. Well, I don't like him. That's that."

However, the first antagonism was somewhat modified as the dinner progressed, and Mr. Brawne showed himself genial and cordial. Barbara surprised, was deceived by her father's good humor.

"He's taken to Gregory," she thought. "I knew he would."

From the moment the conversation became general, Rance perceived that whatever the qualities which had irritated him, Mr. Brawne was a personality, mentally an antagonist worthy of any foe. He became interested and began to talk, without suspecting that he was being drawn out for his own destruction.

"Well, now that I have three distinguished members of the younger generation before me," Mr. Brawne said smiling, "I should like to improve my opportunity for knowledge. We hear a lot about you young men, vague repercussions. Just what did you find so wfong in the world we turned over to you, and what do you propose to offer as your contribution to history?"

Gregory laughed. "That's a big proposition you've put up to us, sir."

"And you are quite competent to do it justice," replied Brawne, with a bow and wave of the hand.

"He's leading him on," thought Barbara, "and then he'll turn everything he says into ridicule—as he's always done."

"Well, here goes for the first skirmish," said Rance to himself. "However, before I rush into the trap," he said with a smile, looking the lawyer in the eyes, "let's concede one thing."

"And that is?"

"That every young generation must know it all."

"Humph! No fool," thought Mr. Brawne.

"So if you'll agree that we are at an age when we must be cocksure, you can afford to smile at what might be an impertinence to you at your own table."

"Good! He's going to say what he thinks," thought Brawne. Barbara locked up, pleased, met the eye of her father, and looked away.

"Well, then, we look on your generation, sir, as a generation of compromise." (Mr. Brawne involuntarily stiffened.) "To us, you are the intervening generation between an old centralized authority and the coming of a new."

"Indeed! You interest me."

"Let's see if I can make it clear. Forty years ago, you stood up when your father entered the room. His word was the law and the gospel. He said grace before each meal and read the prayers on Sunday. You inherited your politics as you inherited your religion, and whoever attacked property interests by advocating municipal ownership or the imposition of an income tax, you regarded as a socialist or an anarchist, terms which were then synonymous. Marriage was a religious rite, and no one questioned the authority of that compact. If you suffered, you suffered and earned a heavenly reward. Any one who divorced was in the position of a woman caught in adultery. That was what I meant by centralized authority. That is what you faced when you were the younger generation. Am I overstating it?"

"And that is what you are attacking?" said Brawne, to avoid an obvious agreement.

"We! No, nothing of the sort. All that was done before us. When ten years ago we were old enough to observe and reason, what did we find? We found chaos."

He paused and looked at his host, who sat drumming on the table.

"And the family?"

"The family? We did not break up the family. We found it disrupted."

"That's interesting, Mr. Rance," said Brawne, crisply. "I should like to know how you came to that conclusion. I had thought if there was one thing self-evident nowadays, it was that your generation has disrupted the family as I knew it."

"The industrial development that has made women wage earners had a great deal to do with that. The real reason the family disrupted was that there was no longer any directing authority. When the father was at the head, the authority was single and undisputed. When the mother assumed equal rights, that authority became divided, and a divided authority ceases to be authority. Another compromise. Furthermore, how many of the generation that preceded ours were primarily interested in being parents? They were interested in getting out of life all the pleasure and all the youth it could offer them. To keep our affection, they relaxed their discipline as they had relaxed their control. This is the state of affairs we found."

The Child May Profit by His Parents' Woes

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

It is interesting to see what parents do with their own childhood experiences. To take extracts from my own observations:

One child who has been domineered over by her father, when she grows up enough, resents it and breaks away from it. But when she becomes a mother uses the very same tactics on her children, despite her own testimony of their failure.

A man and woman of European parentage, on the contrary, have this to say: "My husband and I were reared with harshness of voice and manner and with blows. It has hurt us both as adults. We are determined that our children shall grow up without fear and with as much understanding as we can give them."

A man who had been whipped in his childhood, as soon as he had a child of his own whipped him severely on the slightest provocation. The results were far from good. Yet when that son grew up he did exactly the same thing to his children.

It is curious to see how differently unhappy childhood experiences affect people in relation to their treatment of their own children. With one individual they serve as a warning—as a vivid example of what not to do and cause a protective and sympathetic attitude which he himself missed so much. With other people these childhood miseries have aroused a vengefulness which it was not possible to satisfy while they were helpless children, but which they determine—consciously or otherwise—to vent on those within their power—that is, their own children. They avenge their past impotence in this way.

A person has to be well balanced to strike a wise medium—not to fly to an extreme when reacting against what he considers a mistake in his own upbringing.

We can reap benefit from the mistakes in our own childhood only by looking at them with a judicial eye.

Gershwin Concert, Dance Program Benefits.

gram. The John Valentines, Miss Lydia Swift, Thomas Leiter, Miss Laura Thorne, the Howard W. Fentons, Mrs. William G. Hibbard, and Miss Edith Behr are among those who have boxes for this affair, which is the third in a series of five that the board of Emerson house arranged for this winter.

Three Large Weddings Will Be Held Today.

This shortest month of the year gets off to a romantic start today with three large and important weddings, one in town and two on the north short, highlighting the afternoon's social calendar.

By the warm glow of dozens of white candles Miss Florence Otis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Otis, will exchange her wedding vows with Wade Fetzer Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Fetzer of Hinsdale, at 4:30 o'clock at the chancel steps of the Fourth Presbyterian church.

Miss Sarah May Morey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Morey of Evanston, is to become the bride of Daniel Leonard, son of John R. Leonard of Winnetka, in a 4:30 o'clock service in Christ church, Winnetka, while Miss Dorothy Nunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Nunn of Highland Park, will be wed to Thomas S. Harrison Jr., son of Mr. and, Mrs. Thomas S. Harrison of Encinitos, Cal., at the same hour in Trinity Episcopal church in Highland Park.

Dr. Anderson Will Read Service.

Dr. Harrison Ray Anderson, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church, is to read the marriage service for Miss Otis and Mr. Fetzer. Miss Otis will be preceded to the altar by her sister, Mrs. Robert S. Burns of Los Angeles, as matron of honor; Miss Jeanette Hyde of Hartford, Conn., as maid of honor, and eight bridesmaids. The latter will include Miss Helen La Chance, Miss Betty Kellogg, Miss Dorothy Senn, Mrs. George Curtis Bird, who was Barbara Senn before her marriage; Mrs. John Sherman and Miss Mary Jane Fetzer, both sisters of the bridegroom; Mrs. James Otis, and Mrs. Ralph C. Otis Jr.

John Fetzer is to be best man for his brother. Ushering will be John Sherman, Stanley Zaring, George Dixon Jr., Warren Hasemeier, Gordon Campbell Jones, James Otis, Ralph C. Otis Jr., William McSwain, and Osborne Bethea of Cleveland.

Following the wedding there is to be a reception at the Fortnightly, after which Mr. Fetzer and his bride will leave on a wedding trip to Honolulu. Upon their return to Chicago the first week in March they will make their home in an apartment on the near north side.

For the never-to-be-forgotten "something old" in her wedding finery this afternoon Miss Otis will wear a rose-point lace veil that is an heirloom in the Otis family. In similar fashion Miss Morey will wear with her tulle veil the heirloom lace used by Mr. Leonard's sister, Mrs. Hibbard Casselberry, on her wedding day. Miss Morey will also wear at the neckline of her satin gown two Alencon lace butterflies that were decoration on the wedding dress of Mr. Leonard's mother, the late Mrs. Leonard.

Morey-Leonard Wedding Postponed from Jan. 1.

It will be recalled that the wedding of Miss Morey and Mr. Leonard had to be postponed on Jan. 1 because of the serious illness of Mr. Leonard. Today, however, the service and the reception are to be carried through just as originally planned. After the Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard, rector of Christ church, has read the ceremony, Mr. Leonard and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Morey, and the senior Mr. Leonard will receive their friends in the drawing room of the spacious Leonard home, Wildacre, in Winnetka.

Miss Morey is to have her mother for her matron of honor, while Mr. Leonard will be served by his father as best man. Miss Genevieve Koester is to be Miss Morey's maid of honor, and among the six bridesmaids there will be three sisters of the bridegroom, including Mrs. Casselberry, Miss Harriet Leonard, and Miss Deborah Leonard. The other three attendants will be Miss Ann Douglas, Miss Marcelle Mueller, and Mrs. Thomas Hendricks of Washington, D. C.

The friends whom Mr. Leonard has asked to usher are David W. Trainer Jr. of Hamilton, N. Y.; William A. Magie II., Hibbard Casselberry, Houstoun Clinch, Dr. Stuyvesant Butler, Philip A. Copenhaver, Charles D. McKinney, and John B. Townes.

Mr. Leonard and his bride will leave after the reception on a wedding trip through the southwest. They are to make their home upon their return on the north shore.

From all parts of the country friends and relatives have arrived in Highland Park the last two days for the ceremony that will unite in marriage Miss Nunn and young Mr. Harrison. Dr. Hubert Carleton, rector of St. Augustine's church in Wilmette, an old friend of the Nunn family, will read the service in the soft glow of myriad candles that will light the altar of the Highland Park Trinity Episcopal church.

Mrs. Herbert E. Nunn Jr. will be matron of honor for her sister-in-law. The bridesmaids will be Miss Shirley McKay, Miss Ann Scharer of New York, Miss Eleanor Keller of Toledo, and Miss Florence Hastings of Philadelphia.

Harry Johanson of St. Louis is to be Mr. Harrison's best man. Arthur Lewis of Pelham, N. Y.; Robert Ellick and Robert Wiley of Omaha, Edward Flynn of St. Louis, and Herbert E. Nunn Jr. will be the ushers.

The bridegroom's parents are here from their home in California for the wedding. After a reception at the Nunn home Mr. Harrison and his bride will leave on a motor trip through the east. They are to make their home in Cleveland.

Winter Carnival at Lake Forest.

There's no predicting who will win a skating race any more than there is any certainty of picking a winner in a horse race, but one who knows said yesterday that he expected that Frankie Ambler, son of the Harold Amblers, would be the winner of the boys' race in the midwinter carnival at the Winter club in Lake Forest today, and that Mary Bryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Bryan Jr., would outskate the other girls in their race.

Tomorrow at 3 there will be music and refreshments again and a special program of fancy skating will be given by Shipstead and Johnson, Eleanor Berger, Paul Wilson, and others. Donald B. Douglas is chairman of the skating committee of the club, of which John C. Meachem is president.

Dr. Roy D. Welch to Speak Today.

A record attendance is expected this noon at the luncheon the Chicago Smith College club and the Chicago College club are to have in the College club dining room for Dr. Roy Dickinson Welch, chairman of the department of music at Smith college. Dr. Welch is to speak on "Convention and Revolt in Music."

The development of modern Turkey under the dictatorship of Mustapha Kemal will be the theme of the luncheon of the Council on Foreign Relations this noon at the Palmer house. Dr. Hans Kohn, an authority on nationalism, especially in the near east, where he has spent many years, will be the speaker.

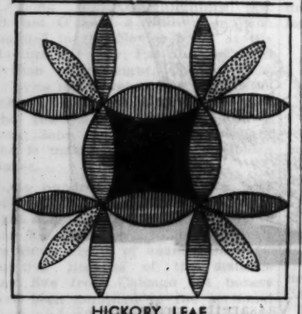
Clever Block Has Major Appeal for Thrifty Quilters



HICKORY LEAF.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The tree family is well represented in quilt lore, and this "Hickory Leaf" design is an outstanding example. It is an old quilt, with a background dating as far back as 1830. Years later it turned up in Wyoming, slightly modified, but equally attractive. This block will appeal to the thrifty quilt maker, who may utilize scraps of prints and plain colors which have been saved.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send five cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn street.

Unostentatious Ornaments Are Best for Hair

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The terrific rush of ornaments to the head, for dressup occasions, threatens the vogue. We are told that women in the lead are throwing their tiaras over the pent house wall, because the vogue became too common, and that flowers are taking the place of the imitation jewels in the hair. Artificial flowers, these are. But we think that a good deal more conservatism need be practised when one is festooning the hair with artificial flowers rather than with artificial jewels. One can so easily look with flower strewn locks like a costume party.

Yet, hair ornaments are engaging things when well chosen. I like them when they're not too showy. After all it is the coiffure that counts. This fact, unobserved, has caused more distaste for the supernornamental jewels than have the tiaras themselves.

If you're planning to dress up the hair with any decoration other than the gloss and tone of hair just keep in mind that it is the hair itself that comes first. What you can tuck cleverly into that beautifully outlined head of yours will go. It's trying to cover up makeshift dressing, and poor hair, that brings the decorations into disfavor. Of course, the frock dominates, or should, the choice of hair ornament. Here, we think, much disfavor was earned for the hair gewgaws. A dress must be quite formal to accompany a tiara. But a wee brilliant, cleverly tucked amid the hair strands, could add coquetry to a simple dinner or cocktail dress.

One thing, in which you cannot go wrong, is a coronet of your own hair. If you are lucky enough to have the length for a coronet braid, you are among the privileged. It's a charming hair style. The hairdressers are not behind with substitute hair in your own color, should your fancy dictate the coronet. The coronet braid looks best on the oval or slender face. He would not recommend it for a face with broad cheek bones, nor for a round, fat face.

Story League.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The very young ladies who loved to slosh rubber balls around in their bath will be found, now that they're grown up, beating a path to some local shops for the latest in bath tub toys for ladies who are not so young. It's a ball, of lightweight chromium instead of rubber, suspended from a ring on a light metal chain. Into its little insides you pour one of the best of bath oils, which seeps out in most minute quantities as you slosh it about to soften and scent both the water and the skin. More fun!

You can suspend it from the shower, too, if you're one of the up and coming girls who goes in for bracing streams over your head instead of lazy, languorous baths. The scent is as beguiling as any perfume; when you're not giving the gadget a workout in your bath you can hang it in the closet to serve as sachet.

It's a love of a gadget and comes in a very swanky box of black suede cloth trimmed in gilt. Bridge hostesses, please note! Even the woman with a phobia about bridge would play for the chance at one of these.

And, speaking of bathroom toys [how did we get on this, anyway?], take a look at the cleansing tissues on rolls that now come in a trim dispenser. If you're cramped for cabinet space the dispenser can take its place right out in the open with no apologies for its appearance.

What with the cold breezes and Chicago's famous winds water softeners are very popular at the moment. There are loads of nice oils, of course, but we recently stumbled on something different—a milky lotion with a pine odor that really is a pine odor. We love pine as well as any one, but next time we're offered a pine scent that reeks of tar, as so many of them do, we'll scream right then and there in the shop. This, as we say, is really piney—and you use only a few drops.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

Catholic Benefit.

A record attendance is expected this afternoon at a bridge party for the benefit of the girls' welfare work conducted by the Council of Catholic Women. The party is to be held in the Palmer house. The council is considering the founding of a home for working girls.

Tailored Lines of Nightgowns Win Travelers

BY RHEA SEEGER.

At last, a new dark blue silk crêpe nightgown that will be grabbed by all traveling females who have formerly complained about too frilly and pastel tinted affairs for the last few years. This number has long sleeves ending in cuffs, a blouse top that looks as trim and tailored as a man's shirt even to the monogrammed tab and high round collar. It's just the thing for a hurried walk down a Pullman aisles, besides being a good, effective lounging ensemble when you are home.

If you are a collector of very feminine and fragile nightgowns, you'll fall in love with two new filmy affairs in flesh and black. They look like enchanting new evening gowns with trains, for they are long and clinging with tie-back sashes. The drop shoulders are adorable, made of bands of chiffon over the shoulder and a ruffle of black lace outlining the deep dropped yokeline. This model is available in either black or flesh chiffon and both have low price tags.

Another black beauty is made with deep triangles of fragile black lace forming the upper section and held in place with turquoise green shoestring straps in series of threes . . . it really has to be seen to be appreciated. The same strapped idea has been used with flesh colored crêpe and powder blue as a contrast.

Some of the most successful costume slips of the season are ready for wear . . . tailored simple things with superfitted silhouettes, the kind that will not develop twisting seams no matter how long you wear them.

You can get them in black to wear under all your dark frocks and clothes or in white and flesh. The prices are very modest and if you crave lace and trimmings the same model is to be found thus adorned, with some extras of insets of fine hand work and embroidery.

Week's Mail Brings in Many Cooking Moans

BY MARY MEADE.

Questions, loads of them again this week, and more coming in each mail, so we'll clean house and see whether some of the most interesting of the stickers will answer likewise some of your questions.

The first comes from Miss M. H., who asks, in brief: "Is there any way of preparing stewed mushrooms and not having them black in color? We're fond of them anyway, but they don't look so nice for company."

They truly don't, do they? But I fear me it's something there's not very much to do about. One aid, though, in keeping them light, is to drop them into water made slightly acid with lemon juice just after they've been prepared for cooking. Also, remember that they blend their flavors speedily and grow soft hearted fast, so a very short time allotment for cooking is the thing for the sake both of their goodness and of their good looks.

Laments next turn up from Mrs. K. T., who has pies which weep from their edges when they're two crusted and fullish. What to do? One good answer is this: To seal the unfaithful edges, beat 1 egg and add 1 tablespoon of water, stirring to blend. Brush this in a thin film over the edge of the bottom crust before lowering the top piece onto it. Then press the crust edges together gently, cut genteel slits in the top for the coming out of steam, and I'll eat them if your juices run over! There is also on the market, by the way, a certain neat tape which may fasten snugly about a rambunctious pie if you want to make doubly sure that I don't have to eat the runovers.

O, and speaking of oddities: Snooping around among the kitchen whatnots at one of these astonishing department stores t'other day I encountered the problem, when is a knife not a knife? And the answer, when it's a fork! The gadget in question would be classified, scientifically, under the genus of cheese knives. But that's the catch, for what it really looks like is a jig saw with a wire instead of a saw connecting the two outside prongs. Then, parallel with these outside prongs are two shorter prongs, which come toward the wire but don't reach it. That space leaves room for the cheese slice, because the trick is to select your cheese, then hold your fork at an angle, wire on cheese, gauging the thickness of the slice. Now press down, and behold the slice of cheese cuts neatly and flips over on the two middle prongs, from which you serve it.

Diagonal Crepe Is Aid in Achieving Frock's Slim Line

WOMAN'S DRESS.

This daytime dress has an attractive jabot collar, and skirt panel, both of which are length giving. A navy blue and white diagonal, mossy, silk crêpe made the original model, and will be especially becoming for a full figure, because the white diagonal striping is slenderizing. It is smart and wearable and not difficult to make.

The pattern, No. 3469, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure.

Now, Crisp Taffeta Rustles Forward In Wind-Blown Collars on Silk Frocks

Taffeta is always a spring favorite—this season the wind-blown fashions have taken taffeta as an ideal medium. Which adds to a new fashion all that is young and flattering. That combination should bring you here a-running.

One frock has its white collar dotted. And the other frock with jacket has striped collar and cuffs. Both in black, navy, and brown silk crepe. Sizes 12 to 18.

Moderate Price Frocks, Fourth Floor.

New Shirtwaist

Frocks shirr shoulders with the tailoring of the same kind that all smart shirtwaist frocks boast of. Silk crepe in rose, green, chartreuse, and aqua. Sizes 12 to 20.

Sports Section, Fourth Floor.

The 8th Style

Arrives to complete a special "17" scoop. This frock has pique squarely across its neckline which joins two rippling shoulder cascades. In the same beautiful quality of crinkle crepe in navy, recovery blue, melon, and copen. Sizes 11 to 17.

"17" Frocks, Fifth Floor.

A Wind-Blown Brim Sweeps a Gardenia Out of the Breeze

Doesn't this hat look as if it had actually stopped a flower that was blowing along in the stiff breeze which is blowing the brim of the hat back? And doesn't this hat have a casual, youthful charm about it? It is one of our favorite hats, and so will it be one of yours, we believe. Fabric-like straw; also felt in black, navy, brown, green, beige, red, and white.

$5.95

Millinery, Fifth Floor.

$5

The 1934 "Streamline" Bag Makes Its Bow to Chicago as the Bag of the Month

Like the new cars, it's proud of its new lines. It's roomier, with wheel line metal ornaments. In smooth calfskin. This is a "Tukway," exclusively here.

Handbags, First Floor.

85c Pair

Yes, Twin Clips Are Smarter than One in Sparkling Rhinestones and Baguettes

Everybody is wearing them—on frocks, dresses, hats, and bags. We've seen them even clipped to a sleeve—always on smart women. Very special at 85c pr.

CANZONERI DRAWS; CROWD BOOS; HE WINS

THIS IS FINAL DAY TO ENTER GOLDEN GLOVES

2,500 Chicago Boys Send in Names.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

This is the final opportunity to enter the Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament in Chicago. No entry will be accepted if postmarked later than 12 o'clock tonight.

FREDDY CASERIO.

The system of physical examinations prior to the four sectional meets has made it necessary to halt the entries today. Six nights already have been needed to examine Golden Gloves contestants, and 400 more boys invited to Trafton's gymnasium Monday night for their examinations. The boys of the C. Y. O. will be examined Tuesday night, and the final physical examination will be held at Trafton's gym on Wednesday night.

Receive 2,500 Letters.

More than 2,500 letters have been received from amateur boxers concerning the Chicago sectional tournaments. It now is apparent that more than 1,000 boys will qualify for the novice and open division bouts at the four Chicago meets. The first of these will start one week from Monday at the 132d Regiment armory, Madison and Rockwell streets.

The entries from the J. O. Y. were received yesterday and these boxers—more than one hundred and fifty—will be examined Wednesday night. Letters will be sent to each boy enclosing parental consent cards which must be brought to the gymnasium at the time of the physical examination.

Franklin Park Enters 41.

While the number of entries from the C. Y. O. and the J. O. Y. exceed those from other teams, there are several excellent squads which will compete for the qualifying berths in the Tournament of Champions. Among these is a group of 41 boys from Franklin Park. Not only has Franklin Park made an enviable record in basketball and other sports under the direction of Red Weiner, but since it secured a ring and boxing equipment has developed some excellent boxers.

Eddie Ballatin, athletic director of the Allerton hotel gymnasium, now has prepared a team of 11 boys for the Golden Gloves tournament. Ballatin has several excellent prospects. Two members of his team entered the Savoy A. C. meet which started three weeks ago. Chester Levere won the light heavyweight championship and Russell Nyberg will fight for the welterweight title next Tuesday night.

Many Teams Enroll.

This is the second year since the opening of the Allerton gymnasium, but the boys believe they can reach the Tournament of Champions at the Chicago Stadium, where they will meet the best amateur fighters from eight states.

The Rolewicz Athletic club, the Kedzie Avenue Buddies, Catino Athletic club, American Aircraft Observers' association, the Polish Youth Organization and the Opal Athletic and Benevolent association are other recognized clubs which will have teams of boxers in the sectionals.

Ted Bogan has sent in the names of 12 boys who will represent the P. Y. O. Capt. J. W. Kacmárek is the director of the American Aircraft Observers' team. Curtis Hubertz is president of the Catino Athletic club while Charles Rossow and Jimmy Toman, former Golden Glover, are in the charge of the Opal squad. Toman lost to Freddie Caserio in the semi finals of the 1931 Golden Gloves championships and was prevented from competing in the intercity fights that year because he broke his hand.

Take Physical Examinations.

Among the Opal fighters are: Michael O'Doul, a lightweight who qualified in the Novice bouts at the Stadium last year; Pat Sullivan, Opal division welterweight; Chester Ellis, a Novice middleweight last year; Mike DeKovic, a Novice light heavyweight who reached the Stadium tournament; John Sullivan, a heavyweight who is making his debut in Golden Gloves.

One hundred and eighty-two boys took physical examinations Thursday night and all except five passed. More than 700 now have qualified and there are three nights of examinations remaining. Because of the distance they live from Chicago 104 boxers have been admitted to the sectional meets and will take their first physical examinations on the first night of the tournament to which they have been assigned.

Frank Froschauer, Illini Basket Star, Ineligible

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Unless he is successful in a special examination next week, Frank Froschauer, forward and leading scorer of the Illinois basketball team, will be out for the rest of the season. Froschauer was reported ineligible today and will not play against Bradley next Tuesday, but may become eligible in time for the Indiana game Feb. 10.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: "Long John" Wentworth, early day Chicagoan famous as editor, politician and congressman in the '40s and '50s and mayor in 1857 and 1860, was well known to pioneerdom of Vermilion, Iroquois, and Kankakee counties, in which he once campaigned as a Democrat on horseback.

In the '40s Wentworth's district embraced a territory from which 22 counties have been created. He used to come to old Bourbonnais, in Kankakee county (at that time in Will county), where he and Noel Le Vasseur leaned against the tavern bar, bought drinks and told stories, alluding to politics only incidentally.

Wash Selby, a local character with a yen for whisky, once remarked after absorbing a drink, "O, m'God, I wish I wuz as tall as that fellow Wentworth; he can still taste liquor goin' down when the rest of us hez forgot."

I first saw and listened to "Long John" in the winter of 1881 when he appeared before an open meeting of the Chicago Historical society at Central Music hall and gave a talk on "Personal Reminiscences of Congress" interspersed with many allusions to earlier Chicago.

"Long John's" appearance filled the hall, even to the balconies. Many city notables appeared on the stage. He was introduced by the Hon. Isaac N. Arnold. When he arose, towering like a giant, our first thought was we never had beheld so homely a man. He received a tremendous ovation. The vast audience arose with the speaker and remained standing during tumultuous applause for several minutes while ladies waved their handkerchiefs until the main floor seemed overwhelmed by billowy white waves.

Perhaps our hearts sank when he advanced to the little desk and deposited thereon a formidable bunch of manuscript. He talked for nearly two and one-half hours—but it was the shortest two and one-half hours I ever spent.

Small merchants "Bei der Nord Seit," when trade was over for the day would go out and "put up the shutters and take in the sign." It was a custom imported from the old country, and a protection for their property against thieves and vandals. When going home at night many downtown business men used the expression, and it still may be heard at quitting time when bosses tell the help it is time to quit.

Glad to hear of your new baby—
And don't they grow up fast?
It only seems like yesterday
As fleeting years go past.

Depression swooped down on us,
Stocks and bonds are so much foam;
The things we now appreciate
Are the children in our home.

We may never write a fable,
Our praise no one may sing,
But home we make a happy place
Where children's voices sing.

Do You Remember 'Way Back When: We used little clasps to keep our shoestrings from coming untied?—E. F. J., Eureka, Ill.

MINNESOTA, OHIO RENEW BIG TEN ACTION TONIGHT

Four Sophomores Carry Gopher Hopes.

Games Tonight

Minnesota at Ohio State.
Chicago at Marquette.
Bradley at Iowa.
Notre Dame at Detroit.
Loyola at Michigan State.

Columbus, O., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Ohio State will play Minnesota here tomorrow night in the only Big Ten conference basketball game of the week-end. The Buckeyes hope to regain a place in the first division and at the same time make it two victories over the Gophers, who they defeated, 28 to 24, at Minneapolis earlier in the season.

At present Ohio is in seventh place with three victories and four defeats, while Minnesota has won three out of six games.

Only One Veteran.

In the Minnesota starting lineup there will be four sophomores: Charley Wallblom and George Roscoe, forwards, and George Svendsen and Billy Kane, guards. The only experienced man is Gordon Norman, a junior center.

Because the present Buckeye lineup functioned better against Minnesota than any other opponent, Coach H. G. Olsen will make no further changes. Bobby Colburn and Warren Whitlinger are at forwards, Capt. Blackie Conrad at center, and Red Wilson and Bill Beitner at guards.

Ted Rosequist, who has been out of the game for a month with a broken bone in his hand, is expected to return to action against Marquette next week.

BRADLEY AT IOWA

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The University of Iowa basketball team will seek its fourth consecutive victory in a final tuneup game against Bradley Tech here tomorrow night.

Although Coach Rollie Williams hopes to continue the 15 point victory margin which the Hawkeyes have maintained in ten games this season, it is likely that he will experiment with a second team if the score permits.

The regular Iowa quintet survived mid-year examinations, but the reserve strength was shattered by ineligibility. With five replacements lost because of scholastic difficulties, Williams probably will try Fred Schwartz and Justin Webb as forwards, and Harold Swaney and Donald Fuller, guards. None of these men has had much collegiate experience.

MAROONS AT MARQUETTE

Minus the services of the injured Bill Haarlow, University of Chicago basketball team will play a return contest with the skilful Marquette five at Milwaukee tonight.

The loss of Bill's scoring ability and floor generalship renders Chicago's chance of victory slim as Marquette already has defeated the Maroons, 31 to 24, at the Midway.

Bob Pyle and Tommy Flinn will start at forwards, but Hal Wegner, the only veteran of the squad, has been shifted from guard to forward because of his marksmanship and will be called on later in the evening.

Haarlow will be unable to play against Minnesota at the Midway Monday night, but should be ready for the Chicago-Northwestern match at Evanston a week from tonight.

NOTRE DAME VS. DETROIT

Notre Dame, Ind., Feb. 2.—[Special.] — Notre Dame, defeated only once in the last 25 starts, will face the undefeated University of Detroit basketball team at Detroit tomorrow night.

WELCOME BACK, EDDIE!

Eddie Shore of Boston, one of the ablest defense men in hocky history, will return to Chicago tomorrow night when the Bruins meet the Hawks at the Chicago Stadium. Shore, who is shown with the headguard now being worn by all of the Bruins, was suspended for 16 games following the Ace Bailey accident. Since his return from exile opposing crowds, accustomed to booing Eddie, have given him cheers no end.

Gus Mancuso Is Sick; Typhoid Fever Feared

Houston, Tex., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Gus Mancuso, stellar catcher of the world champion New York Giants, has been confined to bed six days in his home here, it was learned tonight. Mrs. Mancuso said his physician feared the catcher had typhoid fever, but would withhold his diagnosis pending a more conclusive blood count. Mancuso had been running a high fever.

GOVERNOR HUNTS THIRD MEMBER OF RACING BOARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 2.—Late tonight word came from the executive mansion that Gov. Horner has been able to find only two members of the new Illinois State Racing commission.

They are Peter B. Carey, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, and Leo Spitz, Chicago attorney and close friend of the governor.

"I will not make public announcement of the membership of the commission until I find a third member who is willing to serve," the governor said. "I hope to make the appointments before leaving for Arizona on my vacation trip at noon on Sunday," the governor added.

Undecided on Chairman.

Friends of the governor said tonight that either Carey or Spitz would be satisfactory to him as chairman of the commisison and that it had not been decided which would serve in that capacity.

Rumors were also heard tonight that George Foster, Chicago attorney and a close friend of Patrick J. Nash of Chicago would be named secretary of the racing commission

Inasmuch as Messrs. Carey and Spitz are both Democrats the third member of the commission must, according to the new racing law, be a Republican.

CAREY HASN'T HAD OFFER

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Peter B. Carey, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, here on a vacation, tonight said he had "not accepted or declined to serve as chairman or a member of the new Illinois racing commission."

Mr. Carey admitted that friends had talked to him about such an appointment before he left Chicago.

"The offer of the position from Gov. Horner has never come to me," he continued.

"Will you accept if tendered the appointment?" Mr. Carey was asked.

"It would be useless for me to answer such a question until offered the appointment," was his reply.

Mr. Carey did not know just when he would return to Chicago.

JUDGE REFUSES TO ORDER ARREST OF VINES, TILDEN

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Superior Judge Frank C. Collier declined today to issue a bench warrant for the arrest in Kansas City of Ellsworth Vines Jr. and William T. Tilden, professional tennis players, because of their failure to appear in court here in reply to a summons.

Judge Collier said the warrant would be issued, however, unless Vines appeared April 14 for a hearing on the charge of J. Frank Albright, contractor, that the Pasadena youth has failed to pay a judgment of $3,500 returned against him for injuries Albright suffered in a motor car accident Aug. 20, 1932.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

EDDIE COLLINS intends to have Herb Pennock help coach the Red Sox pitchers. . . . Wonder what a fellow could be expected to teach workmen like Lefty Grove, Rube Walberg, George Pipgras, and Henry Johnson. . . . Jay Berwanger, most valuable Chicago football player, will compete in the decathlon events at track meets this spring. . . . Tim Moynihan of the Chicago Cardinals, will be appointed Jack Chevigny's assistant at University of Texas. . . . Wisconsin's freshman swimming team defeats the varsity consistently. . . .

When Sammy Mandell was lightweight champion he wasn't satisfied to mingle with boys of his own weight. . . . He stepped into the welter ranks to fight Jimmy McLarnin. . . . Mandell promptly passed out as a fistic headliner. . . . Barney Ross, who now rules the lightweights, likewise isn't content to stay where he belongs. . . . He is negotiating for a welterweight match with this same McLarnin in June. . . . No good will come of it. . . . Gus Dorais of Detroit, who has been mentioned among the candidates for the Ohio State football job, is not interested in going to Columbus. . . .

The Sigma Chi basketball team is leading the interfraternity league at Northwestern. . . . Roy Auguston, football and baseball player, is captain. . . . Pug Lund and Julie Alfonse, half backs on last year's Minnesota football team, were prep school rivals. . . . Pug played with Rice Lake and Julie with Cumberland, only 20 miles apart. . . . Hocky has caught the fancy of baseball leaders. . . . Lou Comiskey, Joe Barry, Bob Lewis, Ray Schalk, Guy Bush, and Clarence Rowland are regular patrons at Blackhawk games. . . . Sam Alpert, the only southpaw golfer to win the Western junior championship, hasn't played a round since he was graduated from Illinois in 1932. . . . Ohio State built a new gymnasium a year ago, but the basketball team does not play its games there. . . . It uses the Fairgrounds Coliseum, which is a mile from the campus. . . .

Joe McCarthy can start an appendixless battery this year. . . . Catcher Bill Dickey and Pitcher Charley Devens had theirs removed during the winter. . . . When Howard Bastian, Iowa's giant basketball center, plays at Indiana Monday night he will be dwarfed by Fred Fechtman, the Hoosiers' new center who is 6 feet 8 inches tall. . . Bastian is only 6 feet 5. . . . Fechtman comes from Southport, Ind., the same town that turned out Chuck Klein of the Cubs. . . . Bill Miller, manager and coach of the Tulsa Oilers five, is in New York trying to arrange a series in the east. . . . There is a possibility the team will visit France, England, Germany, and Italy after the A. A. U. schedule is completed. . . . The Notre Dame Club of Chicago will extend its greetings to Elmer Layden at the Illinois A. C. Feb. 8. . . . Charlie Dean, former president of the Central A. A. U. is associated with Rainbo Gardens. . . .

Northwestern and Chicago have open dates on their 1935 football schedules. . . Mr. Wilson and Mr. Metcalf, please note. . . . Our girl reporter at Hialeah helped Ben Bernie listen to words of wisdom from Jim Healey, Whitney's head man. . . . She submits as evidence that the old maestro of the air waves can take a hint the fact that he carried 1,500 of those 60 cent dollars back home from the track the other afternoon. . . . Purdue and Northwestern may get together on a football date for 1935. . . . Woodrow Wilson, age 16, has entered the Chicago Golden Gloves tournament. . . .

Twenty-one members of the plebe football team at West Point have been dismissed from the academy for scholastic deficiencies. . . . Eleven were former college players. . . . Lawson Robertson, track coach at Pennsylvania, says a man who runs a four minute mile must do the first half in 1:57 because it will take 2:03 for the last half, no matter how good he is. . . . Billy Petrolle quits boxing with only one regret—he never won a championship. . . . He is afraid the fans will forget him too soon. . . . "They remember only champions," he laments. . . . Max Schmeling is including road work in his training for the Hamas bout for the first time in four years. . . .

Ten years ago today—The Maroons basketball team advanced to second place in the Big Ten standings by defeating Iowa, 31 to 18. . . . E. E. [Laddie] Myers of the Chicago Athletic association broke the world's indoor pole vault record when he cleared the bar at 12 feet 10 inches in the 35th annual track and field meet of the Boston A. A. . . .

GAINS DECISION AFTER RECOUNT OF JUDGES' VOTE

Floors Locatelli in Two Rounds.

New York, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri, former lightweight champion, won a twelve round decision over Cleto Locatelli, European titleholder, tonight, but only after a recount that followed the announcement of a draw decision.

TONY CANZONERI.

A crowd of 5,000 sat stunned, then booed, and finally broke into open laughter when Joe Humphries, veteran announcer, gave the draw decision after Locatelli twice had been floored and had taken a beating in all but three rounds.

A mixup in the scoring of the judges, Abe Goldberg and the former star lightweight Leach Cross, apparently led old Joe astray. Boxing Commissioners Bill Brown and Gen. John J. Phelan scurried about the ringside, discovered the error, and after a delay of several minutes the rightful decision was announced.

Referee Votes for Draw.

Both judges actually had voted for Canzoneri, instead of one for Locatelli and the other for Tony. When the issue was put up to Referee Willie Lewis after the judges disagreed he complicated matters by throwing in his vote for a draw. On the recount the referee's vote was discarded and the decision went back to that of the judges—unanimous in favor of Canzoneri.

Nothing similar ever has happened before in the history of Garden boxing and the small crowd that paid $14,219 to see Canzoneri whip the Italian champion for the second time booed loudly again when the mistake was rectified, probably because of all the indignation that had been wasted.

Tony, still a grand ring workman though he has lost some of the speed and accuracy of his championship days, gave Locatelli an even worse beating than he did in their first ten round match several weeks ago.

Locatelli Floored Twice.

Clean rights to the chin smashed the sturdy invader to the floor in both the second and third rounds, and though he bounced right up at the count of "one," Cleto was badly hurt.

Canzoneri coasted then until the last two rounds, smashing Locatelli lustily about the body, bending him double with pain at times, but never quite able to wear out the tremendous stamina or beat down the fine courage of the Italian. In the last two rounds Tony opened the throttle wide again, smashed Cleto's nose and beat him all over the ring.

The experts agreed that Locatelli, with a three pound advantage in the weights at 136 pounds, was entitled to an edge in only three of the twelve rounds. He outpointed Canzoneri with his left in the fourth, when Tony sought only to put over the finisher. In the sixth and seventh, when Canzoneri laid back for the final drive, Locatelli kept trying. He got in enough body blows and left hooks to the head to win these two rounds.

Judges Disagree Again.

The judges continued to have a desperate time of it and failed to agree on the winner of an eight round semi-final staged after the main bout. Referee Lewis awarded Petey Hayes, 125, of Brooklyn, the decision over Pete Degrasse, 125½, also of Brooklyn, ending the deadlock and sending the crowd away laughing again.

CUBS PICKED BY HUBBELL AS THE TEAM TO BEAT

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Carl Owen Hubbell, southpaw pitcher of the New York Giants, today picked the Chicago Cubs as the outstanding contender for the 1934 National league pennant.

"I say the Cubs because they look as if they've improved the most," commented the lanky hero of the 1933 world series. "They were only a half dozen games behind us in 1933, and since then they've added the league's best hitter, Chuck Klein, without weakening themselves in any position. I'm not saying they'll win, but they look like the team that will have to be beaten."

Hubbell picked Catcher Virgil Davis, acquired by the St. Louis Cardinals from the Philadelphia Phillies, as the "toughest right handed batter for me to pitch to."

Hubbell is en route by train to New York to be feted by baseball writers as the most valuable player of 1933.

Fight Decisions

At Detroit, Mich.—Bobby Leitham beat Ernie Maurer [10].
At New York—Tony Tassi beat Al Jallette [4]; Tony Scarpati beat Patsy Passulli [6].
At Boston, Mass.—Al McCoy beat Salvatore Affinito [10].
At Worcester, Mass.—Jackie Davis and Harry Devine, draw [8].
At Baltimore, Md.—Frank Petrolle beat Buster Brown [10].
At Philadelphia, Pa.—Billy Ketchell knocked out George Courtney [9].

MAJ. M'LAUGHLIN EXPLAINS HAWKS' 1934 SUCCESS

Lauds Conacher, Gardiner and Team Spirit.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

"We hope to win the Stanley cup next season," said Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, president of the Chicago Blackhawks, after his team had closed last year's campaign at the bottom of the National Hocky league.

"Those words are the stuff that dreams are made of," William Shakespeare would have snapped, if he had fraternized with Blackhawk fans through a season of disheartening spectacles.

Today Maj. McLaughlin's words seem far from visionary. With the season well advanced, the Hawks are tied with the New York Rangers at the top of the American division, and seem assured of a place in the playoffs. Yesterday the major gave his ideas on why the Blackhawks came back to life. The underlying reason, in his opinion, is the spirit of the team as a whole—and Manager Tommy Gorman, Defense Man Lionel Conacher, and Goalkeeper Chuck Gardiner have exerted particularly potent influence in the development of this spirit.

Conacher Solves Problem.

"From time to time," the major said, "I bring a few of my friends into the locker room during the intermissions of the games. Their comments afterward are nearly always the same. They go into the locker room expecting to find a bunch of bored professionals planning to get through the rest of their night's work with a minimum of effort. Instead they find a lively gang that has the spirit of a college team. Gorman gets the players in a fighting mood and keeps them in it.

"We needed a man like Conacher to exert a steadying influence on the team. We had youth, enthusiasm, and speed, but we lacked a cool, experienced fellow, around whom the players could rally when the going got rough. The boys respect Conacher's judgement and they look to him when they're in a tough spot.

"I don't know of any man who throws himself into the game as Gardiner does. He plays as hard in practice as he would in a Stanley cup match. During an afternoon workout he'll drop full length on the ice to stop a rush, taking a chance on getting the puck or a skate blade in his face."

They're in the Black.

The Chicago public turns out to see first class hocky, and as a result the Blackhawks will be self-supporting this year. Since play began in 1926 the club has been faced with a deficit every season with the exception of 1930-1931, when it went into the Stanley cup playoffs. This year the team will at least break even, with the possibility of a profit.

The federal government takes 10 per cent of the gross receipts, and until this season the city took 3 per cent. The result was that the Blackhawks were paying municipal taxes twice as large as those of the Cubs and Sox. This season the city fee was discontinued, a fixed license charge being exacted from the Stadium company. After taxes are paid the Blackhawks have their rent to meet. Then come the salaries of the players. These expenses have been greater than the receipts in nearly every previous season.

Hopes for Another Series.

Though hocky is a favorite diversion for Maj. McLaughlin, polo remains his favorite sport. He was the moving spirit in arranging the East-West polo series last summer at Onwentsia. He has recently been appointed subchairman of the United States Polo association, with jurisdiction over the central states. There are two similar officials, one on the west coast and the other in the east.

"I hope that we will be able to arrange another outstanding event for the Chicago district this summer," the major said. "But unless we can have a good one we won't have any."

"The capacity crowds at the East-West matches proved that there is a demand for first class polo here, and I believe that the association would make a mistake in letting the market lapse after it has been built up."

DICK TRACY—Getting Personal

Lures Attract Fishermen as Well as Fish

BY BOB BECKER.

What the well equipped fisherman will throw at the black bass, muskalunge, trout, and other popular species was demonstrated in Chicago recently when the sporting goods dealers held their "spring fashion show."

A survey of the displays at this show indicated that considerable attention is going to be given to the new hollow tube steel fishing rods during the coming season. Last season saw the arrival of the hollow tube bait casting rod. This year marks the debut of the fly rod constructed of the same material.

Some New Features.

A summary of some of the outstanding features in the 1934 fishing tackle line as revealed by the show exhibits is as follows:

1. The fishing rod situation is easily dominated by the arrival of the fly rod made of hollow, drawn steel which produces a rod that is light, resilient, and full of pep, yet has the feel of bamboo.

Manufacturers have been "playing" with this steel fly rod for a long time. Tournament fly casters and fishermen worked sample rods of hollow drawn steel last year, with the result that manufacturers have had expert advice and suggestions on how to build their stock. Prices of these new rods will run around $20 for a rod with one tip.

Steel Tips Durable.

As far as we can determine one tip should be enough for any fisherman. Steel tips are not going to break like those of bamboo. But all of us will know more about that point after we hook a big fish and give him "the butt" by putting all the pressure we can on the steel rod.

2. Low prices for very serviceable bamboo rods. The displays of the tackle manufacturers showed that fly fishermen can now purchase worth while bamboo fly rods ranging in price from a few dollars up to $16.50. It looks like a fly fishing year.

3. A "knee action" lure makes its appearance for the benefit of the bait casters.

Wooden Lure Revamped.

4. An old favorite wooden lure widely used by bait casters comes out this year with a new "chassis" to make it a livelier lure and also more durable.

5. One manufacturer stresses a combination steel muskie and bass rod by combining two tips in the package.

6. One of the most important features of the 1934 tackle line is the great assortment of low priced bait casting reels. Well made reels that can give the fisherman a lot of service, are now being turned out at a very low price. With orders for tackle running ahead of last year, manufacturers are looking for a bigger fishing year than was experienced in 1933.

TWO GAMES ON KUPPPENHEIMER SOCCER CARD

Two soccer games will be played at Kuppenheimer stadium, 19th street and Keeler avenue tomorrow.

The Wieboldt Wonderbolts, who are in the western semi-finals of the national cup competition, will meet Calumet Park of the Major league, and in the windup the Maccabee A. C. of the Major league will oppose Ravenswood Scots of the National Professional league.

The Wieboldts have not lost a game since last fall and eliminated the Swedish-Americans in the first round of the national tourney, 5 to 1. Last Sunday the Wonderbolts beat the Ben Millers at St. Louis, 3 to 1, and gained entry in the semi-finals, the first western team to do so.

ICE EVENT TO BE HELD TOMORROW AT MEDINAH CLUB

Medinah Country club will hold an ice carnival tomorrow on the twenty acre lake within the club's grounds. Several skating stars, including Bobby McLean, internationally famous champion and holder of eleven world's professional records, will take part.

McLean will do a series of stunts, including speed skating, barrel jumping, and figure skating.

In addition to these stunts by McLean, there will be a series of races open to members of the club, including special events for girls under 15, for those under 21, and for the wives of members and their guests. Similar races in the same classes will be held for boys and men.

Sixth Corps, Cleveland to Play Tonight

A number of the outstanding polo stars of the middle west, with eyes upon national championship honors, will ride tonight at the 124th Field Artillery arena, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

Inaugurating the evening's double header, starting at 8:30 o'clock, the 122d Field Artillery trio will take on the Milwaukee Badgers.

This game will be followed by a duel between the Sixth Corps Area and the Cleveland Riding club, both of which are battling for senior division laurels in the Metropolitan Polo league.

The University of Chicago's polo team will meet Iowa State tonight at the Chicago Riding club in the first of a series of games in which five teams will face the Maroon trio.

Ohio State will be the opponent on Feb. 17; the Black Horse troop on Feb. 24, the University of Illinois on March 3, and Detroit university on March 10.

In the second game tonight the Chicago Riding club will play the Minneapolis Polo club, indoor polo champions of the Twin Cities Polo association.

MISHAWAKA AND GOSHEN TAKE PREP BATTLES

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Two field goals in the last 30 seconds of play, gave Mishawasha a 19 to 17 victory over South Bend Central in a Northern Indiana High school conference basketball game tonight. Mike Keleman and Frank Kronewitter tossed in the tying and winning baskets.

Goshen defeated Riley of South Bend, 27 to 22, in another conference game. Plason, Goshen center, accounted for 17 points.

BOWLING MATCH TONIGHT.

The Mineralites, leaders of the Randolph Bowling league, will appear in an exhibition match tonight at the Niles Center recreation.

Winning Ping-Pong

BY COLEMAN CLARK.
[National Champion 1932.]

[This is the fifth of a series on how to play ping-pong.]

FOREHAND AND BACKHAND DRIVES.

THE forehand stroke starts behind and at the side of the body, as shown in the illustration, and terminates well out in front of the body. For the best results, the UPPER edge of the racket should be tilted FORWARD at the moment of impact.

At the start of the stroke, when the arm goes backward and sideward, turn the body simultaneously with it so that the left shoulder inclines toward the net. As the ball is hit the body reverses itself [turns to the left], and at the finish the weight has shifted from the right, or rear foot, to the left, or front foot.

Observe the same principles for a backhand drive, which starts from the left side of the body. In this case the RIGHT shoulder inclines towards the net and at the conclusion of the shot the weight has shifted from the left, or rear foot, to the right, or front foot. The transfer of weight is very similar to that of the golfer as he drives.

Canada First U.S. Opponent for Davis Cup

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, England, Feb. 2.—The United States will meet Canada in the first round of competition in the north American zone of Davis cup play. The anouncement of the draw was made today following a meeting at which Sir Samuel Hoare, president of the Lawn Tennis association, presided.

America was not represented at the meeting. Ambassador Robert W. Bingham is visiting in the United States. The winner of the United States-Canada series will meet Mexico.

The first name to be drawn out of the cup was that of the United States. Canada was second. Mexico, the other country which competes in the North American zone, drew the bye in the first round.

Fifteen nations will participate in the battle for the Davis cup. Under a new arrangement preliminary rounds were held last summer. England won the championship last year.

Western Indoor Meet on Stadium Rink.

The outstanding speed skaters of the United States and Canada will compete in the annual western open indoor championship meet at the Chicago Stadium today. Qualifying races will open the program this morning at 10 o'clock. Finals are scheduled to start tonight at 8 o'clock.

Among the skaters who will seek championships in five divisions is Eddie Schroeder of Chicago, who last Sunday captured the North American championship at Oconomowoc, Wis. Schroeder will be making his last appearance of the season, for he will leave soon for Oslo, Norway, to compete in the world championship meet.

Kucera, Stundl Meet Again.

Other Chicago skaters in class A include Al Kucera of the Brekke Skating club and Eddie Stundl of the Olympic Skating club. This pair last Wednesday night furnished one of the most thrilling races of the season when they finished in a dead heat in the men's final of THE TRIBUNE'S Silver Skates Derby at Lincoln park.

Canada's representatives in the class A competition will be Stanley Backinsky, Jack Stack, and George McKenzie of Winnipeg, and Herbert Flack and Harris Legg of Toronto. Hattie D. Briggs of Huntsville, Leila Brooks-Potter of Toronto and Florence Hurd of London, Ont., head the list in the women's class A races.

Freisinger Outgrowing Class.

Leo Freisinger of Chicago, intermediate title holder, will race in the intermediate division for the last time as he has a birthday later in the month which will force him to move into the senior class.

Dick Beard of Minneapolis, Minn., national and North American junior champion, is the favorite in the races for boys under 16. Others entered in this division are Johnny Weaver, New York; Bud Lewis, St. Louis, and Ben Kisselberg and Robert Sherman of Chicago.

The hopes of Chicago to gain the women's class A championship will depend upon Priscilla Richey of the Brekke Skating club, Elizabeth Dubois of the Olympia Skating club, and Eleanor Thiel and Mabel Swanson of the Romme Skating club.

Mixed Relay Race.

One of the highlights of the program will be a one and a half mile international mixed relay race between United States and Canada. Each country will be represented by its two senior men and its two senior women who finish highest in the standings. Those who will race in this relay will not be known until next to the last race of the evening.

Between races exhibitions will be given by fancy skaters.

Michigan to Hold A. A. U. Relays Tonight

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—More than 250 trackmen, representing colleges, clubs, and high schools of the state, will take part in the Michigan A. A. U. relay program to be run here tomorrow night. It will be the first program of its kind offered by the state A. A. U., succeeding the old annual indoor track meet.

Nine matched relays are to be held, together with eight open events. The feature event will be a mile relay, in which Michigan, Ohio State and Illinois will run.

Another race that will draw much attention is the matched relay in which Michigan State, University of Detroit, Michigan Normal of Ypsilanti and Western State of Kalamazoo have been bracketed. Three Michigan-Ontario conference teams, Adrian, Assumption, and Detroit Tech, will be matched in a third event.

Competitors in the open events will include Tom Ottey, Michigan State distance winner; Willis Ward, Michigan entry in the dash, high hurdles, and high jump; Ray Lowry, Michigan Normal pole vaulter; Frank Davis, Hillsdale college shot putter, and John Wonsowitz, pole vaulter, and George Neal, shot putter, from Ohio State.

The program is somewhat experimental and, if it draws as is anticipated, it may be expanded next year. State A. A. U. officials are hopeful that in a few years it will take on the character of the Big Ten eastern track programs, with matched races for nationally known stars from outside the state.

16,000 Will See Millrose Meet Tonight

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Madison Square Garden, which has been sold out this winter for hocky games and for the Tilden-Vines tennis match, virtually was assured of a full house tomorrow night for its first track meet of the season, the twenty-seventh annual Millrose A. A. games.

J. B. Magan, Millrose president, and Fred Schmartz, meet director, did not want to drive any patrons away, but the fact was obvious to would-be ticket purchasers today that only a handful of reserve seats were left two days before the meet. About five thousand balcony seats will be placed on sale tomorrow. Sixteen thousand spectators are expected for the meet.

Tickets Sell at Premium.

In so far as arena seats are concerned the ticket agencies apparently had what reserved tickets were floating about. One quoted a price of $4.95, another $4.40 for the $3.30 side arena sections. Still a third agency admitted it had tickets, but refused to quote prices over the telephone.

The reason for this rush for tickets—not unprecedented in Millrose history, was the quality of the racing fields which will vie for trophies, watches, records, and athletic glory. Mr. Schmertz, successor to the late John G. Anderson as meet director, started inviting outstanding athletes as long ago as last May. His activities have brought into the Millrose every National A. A. U. outdoor flat racing champion from 100 to 10,000 meters, as well as assorted hurdles, steeplechase, vaulting and jumping champions, and all the indoor title holders in training who can find an event in which to compete.

Walter Marty, California high jumper; Johnny Morriss and Emmett Toppino, Louisiana hurdler and sprinter, respectively, and Glen Dawson, Oklahoma miler, forced indoors for their final workouts by the snowstorm, professed to be ready to stand or fall on their condition. Glenn Cunningham, the Kansas miler, preceded by predictions of 4.06 miles and such; Chuck Hornbostel and Ivan Fuqua, co-captains of Indiana, and their mile relay team; Ralph Metcalfe, the world's fastest sprinter, and the Marquette mile relay, and the Canadian champions, Bert Pearson, sprinter, and Fred Shaver, half miler, are due here. Most of the colleges—there are 29 entered in all—will bring in their athletes from the nearer campuses.

Make Cunningham Favorite.

In regard to Cunningham's defense of his mile laurels, most selectors have picked him as a strong favorite, despite the fact that he will be making his first start of the year, whereas Gene Venzke, the second choice, already has put two races away, one of them an impressive mile in Boston last Saturday. Cunningham, however, was good enough for a 4:13 mile in his 1933 debut. He doesn't need much training to reach top form, and Bill Hargiss, the Kansas coach, has sent word ahead that the Jayhawk wonder is better right now than he ever has been.

Dawson, Joe Mangan of Cornell, and Frank Crowley of Manhattan are being more or less ignored, on the assumption that none of the three 'n improve enough in a week to be dangerous.

JOHNNY PHAGAN GAINS DECISION OVER CHUCK REED

Johnny Phagan, west side 150 pound boxer, won a six round decision over Chuck Reed in the windup last night at Rainbo Fronton. Reed's southpaw style bothered Phagan at times, but his superior experience and harder punching earned him the battle. Other results:

Sammy Adams beat John Mochal [4].
Art Mitchell beat George Schrosbree [4].
Joey Bozak beat Jim Richards [4].

St. Philip Wins Two Catholic League Games

St. Philip's heavyweights defeated St. Patrick, 38 to 26, at St. Philip gymnasium last night to climb into a first place tie in the west section of the Chicago Catholic High School league. In a preliminary game the St. Philip lights triumphed over St. Patrick, 25 to 23.

The Mount Carmel heavyweights suffered their second east section defeat, losing to St. Rita, 31 to 22, on the Mount Carmel floor. Badke, center, starred for St. Rita with four baskets and two free throws.

St. Mel's quintets handed St. Michael a double defeat at St. Mel's gymnasium. The heavies, with Crowley scoring six baskets and four free throws, won, 31 to 12, and the lights overwhelmed St. Michael, 52 to 18.

Evanston and Oak Park Fives Twin Victors

Evanston and Oak Park continued to march toward the Suburban High School league heavyweight basketball championship last night. Both quintets triumphed, Evanston defeating Deerfield, 19 to 15, at Evanston, while Oak Park triumphed over Proviso, 27 to 20, at Maywood.

The lightweight team of Oak Park and Evanston also won to remain among the leaders in their division. Evanston handed Deerfield a 20 to 16 defeat and Oak Park routed Proviso, 36 to 25.

Glenbard and York divided a pair of West Suburban conference contests at Elmhurst. The Glenbard heavyweights won, 38 to 18, while the York lights triumphed, 18 to 14. In two other conference games Riverside's quintets defeated West Chicago on Riverside's court. The heavies won, 29 to 23, and the lights, 26 to 24.

Thornton of Harvey scored its 34th consecutive heavyweight victory, defeating Bloom, 57 to 30, at Harvey.

SENN BEATS ROOSEVELT

Roosevelt and Tilden Tech heavyweight basketball teams suffered their first defeats in the Chicago Public High School league yesterday. Roosevelt lost to Senn, 34 to 30, in the north section at Roosevelt gymnasium, while Tilden Tech was defeated by Lindblom, 46 to 37, in a central division contest on Lindblom's court.

Conwell and Stankus were the leaders of Lindblom's victory over Tilden Tech. Conwell scored four field goals and five free throws, while Stankus made four baskets and two penalty shots. Annerino starred for Tilden.

Stone led Senn's attack against Roosevelt, scoring seven baskets and two free throws. It was Senn's third victory and it is now tied with Roosevelt for second place.

Harrison and Sullivan were victors in two other league heavyweight games. Harrison routed Manley, 25 to 12, while Sullivan won from Amundsen, 38 to 23. The lineups:

Rematch O'Dowd and Cohen for Marigold Bout

An eight round bout between Bobby O'Dowd, Sioux City, Ia., bantamweight, and Lenny Cohen of Chicago will replace the Johnny Phagan-Solly Dukelsky windup Monday at Marigold Gardens. The Phagan-Dukelsky match has been postponed until Feb. 12.

Cohen gave O'Dowd such a stirring battle Thursday, despite a disadvantage of four pounds in weight, that Promoter Maurice Rivkin signed them for a return bout when Dukelsky asked for a postponement because of a small cut over his eye.

Jimmy Cummings is matched with Bobby Millsap in a four round preliminary. A wrestling bout will bring together Rudy Kay and Jack McAdams.

Barney Ross, lightweight and junior welterweight champion, will leave for Kansas City, Mo., tonight for a 12 round match against Pete Nebo next Wednesday. He will be accompanied by his co-manager, Art Winch, and the latter's bride, the former Miss Leola Irwin of St. Louis.

The Catholic Youth organization has suspended six boxers for six months for violation of the rules. . . . Eddie Ward and Johnny Terry, welterweights, signed yesterday for an eight round encounter next Friday at Rainbo Fronton. . . . Young Geho, La Salle featherweight, and Jackie Sharkey have accepted a main event at Midway arena on Feb. 12.

An amateur boxing show will be held tonight at Wonderland arena, 2934 Milwaukee avenue. Bouts include the following:

Al Soukup vs. Sam Sculia, 126.
Phil Cohen vs. Frank Schmall, 147.
Al Williams vs. Bill Hackett, 126.
Frank Talaber vs. Walter Larson [wrestling].

Entries for the Jewish Organized Youths' amateur boxing tournament at the Jewish People's institute Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday closed last night with a reported total of 225. Late entrants have been ordered to report tomorrow afternoon at the J. P. I. for their physical examinations and instructions.

Nate Lewis will instruct the boys on the proper way to train and box tomorrow.

The J. O. Y. team expects to win the trophy which will be awarded to the squad scoring the most points. Its outstanding members are: Joe Finkelstein, 175 pounds; Harold Brown, 135; Bernie Bauman, heavyweight; Sam Kaplan and Irving Goldstein, 126; Morrie Cornick, 112, and Benny Friedman, 118.

Loyola Five to Play Michigan State Tonight

Minus the services of Hal Motz, center and leading scorer, Loyola university's basketball team resumes play tonight after a three weeks' layoff against Michigan State college at East Lansing. Motz will make the trip with the team but it is extremely doubtful if he will be able to play.

Motz Out for Month.

The big center has been ailing for the last two weeks and has been ordered to rest by his physician. It is likely that he will be on the side lines for a month and it is possible that he will not be able to play the rest of the season.

Motz, one of the two veterans on the Loyola squad this season, has been carrying the scoring burden, totaling 57 points in 5 games. Capt. Jim Hogan, the only other 6 foot plus player on the team, will be shifted to center for the Michigan State game. Eddie Angsten, 5 foot 6 inch sophomore who becomes eligible for varsity competition with this game, will take Hogan's place at guard.

Team Is Small.

With Motz out of the lineup, Coach Leonard Sachs has one of the smallest teams in college cage circles. The average height of the starting lineup is under 5 feet 10 inches. Michigan State, which held Notre Dame and Marquette to one and two point victories this season, has a veteran squad of letter men and several outstanding sophomores. Maurice Buysse, sophomore center, ranks as one of the best pivot men in the country.

Probable lineups:

LOYOLA.		MICHIGAN STATE.
Schuessler	F.	Van der Roest
Frisch	F.	Patchett
Hogan	C.	Buysse
Augsten	G.	Herrick
Ash	G.	Reck

BUTTERFINGERS MEET MICHIGAN SEXTET TONIGHT

The Butterfinger Yellowjackets, runnersup to the Baby Ruths for the first half championship of the Chicago Amateur Hocky association, will play in Muskegon, Mich., tonight at the Coliseum.

The game will serve as a tuneup for the Butterfingers, who will open the second half of the local season Thursday night against the Blue Ribbons.

The Butterfingers will have Halvorsen, goal; Beda, Hall, and Laprairie on defense, and forward lines of E. Latva, Savela, Ouellette, and Crocker, Arnold and Lorey.

MICHIGAN CITY WINS.

La Porte, Ind., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Michigan City High school defeated La Porte, 31 to 24, tonight. Vergare, Michigan City center, scored 16 points.

COX SHOOTS 210; RETAINS LEAD AT AGUA CALIENTE

Hunter a Stroke Behind in $7,500 Golf Meet.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Wiffy Cox held his slim lead in the Agua Caliente open by shooting par 71 today for a 54 hole total of 210, but the golfing pack was on his heels and the Brooklyn professional's position was none too secure.

Willie Hunter turned in a fine 70 today for a total of 211, cutting a stroke from Wiffy's second round lead.

A three cornered tie for third place was established at the end of the third day's play, Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., Olin Dutra of Santa Monica, Cal., and Ky Laffoon of Denver were grouped at 214.

For the second time in two days Runyan could not collect a birdie on the second nine and had to be satisfied with a 72. Dutra returned a par 71 and Laffoon toured the course in 69, a hole in one at the 135 yard ninth helping his score.

Stanley Kertes of Los Angeles and Vic Ghezzi of Rumson, N. J., had scores of 215 for three rounds, Kertes scoring 70 today and Ghezzi 72.

The veteran Abe Espinosa of Chicago scored his third 72 in three days and was joined in the 216 bracket by Fay Coleman, young Culver City, Cal., pro. Coleman, a star amateur a few years ago, shot a sensational 67 to equal the course record.

The championship and disposition of the $7,500 prize money will be decided with the final eighteen holes tomorrow. Scores for fifty-four holes:

L. H. M'CORMICK DIES OF HEART ATTACK IN SOUTH

Wife at Deathbed of Noted Author, Inventor.

L. Hamilton McCormick of Chicago, author, inventor, and a grandson of the original McCormick of harvester fame, died yesterday of heart disease in a hotel at Miami Beach, Fla. Mr. McCormick, who was 74 years old, suffered a heart attack Tuesday from which he failed to rally. He had been in poor health for some time.

L. HAMILTON M'CORMICK.

He was a son of the first Leander J. McCormick, whose estate is one of the large holders of loop real estate, and a grandson of Robert McCormick, on whose Virginia farm the first model of the reaper was tried out before the civil war.

Had Notable Art Collection.

Born in Chicago, Mr. McCormick was graduated from Amherst college in 1881. Later he studied law at Columbia university. He also studied architecture. He never entered business, devoting his life to writing, to the perfection of a number of inventions and to the accumulation of a notable art collection.

His collection included fine bronzes, paintings of the early English and Dutch schools, old furniture and silver, enamels, rugs and armor. Part of the collection is housed in the residence at 631 Rush street which has been the family home at intervals for more than 45 years.

Married in England.

A large part of the collection was accumulated during Mr. McCormick's long residence in England. He was married in 1887 to Miss Constance Plummer of Canterbury, England, and lived in that country from the beginning of the present century until 1917, when he returned to Chicago.

Mr. McCormick patented more than a hundred inventions during his life. They included aeronautical devices, an aerial torpedo, motorcycles, and a watch which gave the time for any point in the world.

It was to writing that Mr. McCormick devoted most of his time, however. During some four decades of study he developed what he called "characterology," a system of character analysis which depended upon physical characteristics and anthropology.

Provides Trust Fund.

He wrote several books on the subject, and in 1923 established a provisional trust involving interests in several loop buildings from which the income, after the death of his wife and children, was to be used for the dissemination of his theories.

Mr. McCormick had a brother, the late R. Hall McCormick, whose son, Robert Hall McCormick, is manager of the Leander McCormick estate; and a sister, Mrs. Nettie Lord McCormick-Goodhart, who died in Maryland in 1933. Besides his widow, he is survived by three sons, Alister, Leander J. and Edward Hamilton McCormick.

Wife at Deathbed.

Mrs. McCormick was with her husband when he died yesterday, and Alister was on his way to the bedside from California. The other two sons are in England, where both maintain residences. Leander McCormick's country house, "The Heronry," in Hampshire, England, was destroyed by fire on Dec. 9. In the fire Capt. James Rodney, British war flyer, and the Duc de la Tremoille, a French nobleman, lost their lives.

Mr. McCormick's body is to be brought to Chicago for burial. Funeral arrangements will be completed with the arrival today of Alister, who is en route by airplane from Santa Barbara.

Mr. McCormick was a member of the Chicago, Casino, Onwentsia and Saddle and Cycle clubs.

COMMONS BEATS BILL TO REFORM DIVORCE CODE

Refuses to Liberalize Cause for Decree.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 2.—A plea for drastic reform of divorce laws in Great Britain was made in the house of commons today during discussion on the second reading of the matrimonial causes bill.

The bill proposed to allow a petition for divorce to be presented by either husband or wife on the grounds that the respondent since marriage had committed adultery, deserted the petitioner for at least three years, treated the petitioner with cruelty, is incurably insane and has been continuously a certified lunatic for at least five years immediately preceding the petition, is an incurable and habitual drunkard and for at least three years has been separated from the petitioner as a consequence of habitual drunkenness, or is in prison under a commuted death sentence.

Supporters of the bill insisted that hundreds of thousands of homes were miserable and the lives of children were intolerable for the reason that the basis for the union had long disappeared. They said the bill was designed to make marriages more holy and more healthy by permitting the resultant unhappiness to be terminated and end the state of affairs which made the sacrament of marriage a permanent blasphemy.

The bill met much opposition and eventually was "talked out." It will not have another chance at this session. That does not mean, however, that it is permanently dead, for, as is frequently the case when a bill is talked out, it is revised, amended and presented again at a more convenient time.

HAYES DENIES WRITING ATTACK ON ROOSEVELT

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Edward A. Hayes, national commander of the American Legion, telegraphed the New York Times today that an article in the magazine "Real America" under his signature, excerpts from which appeared in the Times today under a Chicago date line, was not only unauthorized but had been specifically disapproved by him. Mr. Hayes' telegram follows:

"Bath, N. Y., Feb. 2.—My attention just called to story appearing in page thirty-eight of your issue this date under heading "Legion Head Opens War on Roosevelt," referring to an article published under my name in magazine Real America.

"Let me advise you article attributed to me was not only unauthorized by me but manuscript submitted month ago was specifically disapproved and telegraphic instructions conveyed to author of articles directing that it should not be published.

"Legion's contentions for disabled and dependents deserve consideration on their merits and should be adopted without indulging in unwarranted attacks. Respectfully request similar space be given this statement as was given your published story regarding unauthorized article."

WIFE OF PIONEER JEWELER, 50 YEAR RESIDENT, DIES

Mrs. Antoine Kirchberg, widow of Edward Kirchberg, pioneer Chicago jeweler, died yesterday at her home at 1341 Chase avenue, following a long illness. Mrs. Kirchberg, who was widely known for her philanthropic activities, came to Chicago with her husband more than 50 years ago. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Hazel Herzog and Mrs. Antoinette Fling, and a son, Edward. Funeral services will be held Monday at the home, with burial in Rosehill cemetery.

RITES TODAY FOR MRS. L. A. TAYLOR, BANKER'S WIDOW

Mrs. Lucille Aida Taylor, 69 years old, widow of George Hooper Taylor, investment banker, died of pneumonia yesterday in her home at 1320 North Sheridan road, Lake Forest. Mr. Taylor, a partner in E. H. Rollins & Sons, died in 1922. Mrs. Taylor was born in Sacramento, Cal. Her mother, Mrs. Sarah E. Goulding, had crossed the plains in an ox drawn covered wagon. A sister, Mrs. Carrie E. Wilson, and two nephews, Errol C. and John Taylor Wilson, survive. Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock today in the home. The body will be taken to Denver for burial.

10,000 RUSSIANS ATTEND BURIAL OF THREE AIR HEROES

MOSCOW, Feb. 2.—(AP)—In the presence of Joseph Stalin and other high officials of the government the victims of soviet Russia's stratosphere catastrophe were buried in the wall of the Kremlin late today. Ten thousand persons, massed in Red square, looked on as a light snow fell.

Three volleys from Red army riflemen, concealed on ramparts of the wall, ended ceremonies for the three victims—Pavil Fedoseinko, Andrey Vasenko, and Ilya Usyskin—killed Tuesday in the crash of their balloon after having apparently set an unofficial world's altitude record. A barograph showed that they had made an ascent of 72,178 feet.

Urns containing the ashes of the three men were personally placed in the wall by L. M. Kaganovich, chairman of the All-Russian Peasants' congress; Vyacheslaff Molotov, president of the council of commissars, and Gregory K. Ordzhonokidzie, president of the supreme economic council.

THREE TEACHERS ARE INJURED IN AUTO COLLISION

Three women teachers at the Kelly High school were injured yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding collided with another car at 57th street and Drexel boulevard. Miss Mildred Moore, 41 years old, 5243 Kenwood avenue, suffered a possible fracture of the skull and was reported to be in a critical condition at the Billings Memorial hospital.

Miss Frances Smith, 42 years old, 6019 Harper avenue, suffered severe shock, and Miss Martha Hinckle, 50 years old, 5140 Woodlawn avenue, was treated for several fractured ribs, cuts, and bruises. The car in which the teachers were riding was driven by Homer Coppeck, 52 years old, a social science teacher at the school. The other car, in which Lieut. Oscar Saunders of the United States engineering corps was riding, was driven by a chauffeur, R. H. Pearson.

One death yesterday raised the 1934 Cook county motor toll to 127. The victim:

Mrs. Frances Kircenbronk, 68 years old, 3516 South St. Louis avenue. Died in St. Anthony's hospital of injuries incurred Dec. 30 when she was struck at Ogden and St. Louis avenues by an automobile driven by James Benes, 3819 Raymond avenue, Brookfield.

WILLIAM GRAHAM, VETERAN TRIBUNE EMPLOYE, DIES

William Graham, veteran compositor, who for fifteen years was in charge of making up the front page of THE TRIBUNE, died yesterday at his home, 913 North Laramie avenue, after an illness of more than a year. He was 67 years old.

WILLIAM GRAHAM.

Mr. Graham, a native of Bowling Green, Ky., came to Chicago about 1890. Before joining THE TRIBUNE he was connected with the Herald, the Record-Herald, and the Times-Herald. Surviving Mr. Graham are his widow, Mrs. Emma L. Graham; two sons, Frank and Eugene, and two daughters, Mrs. Julia O'Connor and Mrs. Mary Smith.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at an hour to be announced later.

DANIEL F. CLEARY, ELECTRICAL CHIEF AT CITY HALL, DIES

Daniel F. Cleary, for fourteen years supervisor of electrical mechanics at the City hall, died suddenly yesterday while seated at his desk in his basement office. Dr. H. O. Jones, director of medical service for the board of health, who was called, stated that death apparently was caused by heart disease.

Mr. Cleary, who was 59 years old, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his start in the city service on Thursday. Yesterday morning when he arrived for work he seemed to be in good health. He was stricken suddenly and was dead when Dr. Jones arrived.

Mr. Cleary lived at 1242 Pratt boulevard. He is survived by his widow, Anna; a son, Daniel F. Jr., and two daughters, Ruth and Mrs. Margaret Boyle, all of Chicago.

INHALATOR SAVES WIFE OF JENSEN; SALESMAN DIES

Harry Jensen, former member of the state pardon board and ex-president of the Carpenters' District council, returned to his home at 5523 Melrose street last evening to find his wife, Evelyn, 26 years old, unconscious and Edward Muehlenbeck, 29 years old, a salesman, dead in the living room.

The two had been overcome by lack of oxygen, evidently the result of a new home heating apparatus. Prompt work by inhalator squad 6 under Lieut. Roy Benson resulted in reviving Mrs. Jensen. For almost three hours the firemen worked on Muehlenbeck, but to no avail. He was finally pronounced dead.

Muehlenbeck, who lived at 3607 North St. Louis avenue, was a salesman for a vacuum cleaner concern. His wife and Mrs. Jensen are friends. Yesterday Mrs. Muehlenbeck arranged that her husband should visit Mrs. Jensen to demonstrate a vacuum cleaner. Muehlenbeck arrived at the Jensen home at 11 o'clock, just as Jensen left for his downtown offices. Jensen is connected with the Millwork and Cabinet Manufacturers' association.

WOMAN RECLUSE LEAVES $250,000; BEGAN WITH CENT

LONDON, Feb. 2. — (AP) — Emily Smith, a solitary old woman who lived in one of the lowliest districts of Paddington on the upper reaches of the Thames river, left a will which revealed today an estate of more than $250,000.

It all started from pennies. She was the daughter of a veteran of the Crimea who was in charge of the famous garden maze at Hampton Court palace, with the privilege of charging for admission.

The charge was a penny, and persons from London and the world over thronged the palace every summer for the thrill of trying to find their way out of half a mile of strange labyrinthian passages formed by hedgerows planted in the days of Charles I. The last 10 years the government has taken over the Maze—and likewise the pennies.

J. J. Bradwell, Policeman for 22 Years Here, Dies

James J. Bradwell, a member of the police force for the last 22 years, died yesterday of pneumonia at his home at 1531 North Leamington avenue. He was 50 years old. Policeman Bradwell was assigned to the detective bureau at 11th and State streets as lockup keeper at the time of his death. He is survived by his widow, Wilma; his mother, Mrs. Sarah A. Bradwell; brothers, William and Ray; and a sister, Mrs. Ethel Ballenger. Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Monday morning at St. Peter of Canisius church, 5100 North avenue, with burial in Mount Carmel cemetery.

G. M. HITCHCOCK, EX-SENATOR OF NEBRASKA, DIES

Battled for Ratification of League Treaty.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3 [Saturday].—(AP)—Gilbert M. Hitchcock, 74 years old, former United States senator from Nebraska, died early today after a week's illness from heart disease. The Omaha newspaper publisher passed on quietly at 1:05 a. m. after a protracted period of unconsciousness. Mrs. Hitchcock was at his bedside.

Mr. Hitchcock established his residence here a few months ago and shortly after that time his health became poor.

Family at Bedside.

At the Hitchcock home at the time of his death, in addition to Mrs. Hitchcock, were Mrs. Henry Doorly, his daughter; Gilbert Doorly and Mrs. Richard Young, grandchildren, and Mrs. Edmund Kauntze, sister of Mrs. Hitchcock. They came here from Omaha this week.

Mr. Hitchcock served 18 years in the senate and house. In 1917 he presented to the senate the resolution calling for a declaration of war against Germany. As chairman of the foreign relations committee of the senate in 1919 and 1920 he bore the brunt of the losing fight for ratification of the Versailles treaty with the covenant of the league of nations.

Aids Mobilization in 1917.

Both as chairman of the foreign relations committee and as a member of the military affairs committee of the senate he worked for measures to accelerate mobilization of the nation's fighting forces and their early participation in the fighting in France.

In 1920 Senator Hitchcock won the preferential votes of Nebraska Democrats for President, but withdrew at the national convention in favor of James M. Cox. In 1928 he also was Nebraska's favorite son for the presidency, but the trend toward Alfred E. Smith made his candidacy negligible. At the Chicago convention in 1932 he was chairman of the resolutions committee, and a dream of his to make the party platform brief was realized.

Mr. Hitchcock declined to be a candidate for appointment to the federal reserve board shortly after President Roosevelt was inaugurated, and asserted he would not be active in politics again. His name figured again in Nebraska politics, however, when he was mentioned recently to succeed Arthur F. Mullen as Democratic national committeeman in the event of Mullen's resignation.

Born in Omaha in 1859.

Educated for a legal career, Mr. Hitchcock left that profession after four years to become a newspaper publisher. He was born in Omaha Sept. 18, 1859, the son of United States Senator and Mrs. Phineas W. Hitchcock. In 1883 Hitchcock married Miss Jessie Crounse, the daughter of a former Nebraska governor. Two years after her death he married Miss Martha Harris of Memphis, Tenn., who was with him at the time of his death.

With three associates Hitchcock established the Omaha Evening World in 1885. After buying their interests he purchased the Morning Herald and established the Omaha World-Herald, which he published until his death.

Rites for W. W. Darling, Local Producer, Today

Funeral services for William W. Darling, 1641 East 68th street, will be held at 1506 East 67th street at 2:30 p. m. today. Mr. Darling died suddenly Wednesday of heart disease. He was 62 years old. For many years he was an orchestra leader and a producer of theatrical shows for industrial concerns and clubs in Chicago. Mr. Darling is survived by his widow and two daughters.

DOLLAR SOARS AGAINST FRANC AND STERLING

U. S. Unit Advances to 3¼c Over 'Par.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 2.—Spectacular advances were scored today by the American dollar against the principal foreign currencies, both gold and non gold, despite a heavy movement of the yellow metal toward New York which was calculated to hold down American funds.

Against the French gold franc the dollar rose nearly 1¾ cents to close at 6.2389 cents, representing a premium of about 3¼ cents over the new gold parity of 59.6 cents. The final quotation on the franc here was 6.23 cents as compared with 6.40 cents yesterday. The British pound also gave ground sharply against the dollar and closed at $4.88, off 10 cents for the day and the lowest figure touched by the pound in more than 3 months.

Other Currencies Drop.

Other currencies also retreated against the buoyant dollar with the Canadian dollar closing 99 cents as compared with 99.437 cents last night in American funds.

The advance in the dollar was preceded by earlier gains in the dollar in the London and Paris markets. In London the rise in dollar and the new American gold price of $35 an ounce started a rush for gold and gold mining shares. Gold reached the record figure of 139 shillings 6 pence and principal gold stocks skyrocketed.

Temporarily at least the French franc was abandoned as the gold measuring stick for world currencies and the London gold market was taken as the real index of gold's worth in terms of leading funds.

Scramble for Gold.

The Bank of Manhattan company was the winner in the scramble for £440,000 gold available today in the London open market, obtaining the bulk of the supply at a record high price in sterling made possible by the premium over its new par value at which the dollar continued to sell in the foreign exchange market.

The Bank of Manhattan company's shipment of $4,650,000 follows a purchase of $3,500,000 yesterday, also in the London market, by the National City bank. The National City's consignment is coming on the Berengaria. In addition, two shipments of $3,200,000 each are on route here for government account, the first lot being due on the President Roosevelt on Sunday.

Others Buy French Gold.

Other banks and banking firms continued to make arrangements for French gold imports. The import flood tide probably will be delayed until next week, it was said, due in part to the shortage of ocean cargo space to transport the metal. Bankers reported no difficulty in getting gold from the Bank of France.

The bazaars of India have been found a profitable shopping center for agents of American banks seeking to profit by the spread between the world price for gold and the $35 per ounce which the United States treasury is willing to pay for it. The National City bank is one New York institution to report today the accumulation of approximately $1,000,000 in gold at Bombay.

LONDON MARKET "WILD"

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 2.—London financial markets ran wild today over American dollar developments. The price of gold jumped this morning another four shillings per ounce to 139 shillings 6 pence, or close to the $35 an ounce offered by the United States. At that price about $4,200,000 worth was sold.

It is suspected here that much of the gold purchased today had come from France and the rumor is growing that France may place an embargo on gold shipments to countries off the gold standard, including the United States.

At the same time it is known that large quantities of hoarded British gold now are coming into the market. At the new price the golden sovereign is worth 32 shillings instead of 20 and this is proving an effective magnet to draw the metal from bank vaults and stockings.

Dutch Gold for U. S.

Four tons of gold valued at nearly $4,500,000 arrived by two air liners at Croydon airdome this afternoon from Amsterdam. The metal, packed in 77 cases, immediately was sent by rail to Southampton for shipment to the United States.

In view of the current belief that Holland would not part with gold to America, the arrival was the subject of considerable interest to London financial circles. At present it is not clear whether gold really represents Dutch possession or whether it was merely temporarily held in Amsterdam on account of some foreign interest.

Ship Gold from France.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The rush of gold to America from France because of President Roosevelt's devaluation policy began today with the shipment of 120,000,000 francs of gold [approximately $7,668,000].

At the dollar's highest rate in terms of the franc today, $1 would buy almost $1.07 in gold.

Reserve Rate Cut Sets Stage for Credit Rise

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The stage has now been set for the big drive by the Roosevelt administration to force an expansion of credit as a complement to the price raising step by the official devaluation of the dollar at 59.06 per cent of its gold parity. Such was the interpretation placed by La Salle street on the reduction of the rediscount rate by the Federal Reserve bank of New York.

To bankers who regard the move with mixed hope and misgiving the step was a logical one, in view of the known policies of the administration. It is one more move which fits neatly into the planned economic pattern which the administration has been building since the President took office.

Results Are Unknown.

The campaign to force an expansion of credit begins more auspiciously, financiers declare, than did the similar attempts made during the Hoover administration. What the result will be, however, is a question which few bankers are prepared to answer.

As in the past, under both Republican and Democratic administrations, the federal reserve system is being used to prepare the market for the government's financing. This practice has been frequently criticised in high places by those who believe that the system should not be subservient to the government.

Predict Reserve Decline.

The tendency, however, is all in that direction, and many are now predicting the days of the reserve system are numbered as far as being a potent force in the nation's monetary affairs.

Directors of the Chicago Reserve bank met yesterday but did not follow the lead of the New York bank on the rate cut. The customary "No announcement to make" statement was forthcoming from officials of the reserve bank here. Directors of the Cleveland Reserve bank cut its rate from 2½ to 2, or now ½ per cent under Chicago.

The Chicago bank's statement was ambiguous as it often is. On at least one occasion, however, it meant that the directors here were distinctly opposed to rate cuts as in 1928 when directors here held out until the federal reserve board in Washington forced a reduction.

Position Not Certain.

Whether the reserve bank here would stand out again as it did on that occasion is not known. A check of the list of directors here, however, shows that they tend toward the "hard headed" business man type which is inclined to bridle when Washington attempts to dictate policies which they regard with suspicion.

The reports of the reserve member banks indicated that they are being pliant to the wishes of the administration. They continue to add government bonds to their portfolio in substantial blocks. The New York and Chicago banks last week bought upwards of 300 millions of government issues.

CLEVELAND BANK OFFICIALS ADMIT STOCK POOL LOAN

Cleveland, O., Feb. 2.—(AP)—An admission that funds of the closed Standard Trust bank were borrowed for stock market pool operations by President C. Stirling Smith and Director Alvanley Johnston, was drawn from the two men today as their trial for misapplication of funds drew toward a close.

The state brought out this testimony in cross-examination, and immediately thereafter the defense rested with rebuttal reservations. Arguments will be presented Monday.

On trial with Smith and Johnston, who is grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, is James H. Cassell, secretary-treasurer of the brotherhood and an officer of the bank before it failed in 1931.

The stock market operations were brought to light when the cross-examination of state's attorneys disclosed loans of $49,776 and $9,000 made at the bank in Johnston's name.

Smith testified that some of the profits of the pool operations—$53,000—had been returned to the bank in the form of payments on loans obtained at the institution by other officers.

OVERLAND PLANT TO RESUME WORK IN FEW WEEKS

Toledo, O., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The Willys-Overland company plant will resume operation within three weeks after Federal Judge George P. Hahn signs an order, probably Wednesday, on the issue of receivers' certificates, David R. Wilson, receiver, announced today. Continuous operation thereafter is expected.

Orders for steel will be given at once after the court acts, Wilson said. About 2,500 workers will be employed in the plant here, 600 in the subsidiary plant in Elmira, N. Y., 600 in the Pontiac plant of the Wilson Foundry company, Pontiac, Mich., and 250 in the assembly plant in Los Angeles.

Willys is expected to turn out 250 cars a day in the Toledo plant, Wilson said.

STOCKS SEESAW IN CALM TRADE; LEADERS LOWER

Traders Await New Monetary Phases.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 2.—Having done its customary obeisance to the latest move in the Roosevelt monetary program, the share market settled back to its old stride today. Dealings tapered off to around 2,880,000 shares and price movements zigzagged lazily to no particular end. The final quotations were no better than irregular, with most of the leaders of the two day bull demonstration slightly lower due to profit taking. Trading was concentrated in a small group of issues, sixteen stocks accounting for approximately one-fourth of the total turnover.

Speculative interest continued to center in the monetary situation, particularly in the return movement of gold which took flight when dollar stabilization was such an uncertainty some months ago. Observers, however, could not tell that the influx was having any particular effect on buying and selling operations on the exchange.

Lower Reserve Rate Ignored.

The reduction of the rediscount rate at the New York Federal Reserve, announced overnight, was likewise without special effect. The situation seemed to be that having bought so lavishly for two sessions, traders had decided either to take their profits or stand by and await some further development with an important market bearing. What business news there was catered to the constructive side.

Metal and sugar stock groups provided the feature of the day's operations on the exchange. Some of the silver issues were particularly buoyant and active. U. S. Smelting rose nearly 5 points to the best price on record.

Strength of the silver stocks in face of a falling market for the white metal is explained by the fact that silver output is bought at 64 cents an ounce by the treasury regardless of the open market price. That is lifting the production of silver and the profits of the producers. Gold stocks were inclined to do better.

Sugar Shares Strong.

In the sugar share group American Sugar rose more than 3 points on a brisk turnover and Cuban-American and Great Western bettered their standings by a point or so each.

Reports of federal intervention in their price fixing activities caused the shares of distillery companies to sell off.

National Biscuit, which lost two points yesterday, dropped another one today. Other food shares were sluggish.

Comment from labor leaders relative to conditions in the automobile field around Detroit appeared to take the edge off motor and affiliated shares for the moment at least. Traders were a bit wary of overextending themselves in that direction until the skies clear a bit.

STEEL INDUSTRY SEES BONANZA IN NEW WATERWAY

Youngstown, O., Feb. 2.—(AP)—A belief that a veritable bonanza for the steel industry here—lower freight rates—is imminent gained strength among civic leaders today, based on assurances of federal support for the long sought channelization of the Beaver and Mahoning rivers.

Unofficial sources in Washington yesterday and today disclosed the $17,000,000 project has been approved by the rivers and harbors board of the war department.

Only three further obstacles remain to be hurdled and none is considered here likely to cause long delay. The first of these is the needed recommendation of Maj. Gen. Edward Markham, chief of the army engineers. The second is the report of the congressional committee on rivers and harbors.

Gen. Markham already is known to be friendly to the project and the committee only rarely reverses the engineers' reports. With approval from these two, only the process of providing a federal appropriation would remain.

The purpose of the channel is to give Youngstown steel a direct access by water to the Ohio river.

Procter & Gamble Employes Get $354,840 Stock Profit

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Distribution of $354,840 in profit-sharing dividends to employés in the United States and Canada in 1933 was announced today by officials of the Procter & Gamble Co. The profit-sharing plan is based on employé stock ownership.

Brokers' Collateral Loans Increase During January

New York, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Aggregate collateral borrowings of New York Stock Exchange members on Jan. 31 were $903,074,507, against $845,182,524 on Dec. 31 and $359,341,058 at the end of January last year, the exchange reported today.

Illinois Bell Income Below 1933 Dividend

Net income of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, a subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, for the year 1933, amounted to $10,408,059, or $6.94 a share on the capital stock outstanding, F. O. Hale, president, reported to stockholders yesterday. Since the net income fell short by $1,591,941 of covering dividends at the usual rate of 8 per cent, the amount was appropriated from surplus and the regular disbursements were made.

In 1932 the company reported a net income of $10,125,021, which was equivalent to $6.75 per share. Then, too, it was necessary to appropriate $1,874,979 in order to pay the regular dividends of $12,000,000.

Cites Return On Property.

Net earnings for 1933 available for fixed charges amounted to $13,419,084, which, according to President Hale, is at the rate of 4.15 per cent on the average cost of the property and other assets in use during the year. In the preceding year net earnings of $13,318,454 were at the rate of 4.56 per cent on the average book cost of the physical property.

While total operating revenues contracted from $78,461,719 for 1932 to $72,865,859 for last year, current maintenance was curtailed from $13,812,913 to $12,934,829, depreciation from $13,822,001 to $11,791,272, and operating rents from $1,198,649 to $1,139,128.

Current assets as of Dec. 31, 1933, were $24,630,324, and current liabilities $3,929,967.

Phones in Use Decline.

The company reported for the year a net decrease of 52,130 in subscribers' stations, which was substantially less than that of the preceding year, amounting to 174,676. The entire loss for last year occurred in the first eight months; from Sept. 1 to Dec. 31 there was a net gain of 6,253 telephones.

New construction for 1933 demanded gross expenditures of $15,563,379, of which the principal items were $3,527,186 for land and buildings, $875,700 for switchboard and other equipment in telephone exchanges; $9,131,701 for subscribers' station equipment; and $1,329,027 for exchange and toll lines. The year's net increase in plant and equipment was $1,363,204. In 1932 gross expenditures for new construction were $17,725,378, and the net increase $1,531,326.

The total number of employés was reduced from 25,029 as at Dec. 31, 1932, to 23,502 as at Dec. 31, 1933. At the same time pay roll expenditures fell from $34,874,515 to $30,432,050.

COUNTY FUND DEPOSIT LAW HELD INVALID

Oregon, Ill., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The emergency law limiting deposits of county collectors to 75 per cent of the total capital and surplus of banks designated as depositories by county boards, enacted by Illinois legislature in 1932, was declared invalid by Circuit Judge Harry Edwards of Dixon here today.

"Any legislative act which relieves a treasurer and his bond from responsibility could not be valid without making some other provisions for the safeguarding of public funds," the court ruled.

SEARS-ROEBUCK SALES 30.2% OVER YR. AGO; RURAL BUYING RISES

Further evidence of the tremendous impetus that farm buying power has received from enhanced prices of farm products and "easy" federal money, is furnished in the current sales report of Sears, Roebuck & Co. covering the period from Jan. 2 to 29.

Aggregate sales expanded 30.2 per cent over the same 1933 period, standing at $20,286,475, against $15,661,617 for the corresponding four weeks a year earlier.

This is the third large mail order concern to report large increases in the last few days. Montgomery Ward & Co. revealed a gain in mail order sales of 70 per cent for January and Spiegel, May, Stern company, Inc., reported an improvement for 1933 of 90 per cent.

For the thirteen periods from Jan. 30, 1933, to Jan. 29, 1934, Sears sales amounted to $289,289,347, compared with $276,714,397 in the 1932 period, an improvement of 4.5 per cent.

SEVERAL ROADS PLACE ENGINE AND CAR ORDERS

Several leading railroads yesterday placed orders for locomotives and rolling stock or indicated desire for purchases.

The New York, Chicago and St. Louis ordered 15 freight locomotives from the American Locomotive company or more than were built for all railroads in 1932 and 1933. Previously this company had ordered five switching engines and 20 large tenders from the Lima Locomotive company.

The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific inquired for 30 engines and the Lehigh Valley for five engines. An order for ten locomotives by the Northern Pacific from the Baldwin Locomotive works is awaiting the completion of financing.

The American Car and Foundry company received an order for 2,975 freight cars from the Van Sweringen railroads. It was reported that these lines had allocated 3,050 cars to the Pullman Manufacturing company and 2,250 cars to the General American Transportation corporation.

All these transactions were financed or will be through the public works administration as part of the Washington administration's program to stimulate the heavy industries.

STEEL OUTPUT AT YOUNGSTOWN INCREASED AGAIN

Youngstown, O., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Steel production in the Youngstown district rose from 40 to about 45 per cent of capacity with the lighting of several additional open hearth furnaces by Republic Steel corporation.

A survey showed forty-one of the eighty-three open hearth furnaces in the district operating, a gain of five over the number in use at the beginning of the week.

Additional automobile orders are responsible for the increase, which is expected to be extended next week.

Du Pont Plans a New Bonus; Lauds System

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 2.—Stockholders of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. will be asked at the annual meeting on March 12 to ratify the action of the directors in approving a new form of bonus plan and a new form of executives' stock purchase and merit bonus plan, according to a letter sent to shareholders by Lammot du Pont, president.

"Over recent years," Mr. du Pont said, "some doubts have been raised in the mind of the public as to the desirability of plans involving bonuses to corporate employés. The du Pont company has employed such plans for nearly thirty years and is still quite definitely of the opinion that the policy of rewarding especially meritorious services, by some extra form of compensation, particularly in a form which involves stock ownership in the company, has been and still is one of the strongest elements in the success of the company."

Mr. du Pont revealed that the average annual bonus payments by the company, under all plans, was $1,819,720 during the period from 1927 to 1932, inclusive. The following table shows bonus payments in this period:

Year.	Total Bonuses.	*Net Income Before Deducting Bonuses.	Per Cent of Bonuses to Income.
1927	$1,283,586	$18,376,804	6.98
1928	2,405,110	28,657,922	8.39
1929	4,098,120	39,409,691	10.3
1930	1,694,040	24,792,169	6.83
1931	1,322,309	24,641,822	5.36
1932	115,155	13,920,077	.82
Average	$1,819,720	$24,966,314	7.29

*Exclusive of General Motors dividends.

"The directors," Mr. du Pont said, "authorized the officers to modify the procedure under the bonus plan with respect to bonus awards granted during the current year. This modification was considered advisable because of the view expressed by the federal trade commission that the investment of bonus awards in stock under the plan would subject your company to the requirements of the present provisions of the federal securities act of 1933.

Two Classes of Bonuses.

"Under the bonus plans, two classes of awards are permitted. Class A awards, which are made irrespective of the company's earnings, are granted for conspicuous service of any nature, such as inventions or special accomplishments by employés.

"Class B awards, which are made to employés who have contributed in a general way to the company's success, through loyalty and efficiency, are financed out of a fund which may represent an annual amount not exceeding 7½ per cent of the surplus net receipts above 6 per cent of open capital employed by the company, excluding assets which are primarily investments.

"Under the executives' stock purchase and merit bonus plan, men in managerial posts are rewarded through similar distributions based on surplus net receipts each year."

Deere & Co. Reports Big Loss, but Prospects Are Improved

Operations of Deere & Co. in the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, last, resulted in large inroads into profit and loss surplus, the company's annual report, issued yesterday, revealed.

Net loss after taxes and charges totaled $4,835,308, against loss of $5,167,104 before a writedown in connection with inventory adjustments of $533,925 in the preceding twelve months. Preferred dividends of $310,000 were paid during the year, along with the loss cut surplus of $14,114,650 at the beginning of the period to $9,469,341 on Oct. 31, 1933.

Working Capital Lower.

Quick assets on the latter date aggregated $45,216,850 and current liabilities $2,425,489, against $54,170,565 and $6,769,814 respectively a year earlier, leaving net working capital of $42,791,360, compared with $47,400,761.

William Butterworth, chairman, in his message to stockholders, said that conditions in the implement industry began to improve in May, 1933, and that the sales volume has shown steady increases since, resulting in a slightly better showing. Collecti is also improved, he said, enabling the company to better its financial condition.

Reports Prospects Improve.

"The government index of farm prices as of Dec. 15, 1933, shows an increase of 31 per cent in prices received for farm products over the same date of 1932," Mr. Butterworth said. "Deere & Co. has reflected this advance to some extent. An increase in demand and correspondingly better prices for farm products may be expected from the continuation of the gradual upward trend of domestic and foreign business. A further expansion in farm income, which seems probable, will mean an increase in the volume of the company's business."

At the annual meeting April 24, stockholders will be asked to approve a reduction in authorized preferred and common stock of 350,060 and 77,186 shares respectively, to the amounts actually outstanding, to conform with provisions of the new Illinois corporation act, the report says.

Rise in Retail Sales Is Chief Trade Factor

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 2.—Improvement in retail sales was an outstanding feature of trade and business trends in January, which revealed "a definite revival in all branches," Dun & Bradstreet said in their weekly trade review today. In many sections retail business reached the largest totals for any January since 1929, with volume "distributed more evenly to all departments, instead of being confined to those where clearance events were in progress."

"The semi-stabilization of the dollar," continued the review, "has allayed unrest on that score and will allow business to proceed with more surety. The retail gains of the previous week not only extended, but a steadier broadening spread benefits to a greater diversity of merchandise. The small remaining stocks of heavy wearing apparel were practically depleted by the development of this unexpected demand.

Clearance Sales Boost Trade.

"The final week of the special clearance sales of linens, white goods, furniture, rugs, and house furnishings brought to a close probably the best January that retailers have experienced in four years, as the total volume of business rose from 10 to 25 per cent above that of the comparative month of 1933.

"Wholesale markets are now getting into full swing, as orders increase from week to week, with buyers expressing some concern about receiving their merchandise in time for the initial openings of spring goods early in March, due to Easter falling on April 1 this year.

"Based on the strength of consumer demand during December and January, retailers have set their buying budgets from 15 to 40 per cent ahead of last year's, with the highest percentage of increase noted in men's and women's wearing apparel, hardware, farm equipment, shoes, and dry goods."

Barometers Show Upturn.

A moderate upturn was recorded for the final week of January by the Dun-Bradstreet business activity barometer. The composite index rose from 61.1 for the week preceding to 61.8, or an increase of 0.7 points, this slight rise following two periods of declines. At its present position the barometer compared with 48.9 in the corresponding week of 1933, or an increase of 26.4 per cent.

The Dun-Bradstreet monthly commodity index also gained 2 per cent during January, standing at $9.0110 on Feb. 1, compared with $8.8229 on Jan. 1 and $6.5324 on Feb. 1, 1933. With the exception of last Oct. 1 the index has reached the highest point since April 1, 1933, when it stood at $9.2291. The gain over a year ago was almost 38 per cent.

STATES, TOWNS CUT EXPENSES BILLION A YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—Despite heavy costs of idle relief, total annual savings of approximately one billion dollars have been made in state and local expenditures from the high peak of public spending, it is estimated in a report made by the committee on state and local expenditures of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"Thousands of our communities," the report says, "are more tax and more debt conscious than in a generation. Hundreds of tax committees and research agencies are striving for economy and efficiency in fiscal affairs. However, unless there is unremitting vigilance there is danger that the country will lose the marked gains it has made."

The committee warns against "blind, horizontal cuts" and urges that there be such scrutiny of spending as to bring about the most judicious pruning possible in the public interest.

FREIGHT TOTAL RISES 18.2 PCT. ABOVE YEAR AGO

Up 1,136 Cars Over Preceding Week.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—Revenue freight loadings on American railroads last week gained 1,136 cars to a total of 561,566, but the increase over car loadings for the corresponding week a year ago was 86,374 cars, or 18.2 per cent, according to the American Railway association.

The rise from the preceding week was slightly below the seasonal trend. The largest increases were in miscellaneous freight and less than carload lots of merchandise.

Total loadings for the year have aggregated 2,177,562 cars, as compared with 1,924,208 cars in the corresponding period in 1933 and 2,266,771 cars in the corresponding 1932 period.

Changes by Classifications.

Miscellaneous freight loaded during the week ended Jan. 27 was 193,251 cars, an increase of 2,540 over the preceding week, 39,220 over 1933, and 10,234 above 1932. Less than carlot merchandise, 161,840, increased 1,341 over the preceding week and 1,083 over 1933. Grain and grain products, 31,694; decreased 472 below the preceding week, but 6,370 higher than last year. Forest products, 20,615, increased 963 over the preceding week, 6,176 over 1933, and 1,651 over 1932.

Ore, 3,192 cars, a decrease of 10 cars below the preceding week, but increases of 1,666 above 1933 and 376 above 1932. Coal, 124,758, a decrease of 2,048 below the preceding week, but increases of 27,404 above 1933 and 16,597 above 1932. Coke, 7,696, a decrease of 651 below the preceding week, but increases of 3,236 over 1933 and 2,491 over 1932. Live stock, 18,520, an increase of 468 over the preceding week and 1,119 above 1933, but 2,705 below 1932.

AIR TRANSPORT CONCERNS CARRY 550,000 IN 1933

Total passenger traffic of air transport lines in the United States increased to about 550,000 in 1933 from 504,575 in the preceding year, officials of the United Air lines reported yesterday. The number of passengers carried by United Air lines rose from 89,000 in 1932 to 127,593 last year. Much of the gain was made at Chicago.

Express traffic of air transport lines in the United States expanded from 1,324,428 pounds in 1932 to about 1,660,000 in 1933. All lines flew approximately 52,000,000 miles on regular schedule during 1933, against 48,000,000 in 1932.

New York, Feb. 2.—Prices of domestic bonds continued to advance in an active market today. The strength and activity of the market yesterday spurred traders and investors here and in interior points to swell their commitments. The scope of the movement was broad enough to embrace gilt-edged issues which of late have been neglected.

In fact, the market most of the day was featured by the rise in high grade rails, industrials, and utilities, some of which attained new tops for the advance.

Average Best Since 1931.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE average of 46 domestic corporation bonds touched the highest level since 1931 as these issues were bid up fractionally to 3 points and in a few instances as much as 7 points.

Transfers totaled $26,601,000, par value, against $26,189,000 on Thursday. This was again the largest aggregate since March 20, 1930.

The advance in high grade corporate issues was coincident with strong demand at rising prices for United States government securities, chiefly attributed to reduction in the federal reserve rediscount rate. Gains averaging a quarter point were scored by long term treasury issues.

Secondary Liens Strongest.

While high grade bonds were advancing fractions, second grade issues were being carried up another 1 or 2 points, thus narrowing still further the spread between these two classes. Two of the Western Union bonds went through their old highs, as did Postal Telegraph 5s. Other features were Utilities Power 5s and 5½s, Hudson and Manhattan refunding 5s, Mobile and Ohio 4½s and 5s, Nickel Plate, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Erie and Kansas City Southern bonds.

South Americans continued to gain under the lead of Argentines, French, Dutch, and British issues sold off as the dollar advanced.

Reynolds Tobacco.

Investors' Guide: Why the difference between Reynolds Tobacco A and B stocks? What can you tell me about the company?—O. V. T.

Answer: R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company was the pioneer in concentrating selling efforts on one popular priced brand of cigarets. As a result the company is reputed to be the second largest domestic cigaret producer. In addition to Camel cigarets, it produces Prince Albert smoking tobacco, chewing tobaccos, and scrap tobaccos.

Two sharp cuts in wholesale prices of cigarets in 1933, totaling $1.35 a thousand, showed their effects in earnings for the year. Net income before a $5,004,000 profit [40 cents a share] on class B stock sold, was $16,150,000, or $1.62 per combined common and class B shares. In addition, a $4,000,000 advertising reserve carried over from 1932 was used up.

This compared with net income of $32,676,000, or $3.37 per share, for 1932, against $36,397,000, or $3.64 per share, for 1931. Net for 1930 was $34,257,000, against $32,211,000 for 1929, and $30,173,000 for 1928.

Cuts in wholesale prices were prompted by competition from "roll your own" cigaret tobacco and cheaper cigarets. The cuts, however, were sufficient to maintain previous years' volume.

In the tobacco purchasing agreement between the government and the leading companies last fall the companies received permission to increase the wholesale price from $5.50 a thousand to $6 a thousand, plus additional costs from the processing tax and NRA expenses. On Jan. 10, 1934, prices were raised to $6.10 a thousand. The additional costs it is estimated, were greater than 10 cents a thousand, which just about equaled the processing tax, not taking into consideration higher costs of material and labor. The price increase, however, will add about $58,300,000 additional gross revenues a year to the four leading cigaret producers.

At the close of 1933 cash assets of almost $50,000,000 compared with total current liabilities of $5,344,000.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 1,000,000 shares of $10 par common and 9,000,000 shares of $10 class B stock. The provisions of the two series of stock are identical except that the class B has no voting power.

The stock pays 75 cents a quarter. It is high grade.

CHARGE SHIPPING CODE WILL HURT ILLINOIS EXPORTS

Manufacturers Make Plea for Revisions.

BY WILLIAM YATES.

Charges that incalculable harm will be worked on foreign trade of Illinois and other middle western states by increased freight rates contemplated under the new shipping code, and an urgent plea for revision or elimination of objectionable features were made to the National Recovery Administration yesterday by the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

A brief containing the objections was formally presented to W. H. Davis, NRA administrator, by James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the association, who outlined in Washington details of the document.

Declare Preferences Given.

"In addition to seriously handicapping shipments in foreign commerce, higher freight rates will establish increased prices for many commodities," the brief contends. "It will take from American exporters the right to choose those facilities which are best suited to their needs and to pay rates accordingly.

"It will increase the cost of American goods abroad with no corresponding advantage except to a relatively few shipping companies, who will receive more money for operating fewer ships."

The trade body concludes its argument by predicting adoption of the code will result in decreasing employment in manufacturing, transportation, loading and operating vessels.

Obstacle to Recovery.

It is pointed out that development of foreign trade is highly essential to the welfare of industry not only in Illinois but all of the United States and any program which materially raises transportation rates for export presents a formidable obstacle to recovery of this branch of commerce.

The extent to which exports of the middle west have fallen during the depression is described in a detailed analysis which shows that the total in 1929 of $1,305,713,662 had fallen to $272,373,697 in 1932.

Of the latter figure Illinois supplied $66,958,484 with farm products accounting for an appreciable percentage. Aggressive efforts are being made to recover a portion of this business, it is argued, but objectionable features of the code will materially hamper this activity.

Would Increase Prices.

"In addition to seriously handicapping shipments in foreign commerce, higher freight rates will establish increased prices for many commodities," the brief contends. "It will take from American exporters the right to choose those facilities which are best suited to their needs and to pay rates accordingly.

"It will increase the cost of American goods abroad with no corresponding advantage except to a relatively few shipping companies, who will receive more money for operating fewer ships."

The trade body concludes its argument by predicting adoption of the code will result in decreasing employment in manufacturing, transportation, loading and operating vessels.

FEDERAL SUGAR CONTROL ACCORD BELIEVED NEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—The sugar problem, one of the most vexing commodity questions facing the administration, approached a solution tonight as preliminary agreements on policy were reached at a White House conference between President Roosevelt and administration officials.

The only official word was vouchsafed by Sumner Welles, assistant secretary of state, who said the President had authorized that "preliminary agreements on policy have been reached on sugar in general."

But behind that statement, it was learned, lay a decision to recommend to Congress that sugar be made a basic commodity in the Agricultural Adjustment act, thereby giving the government authority to check production, assess processing taxes and assign quotas to domestic producing areas and important foreign and insular producing areas alike.

21 NATIONS ASKED TO O. K. DRASTIC WHEAT CONTROL

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Twenty-one governments that subscribed to a world wheat pact last fall were called on tonight by their advisory commission to consider further drastic proposals to rehabilitate wheat.

Among the projects were plans to upset the temporary low price barrier on exports and recommendations for abolishing or curbing subsidies and increasing consumption of the commodity, it was learned authoritatively. It was understood that a minimum price fixing scheme was included in the report.

The proposals were contained in a confidential report drawn up by delegates of 15 nations who are members of the international wheat advisory commission.

When the commission reassembles in Rome on April 5 the governments are expected to have given full consideration to the proposals and be ready to act.

DETROIT BANKER LAYS COLLAPSE TO FORD'S ACTION

Threatened to Withdraw Deposits, He Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—The collapse of the Wayne First National Bank of Detroit, commonly known as the First National, was blamed today by the former chairman of its board of directors on the following factors:

1. The refusal of Henry Ford to "play ball."

2. The refusal of the Reconstruction Finance corporation to lend the bank a substantial sum.

3. An alleged statement of the chief national bank examiner in the Detroit area that the bank had undesirable assets to the amount of $200,000,000.

These charges were made today before the senate banking and currency committee by Wilson W. Mills, who was chairman of the bank when the Michigan banking structure collapsed in February, 1933.

Could Have Reopened, He Says.

"The First National," Mills testified, "would have opened on Tuesday, Feb. 14, 1933, and conducted its business, had it not been for the attitude of the Ford Motor company which then stated that if the Guardian [Union Guardian Trust company] were not permitted to open, the Ford Motor company would withdraw its own and its controled deposits amounting to about $30,000,000 from the First National, the first thing Tuesday morning."

Mills, who was in the witness chair all day, insisted that the bank was solvent at the time it was closed. It was weathering the storm, he declared, when, without warning the Ford company assumed a defiant attitude.

Gets One Reason From Ford.

"Why Mr. Ford should state he would withdraw an enormous deposit from the First National unless another and entirely separate and competing institution was saved is to me unknown," said Mills.

Under cross-examination by Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, Mills remembered that Henry Ford had given him at least one of his reasons for refusing to freeze his $20,000,000 on deposit in the First National, which was that the government had gone to the aid of The Dawes Bank in Chicago, and there was no reason in Mr. Ford's opinion why it should not also come to the rescue of the Detroit institution.

"Shudders" Over Couzens.

Pecora read into the record a letter Mills had written in 1931 to Henry N. Robinson, California banker and a close friend of former President Hoover.

"Frankly I shudder when I consider our senior senator," the letter said, in part, as committee members including Senator Couzens, [Rep., Mich.], to whom it referred, laughed aloud.

"I haven't the remotest idea—possibly he hasn't—what his reaction will be to approaching legislation of the home loan bank board. I wish he were a more normal and not such an erratic individual."

HEDGING, PROFIT TAKING CANCEL ADVANCE OF LARD

Lard futures advanced yesterday with the gains in hogs but profit taking and hedge sales on the advance resulted in a loss of early gains. At the close lard futures were unchanged to 5 cents lower.

Cash lard was not wanted to any extent and prices dropped 5 cents for regular to a level of $5.80. Loose lard was off 12½ cents to $5.07½, while leaf was unchanged at $5.12½.

Future deliveries of bellies were 5 cents higher for old May and new July and unchanged for new May. Cash trade in bellies and side meats was good; bellies were unchanged at $7. Pork loins sold well at 8½ to 9½ cents.

Liverpool lard was 6d higher. Export clearances of lard were 407,966 pounds and of bacon 12,000 pounds. Prices:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Cotton goods markets were quieter today, but prices were very firm. Sales for the week are reported as having exceeded current production. Sales of 100 denier viscose rayon yarns have taken up possible production for the immediate future. Knitters are still buying steadily. Wool and worsted dress fabrics are selling better, while men's wear lines are quiet. Burlaps were quiet. Sheer price dyed silks and silk prints are in moderate call.

RAW SILK.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Raw silk futures closed steady, ½c lower to 1c higher. Sales, 1,070 bales. March, $1.49 bid; May, $1.50 bid; July, $1.50 bid. Open market quotations [60 day basis]: Shanghai steam filature, 78 per cent seriplane, 20-22s, $1.55; Canton double extra A, 14-16s, $1.25; Japanese special crack double extra, 81 per cent seriplane, 13-15s, $1.30.

RUBBER.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Crude rubber futures closed steady, 4@7 points lower. March, 9.35c; May, 10.22c; July, 19.50@10.51c; September, 10.73@10.74c. Smoked ribbed spot closed 9.82c, nominal.

HIDE FUTURES.

Trade in hide futures in New York yesterday was fairly active; prices declined 10@22 points. Sales aggregated 2,660,000 lbs. Closing bids: March, 10.35c; June, 11.55c; September, 11.70c; December, 12c.

FEDERAL BUYING AGAIN ADVANCES PRICES OF HOGS

Desirable Classes Jump 25 to 50 Cents.

Buyers of the Federal Surplus Relief corporation here yesterday drove the market for light and medium weight hogs up 25 to 50 cents to the highest level since the middle of November. It was the sharpest one day rise in many months. Top prices soared to $4.50, showing a gain of 50 points over the high mark Thursday and $1 advance in eight days.

The general average reached $4.

Nearly all of the action was in the 240 pound averages and lighter weights that suited relief buyers. As packers are confronted with $1.50 per hundred weight tax on top of the price they pay for hogs there is little zest to the trade for anything that is too heavy for the federal buyers.

Packer Hogs Barely Steady.

Yesterday's market for "house" hogs subject to the tax closed barely steady with the average of Thursday To work on a basis of $4, the price established by federal buyers yesterday, packers point out that they must move supplies into the wholesale pork trade on a basis of $5.50 live costs, including the $1.50 per hundredweight tax. While the pork trade is greatly improved over a year ago and better than it has been for some weeks, there is nothing in it that warrants the rise in hog prices that federal buying has brought about, the smaller houses who deal mostly in fresh pork complain.

With all but "government" hogs meeting an undependable market, the range of prices was widest since early last October, and unusually wide for early in February. The top and average prices were 50 cents apart. These two prices earlier in the week showed a spread of only 20 cents.

U. S. Cattle Buying Halted.

Federal buyers completed their four weeks' buying program in canner cows, which ruled weak to 25 cents lower yesterday, when government buyers failed to appear with new orders. Other cattle were bought up by packers at generally steady prices. It was reported in the trade, however, that packers expect to start buying for the account of the relief corporation again Monday.

The quality of cattle yesterday was good for a Friday, and choice 1,123 pound steers reached $6.85, while the bulk cashed at $4.50 to $6.35.

Lambs soared to new high marks on short receipts. Packers bought wooled stock up to $9.65, highest since June, 1931. A year ago yesterday the top was only $5.85 for similar kinds. Matured stock shared in the rise and sold at the highest February prices in four years.

ALLEGED BUTTER MANIPULATION WILL BE SIFTED

Exchange Expected to Investigate.

Appointment of a committee by President L. D. Schreiber of the Chicago Mercantile exchange to investigate alleged manipulation of the market in cash butter is expected today.

The specific charge on which the inquiry is to be launched centered on a deal last Saturday, when a broker acting for a large dairy concern which is under contract to supply the government with millions of pounds of butter, was said to have refused to pay 20½ cents a pound for a certain lot and asked instead that the price be raised to 21 cents.

U. S. Pays on Average Top Prices.

Under the dairy concern's agreement the government pays on the basis of the weekly average top quotations for fresh extras, in which quotations have had three daily rises of 1 cent each since Saturday, the last occurring yesterday, when the price rose to 24 cents.

Officials of the exchange were reluctant to comment on the transaction, asserting nothing has been proved. However, one spokesman declared the organization will push its inquiry despite the fact that government activity in the market is aimed at higher prices.

"All dealings must be conducted in approved fashion and we will tolerate no rigging of the market," he said. "Manipulation constitutes a major violation of our rules and conviction carries with it a maximum penalty of expulsion.

Price Spread Wider.

Under terms of the government contract butter delivered may either be fresh or storage extras, but the price paid is based on fresh extras. The recent advance in price has been faster in fresh than in storage butter.

A differential of 1 cent a pound in favor of fresh prevailed a week ago, while yesterday this had widened to 2½ cents. The average for the week is 2¼ cents.

BUTTER HITS NEW HIGHS, THEN REACTS; EGGS FIRM

Butter futures advanced to new highs on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, but reacted at the close and ended unchanged to ½c higher. Egg futures were also unchanged to ½c higher. March potatoes closed 5c lower and April 5c higher.

Another gain of 1c in the cash market stimulated buying of butter futures, but at the close profit taking and new selling developed strongly and the advance was lost. All offerings of extras were taken on the cash boards and the market moved up to 24c, the highest point of the last five months. Eggs were quiet.

April potatoes opened at $2.65 and sold actively at that price. The 20c spread between March and April induced sellers to switch to the later month.

Sales: Butter, 107 cars; eggs, 32 cars; potatoes, 28 cars. Prices:

LONDON WOOL.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The first series of wool auction sales closed today with 5,305 bales offered, of which 4,052 were sold. An excellent selection of merinos and crossbreeds were ordered for sale and met good competition. Values eased towards the end of the series, but satisfactory clearances were made. Merinos were 10 per cent dearer than the closing prices of the last series, while crossbreeds were greasy north were 10 to 15 per cent higher, fine scoureds 15 to 20 per cent and others 10 to 15 per cent higher. Slipes, Cape of Good Hope and South American grades sold 10 to 15 per cent higher. The home trade purchased 3,200 bales, the continent's 55,600, while 15,000 bales were held over for the next series.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK Feb. 2.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil was barely steady today, closing net unchanged to 4 points lower under liquidation and scattered commission house selling, prompted by the disappointing action of other commodities. A report from Washington said that the house ways and means committee had voted to retain the 5 cent a pound import duty on cocoanut and sesame oil but this report apparently had no influence. Sales were 15 contracts. Bleachable spot nominal. March closed 4.93c, May 5.08c, July 5.29c, Sept. 5.46.

COTTON GAINS SLIGHTLY DESPITE LAG IN BUYING

Buying orders for cotton futures came from the continent yesterday, but were not as heavy as for several days. Trade buying was fair, but professionals were not so active.

At the close futures were around the lows, with Chicago 1 to 5 points net higher and other markets 3 to 7 points net higher. Spots were up 5 points in New York, Houston, and Galveston, the former being 11.80 cents. Houston 11.45 cents, and Galveston 11.50 cents. New Orleans gained 15 points to 11.55 cents. Liverpool closed 9 points net higher.

Spinners' takings for the week were 264,000 bales, compared with 256,000 bales last week. The into sight movement of 129,000 bales compared with 150,000 bales the previous week. Prices:

Mistrial Declared in Touhy Case; Deadlocked Jury 8 to 4 for Conviction—Sankey Pal Sent West for Trial

JURY IN TOUHY TRIAL DISCHARGED AFTER MEMBERS ARE UNABLE TO AGREE AFTER DAY'S ARGUING.
